Interview with Rev. J. Johnston, 36 Park Lane, Stoke Newington

Mr Johnston is Minister of the Wesleyan Memorial Church, (Congregational) Albion Road, Stoke Newington. The part which he considers as especially his district is bounded roughly by Clissold Park and Church St on the north, Kipland Road on the east, Newington Green on the south and Green Lanes on the west.

Mr Johnston is a venerable grey-haired old Scotchman of about 70; in appearance exceedingly like Lord Kelvin; and coming from the same town Glasgow. He is evidently a man of great culture; and a very fluent talker with a great command of language, and an easy choice of words.

He has been in this district for 27 years.

The district is roughly divided into two parts by Albion Road: to the west of this is a fairly

Character of population.

W. to do middle class district: to the east
a purely working class district, the greater part of which is in that part of South Haring which is entirely surrounded by London: this of course is not coloured on our map. In Johnston however you see a good deal into the streets south of St-Matthias Road, which are in London.

The middle class streets are rapidly becoming a Jewish preserve: "they have entered into possession of the land and are eating it up."
It immediately adjoins Highbury, of which they have been in possession for many years. (Ten years ago 1/4 of the inhabitants of Highbury
New Park were Jews: now they probably number 1/2 or one half) - now they have spread to the east of Green Lanes, and take almost every house as it falls vacant. Their desire to be near their Synagogue and their own people leads them to give very high rents. The Christians in the district are nearly all something in the city; many are well off but many are struggling & people who live up to and

beyond their income

The poorer part of his district Mr Johnston describes as on the whole very poor but steadily becoming poorer. The group of postical streets in South Hamsay (Shakespearean, Milton etc) used to be known as The Freehold: it was built many years ago as a result of some movement started by Cobden and Bright for encouraging people to buy the freehold of their houses. When Mr Johnston came most of the freeholders were still living there but they have now without exception become absentees, and the houses are occupied by two or three families. All these streets are poor; but still poorer, and with a squalid poverty, are the streets immediately to the S. south of St. Matthias Road, especially one ^{which} ~~is~~ (of which Mr Johnston could not recall the name); this has the character of being one of the worst streets in both London, and is the resort of many criminals. In these streets there is a good deal of one-roomed life.

The church is seated for 1000. "at the bed it is not half full", from 300 to 400
is the average congregation.

In Mr Johnston's opinion Stoke Newington
and Islington are greatly over-churches. Originally they were strongholds of the Evangelical party:
then the high churchmen began to build - (Mr Beck known as "the lay Pope of Stoke Newington
built the two detached churches of ~~St Faith~~
~~and St Mathias~~ ^{St Faith} and St Saviour) - and the Evangelicals responded by building more churches
and chapels, with the result that the accommodation
for all parties is largely in excess of the requirements. When Mr Pearson came the only church in the neighborhood was the parish church which was worked on old fashioned
and sleepy lines. The advent of Mr Shelton who at once put four curates into the parish has led to an immense revival of church work. These things combined with the influx of Jews on one side and the increasing poverty on the other, have led to a great reduction in Mr Johnston's expenditures.

Mr Johnston would much prefer that Churches should combine on un denominational basis for social purposes: he does not think it the duty of clergy & and ministers ^{to} to take part in social work: "but he has been rather driven into it by the church". Cooperation however appears to be hopeless even for social purposes, owing to the warlike jealousy of both sides but especially of the Church. Mr Johnston is on excellent terms with Mr Shelford and when he meets them in the street on perfectly friendly terms with all his Church neighbours, but they all of them to some extent and the High Church men especially, look upon him as "an impostor"; he does not name them:

it is only the logical conclusion of the opinions they hold: even the best of them believe in 'apostolic succession' though "it is monstrous to cling to such figments at the end of the 19th century": Mr Pixie of St Faith's in whose parish Mr Johnston's church stands, though quite friendly when they meet, is especially vigorous in denouncing him as an impostor: his sisters go about telling people that Mr J. has no power to baptize children, and that if baptized by him they are certain to go to Hell: last year a bazaar was held at which was opened by the Lord Mayor and which Mr Shelford promised to attend if Mr Pixie did not object: Mr Pixie however "could not countenance the work of an impostor" and threatened to denounce Mr Shelford to the Bishop if he put in an appearance: he followed this up by complaining at the Mansion House of the action of the Lord Mayor. This attitude, which is common to all the High Church party, makes cooperation for any purpose

impossible.

At this point he drifted into theology. I suggested that the animus of the Churchmen was perhaps partly due to their belief of the charge that the Congregationalists were becoming loose in doctrine: that many of them were becoming "Unitarians or something worse". This charge Mr Johnston warmly repudiates, and in a very eloquent little sermon of about 10 minutes, beautifully phrased and most impressively delivered, he explained the position to me, the gist of it being, that there is no church which so firmly believes in the Deity of Christ as the Congregational Churches as a whole: it is the cornerstone of their faith: but their distinguishing note is "a great catholicity of sentiment" which leads some of their ministers to use expressions which are tortured in unkindly minds into Unitarianism. But these men are very few in number, and it is because they are so few that they are so much heard of.

Education.

Visit.

Charitable Relief.

Nursing

218
There is a Middle Class School with about 150 scholars, the fees being from 10/6 to 21/ a quarter. The school is exceedingly successful.

The Sunday School has about 500 children.

Mr Johnston visits every day, chiefly in the poorer quarters: he has been here so long that he is well known, and is often sent for in cases of illness or distress.

The district visitors distribute tracts and report cases of sickness.

There is a Benevolent Fund in the winter which however does not amount to much more than £10: this is spent exclusively on people who are not connected with the church, and is devoted to cases of urgent necessity. Tickets are given, no money. "If there was no drink, there would be no Benevolent Fund."

There is a parish nurse at Shelton's, and arrangements are in progress for a ~~new~~ second.

General influence of Whigism.

Poor Law Administration.

23
These are paid for by a committee of all denominations.

Mr Johnston thinks people are mistaken who say that Whigism has lost its hold on the working class: of his own congregation only three or four are employers: the majority are well-to-do artisans, shoemakers, carpenters etc, but few or none come from the poorest streets in his district; to get hold of the very poor seems impossible; but there are some who do not in their hearts ^{accept the claims of Whigism} Mr Johnston complains of complete lack of success among the Jews.

The great need in Poor Law administration is decentralisation and less red tape: the relieving officers have practically autocratic power: the guardians know nothing of the applicants for relief and are obliged to accept the guidance of the relieving officers, who have not time to make much enquiry beyond the story of the applicant - "which as a rule they don't believe." The result

is that as often as not the wrong people get out-cried, and the wrong people have to go into the house. There should be some system of small local committees of people who really know the poor: the result would be that
the law would be administered "more economically,
more wisely, and more kindly".

Nearly all the poverty is caused or aggravated by drink: the life of the British workman is "one mispent shilling". Some new houses have recently been built opposite Mr
Johnson, who used to watch the workmen:
they regularly adjourned to the Public House two or three times every morning, and some of them
were usually more or less drunk by 11 o'clock.

The Working Men's clubs in the district are "centres of immorality of every kind" but especially
of drink: they are simply "Public Houses
without any restriction". The Guildway Radical Club is the largest. Mr Johnston knows none
of the members but a member of his congregation

Prostitution.

Police.

Health.

Thrift

27
Have been taken in, and give a very bad account of it.

Church Path used to be a great haunt of prostitutes, but the police have now cleared it, and several brothels in the neighbourhood have been closed.

Mrs Johnston believes the majority of the police to be above corruption, but undoubtedly many of them are secured by politicians.

Mrs Johnston a short time ago called the attention of one to a drunken man staggering out of a public house, and was told to mind her own business.

Even in the poorest parts of South Hovey, the health of this district is marvellous good. This is due largely to the splendid gravel soil.

The artisans on the whole seem a very thrifty

29
lot: great use is made of Building Societies, especially the Leeds Building Society - and the Post Office Savings Bank. However if anything there is less thrift than there was, owing to the increasing craving for pleasure.

Among the middle class there are a very large number of struggling people living up to their last farthing.

Mr Johnston complains of the growing looseness in the behavior of women and girls, not only in the matter of drink, but generally; the girls he says are taking to smoking cigarettes, and the new woman idea is spreading downwards. A good many of them read the works of Grant Allen and Co, and those who do not read about them. There is too a great increase in drink among middle class women who do not go into public houses, and Mr J. has known of many sad cases in his immediate neighborhood. This he attributes entirely to women's habits.

Though most favorably impressed with Mr Johnston at the beginning of our interview, I was rather less so at the end. He a little bored me with the exceeding readiness and familiarity of his opinions. Still I should say he is an excellent-
old man who does much active and useful work among his people. But his chief interest I think is in theology.

Interview with Rev. T. Dixon Rutherford, Abney
Congregational Church, Stoke Newington.

Mr Rutherford is a young man of about 26. This is his first charge. He came here straight from Mansfield College, Oxford, where he studied Theology for three years.

He is good looking young fellow: fair with light hair and moustache: quite unclerical in appearance: dressed like a layman in jacket, and no white tie. He was smoking and offered me
a cigar.

The district which Mr Rutherford considers
as specially his covers practically everything between Clapton Common and Clissold Park, and includes all the working class streets just south
of his church, and the poorer streets just east of Stoke Newington Common.

With few exceptions the poorer people are of
the artisan class, and the only place where there are any very poor is in Bull Alley. Some poor and disreputable houses about Smalley St. have lately been pulled down and the tenants have disappeared. Most of the poor are engaged in warehouses in the city or in the neighbouring shops.

The bulk of his people he describes as lower middle class, practically all in the city; not one in ten is an employer. They are an easy going lot, deficient in education, and sadly wanting in public or municipal spirit. The women as a rule are better educated and more intelligent than the men. The children generally are educated at the Green's School.

On an average the congregation is from 500 to 700 morning and evening. "I want to be on the safe side: last Sunday there were over 700 at both services." The number of members on the Roll at the end of 1896 was 589. Women largely preponderate, but this is because the people come in families, and for some reason there are more girls than boys in the families. The fathers always come with their families.

There is a Sunday evening service at the Mission Hall, which is at present very badly attended, not more than 50. This is due to the failure of the present Missionary; the last one used to get over 300. About 1/2 of those who come are of the poor class.

Mr. Rutherford wishes that they quite fail to get hold of the artisan class. He had a meeting of protest on the Cuban Question, in his lecture Hall, and the place was full of working men whom he never sees at Church.

A strong Literary Society; or strong at all events in numbers; though they show a tendency to prefer to get lecturers from outside rather than carry on debates among themselves. In the winter they have six lectures; two debates; musical and social evenings.

Mr Rutherford objects to the division of people into clergy and laymen; anything which is the duty of a layman is ~~as~~ equally the duty of the so-called clergyman; and all good social or political work is spiritual work.

Sunday School; about 600 at the Church and 200 at the Mission. About 250 of the scholars are young people over 15.

There is a Benevolent Society which spends about £60 a year; another £60 is spent in making pensions to old people; and £60 in sending children to the country in the summer.

Though he does not work with the C.O.S. Mr Rutherford has C.O.S. views on which, and thinks that the money spent usually does more harm than good.

Mr Rutherford is a Sunderland man, and is struck by the sobriety here in comparison with that in the north.

Though very friendly, Mr Rutherford was rather shy and reserved, and not easy to get much out of. This I think is due largely to a genuine modesty; he realizes that he is a very young man whose experience does not entitle him to speak with authority. He is I think a keen politician, and a type of those who ~~do~~ consider it the duty of a minister to take an active part in social and political questions. He is evidently a good deal troubled as to the connection between Christianity and social problems, and has a leaning towards socialism, though he said "My duty is to preach Christ: I am only a student of socialism". He has several socialists among his congregation, and showed me an interesting letter just received from one of them, to which he was greatly troubled as to how to reply; the man felt no doubt as to his duty as far as he was concerned, but wished to know how far he was justified in pushing his principles to a logical conclusion, in view of the fact that he had a wife and children.

Mr. Rutherford expressed much greater sympathy with the High Churchmen than with the Evangelicals in the English Church; this he thinks is a logical position, and the Evangelicals should become Dissenters.

Rev. Joseph Johnson. 80 Rectory R. U.

Mr. Johnson is a Primitive Methodist minister & has 3 churches under his charge, viz. at Kingland, Stoke Newington & Stamford Hill. He is a comparatively young man, rather heavy looking, fair & tall, seemed rather sad, but is depressed by wife's illness. Could not get him to talk much either of himself or his work, just ~~an~~ expression of satisfaction with the increase of membership since it has been under his care & with the completeness of organizations, but that was all, beyond immediate answers to questions put.

The class reached are in each case mainly working people but there are a few better - to do amongst them.

There are two ministers employed & paid [himself & Rev. F. S. Chelms] & a circuit missionary. There are 10 unpaid preachers, & a large number of voluntary workers, who help in various ways.

At Stoke Newington there are 10 Society classes for men & women, at Castle St. six, & Blundell R. two. Each class has its leader & assistant, the minister taking some of the classes, but most of them being conducted by voluntary workers.

Each chapel has its committee & there are various church offices - such as Society Stewards, Secretaries & Chapel Stewards, pew stewards, precentors, representatives to circuit quarterly meetings &c. - all voluntarily filled - & a Bible & Prayer Union a branch of the British & Foreign Bible Society &c. There is also an evangelistic band for each church.

Under each of the 2 chapels there is a large school, with class rooms. At Stoke Newington the accommodation

The Stoke Newington Work is very successful. The Chapel holds 600 & is generally full. The building which was erected on the site of an old public House, & some poor dilapidated houses was opened about 9 years ago, & aroused considerable interest at the time. W^m I commenced his ministrations there with 67 members & has now 257.

Kingsland is an older church having been founded in 1875. They get the place about $\frac{3}{4}$ full, & have 124 members.

The Olinda Road work is of the character of a mission, & has only been started about 12 months. There are about 40 members. The building was formerly known as Beulah.

Hall, it was ~~formerly~~ occupied by the agapemontes [Free Love sect]. They get the place about half filled at the Sunday Service.

A remarkable feature about the services is that fully half the congregation are males. This he thinks is partly because the people have a larger share in the government work of the Church than is the case in most denominations.

There is a band of Hope connected with each place of worship, but no adult temperance organization, their whole work being in the direction of temperance.

There are also a Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavour, a young Womens Friendly Society [more especially for servants] & a slate club connected with each chapel. The total membership of the latter is nearly 500 & includes a number of men who do not belong to the denomination at all.

They have no mothers meeting. W^m D. being of opinion that these institutions are abused. - women go for what they can get, & some get help who do not at all need it. He mentioned instances of this in connection with another church.

intercourse or business connected with the movement.

The circuit has no day or evening school, but there is a Sunday School at each place of worship, with a combined total of 400 to 500 scholars.

The circuit missionary gives his whole time to visiting, & both ministers give a certain amount of time to it. There is an honorary visiting secretary, who takes note of anyone absent from the services & arranges for the absent one to be "looked up." Class leaders also arrange for their sick members to be visited. There are various church officers & members who undertake this duty as required.

There is no paid agency or organization for nursing the sick, but the people do it for one another. A good deal is done voluntarily in this way.

About 40% of a year is spent in charitable work. There is a benevolent fund for which offerings are taken at the sacraments, & in special cases of need an appeal is made from the pulpit & a collection taken. A few old people are sent into the country for a week. Charitable assistance is not absolutely confined to members of their own church.

Both Church of England & Nonconformist are active in Stoke Newington & the people are very well looked after there being a great deal of voluntary work done & much charity distributed but without any co-operation between the churches.

In Kingsland much less is possible. There is a lack of leisured people & the work is left mainly to the ministers.

At Clapton Hall the Plymouth Brethren are very active. They have a big mothers meeting.

Mr Johnson has not much knowledge of the affairs of the district ^{as far} from religious work. ^{But} knowing some of the men responsible, believes that Local Govt & Poor-law are well & honestly administered, & regards the police as with some exceptions a fine & honourable class of men. Several are members of his churches.

Drunk he believes to be on the increase.

Early marriages are not usual amongst those he comes in contact with. Those he marries are generally from 20 to 30 years old.

The Xtran community are thrifty but not as a rule, he thinks, the poorer class outside.

Housing in Stoke Newington is good & leaves little to be desired. In Kingsland there is gradual improvement. The People are much more concerned about sanitary matters than they used to be. & will not put up with bad conditions as they formerly did.

Rev. G. Hay Morgan. B.S. Pastor of Woodberry Down Baptist
Chapel. Seven Sisters R^d

I met Mr Morgan at 11^{a.m.} at his residence, in Woodberry Grove - A very comfortable well furnished modern middle class house, with nice gardens. On being shown in to his study Mr M advanced from a cloud of tobacco smoke to shake me cordially by the hand & invite me to join him in the cigarette of peace. A clean shaven youngish man with a strong intelligent face. I at once set him down as able, clear-headed, & practical - a good speaker & well up in the "business" necessary to interest & keep together a flourishing congregation.

Hard

The church is a rather handsome building & stands just a little way outside Metropolitan boundary, which is here formed by the New River. It was built about 15 years ago. Mr M. has been here 7 years.

^{new views} The population is a curiously mixed one. South of the - (i.e. within the metropolitan area) the people are well-to-do & even quite rich, crossing the bridge & so entering Tottenham Parish, we find, on the hollows on either side of the Seven Sisters R.

first several streets of small modern houses. inhabited by Clerks artizans &c, with incomes of from £100 to £200 a year, & then a little farther up a quite poor & rough colony. The latter was brought here at the time Liverpool Street Station was built, the Gt. Eastern Ry. Co. building a large number of small houses here near their St. James Station for the use of the poor people displaced when the Liverpool site was cleared. Old Tottenham folk date the deterioration of their parish from that event.

Mr Morgan claims that the ministrations of his church reached all classes in the locality & that he has succeeded in getting hold of the poor in a way that his predecessor failed to do. His 600 church members [a net increase of 50 during last year] include the richest & the poorest, & the latter he says have been secured without in any way pauperising them. It is easy to get them to chapel if you bid them to come; this they have not done. but have only helped them to help themselves. To what extent this is correct may be best gathered from the account of the charitable board work later.

The only persons employed are the pastor [who receives about £450 a year from pew rents], a bible woman paid

£40 a year & a chapel keeper. There is a good deal of voluntary work done by a large number of helpers. There are 7 deacons 11 elders about 50 Sunday School teachers [mostly women] class leaders & secretaries or other officers of various social or religious agencies.

There are a number of class-rooms underneath the chapel, these are used nearly every night. The situation of the chapel itself makes it unnecessary to have any separate mission building.

Religious services & meetings are held as follows:-

Sunday. morning & evening services
Worshippers prayer meeting
childrens services morning & evening [held at same times as adult services]
Sunday School & Bible class for Men & Women.
Bright hour or open air meeting after evening service

Monday. Prayer Meeting at 8 p.m.

Wednesday. Public Service

Thursday. Mothers Meeting bible class

At the Sunday morning service the chapel [which has seats for about 1000] is comfortably full the congregation including a sprinkling of better class working people. In the evening the building is quite full, & several quite poor people attend.

The number of scholars on the books of the Sunday School is 589, & average attendance 413. The morning & evening childrens service get about 80 children. The School has a branch of the International Bible Reading Association with 210 members.

The Bible classes are not much of a success, that for young women having only an attendance of 10, whilst of the mens class the church reports states that it has been the theatre of a great many conflicting elements, as well high rent asunder, but a shadow of its former self though "the remnant are animated by a dauntless spirit". The present chairman [only lately appointed] had "almost insuperable difficulties bequeathed him by his predecessor, but is hopeful of the future. The report speaks with praise of the literary efforts of our essayists.

In regard to the "Bright Hour" open air meetings, which are continued as indoor meetings in the winter, the report rejoices at the number of passers by who have stopped to listen, but is compelled to add that "as regards its primary object it has thus far almost entirely failed; for it was designed to attract those denizens of Woodberry Town who do not attend any House of Prayer. But very, very few of these have been lured with comfortable words. If only these people could be induced to attend one meeting, we should secure them altogether. It is the initiatory process which is the almost despairing problem. The meetings however have been deeply appreciated by a large proportion of those who attend the chapel services.

Of social agencies there are plenty in connection with this church, & in working for them scope is found for the efforts of a few retired well-to-do men & a considerable number of ladies.

There are 5 working parties of ladies who make garments for the heathen, or for the families of poor ministers, or for zemana work, or for poor families in the district, or for maternity cases. The ladies interested in this last branch of work, known as the Maternity Socy visited & relieved 34 cases during the year, giving each woman 2/- & a parcel of groceries. The maternity ladies only got together about £12 for their work. Whilst the zemana workers raised some ^{sh} 50

Then there is the Young Helpers League which sews for St. Barnabas Homes & keeps a cot going out of the proceeds; & a Young Peoples Society of Christian Endeavour which has a senior branch with 90 members & a junior branch with 60. This Society makes small articles of clothing & collects magazines, bottles or other unconsidered trifles for the black people; it has a visiting & flower committee which supplies flowers for the pulpit & afterwards takes them round to sick members of the Church; it also has social meetings & has lately embarked on open air meetings on Sunday afternoons.

Another branch of the work of the Church is termed the "Home Missions" & is under the charge of Mr C. J. Whately a retired tradesman. The Monday Prayer Meeting & the Thursday Bible Class for Mothers are ^{under} his charge & the interest in both is well sustained, the class having 45 members. 9 mothers have joined the church during the year; a medical aid fund, & an emergency fund. The latter has been founded for lending money in cases of extreme need or difficulty. More than £20 has been lent during the year in sums of 2/6 to £2 & in most cases it has been faithfully returned. The medical aid fund provides a doctor to attend to the poor & pays him a small fee - 1/- for each visit, & 6/- for each case seen at the surgery. By this means the mission gets a footing in the homes in times of sickness, in the hope that it may retain its hold afterwards.

The mission last year gave £10 odd in soup to the poor, distributed meat, bread, grocery, & coal tickets [and not stated] & gave a free Xmas dinner to 192 families [768 people] at a cost of £34. Somewhere about £100 a year is given away or spent by the mission.

Unwaged. Other social agencies must be mentioned a mens social club & a girls club both of which meet in the rooms beneath the chapel on two evenings a week. The mens club is maintained by voluntary subscriptions, the members paying nothing apparently being given in addition to the ordinary club privileges, an annual supper & refreshments at various times. There are about 100 members in more or less regular attendance. The girls a very rough class of factory & flower girls are given a winter & a summer treat & are amused with entertainments & games.

There is also a cricket & lawn tennis club, to the expenses of which honorary members contribute largely, & a boys guild which brings together a number of rough lads once a week for gymnastics, entertainments or readings.

Yet another useful feature is a small charwomen & servants agency by means of which employment has been found for a number of the poorer members of the church, in the families of the richer portion of the congregation.

Visiting

Care of the Sick

Putting all these agencies together, the number of workers or participators would seem to be very considerable, but it must be remembered that to a large extent they are in the nature of a stage army. The same names appear again & again. The ladies who are in the Sunday School on Sunday afterwards are in the open air meeting at night, in the mothers meeting on Monday, the working parties on Wednesday, & so on. Similarly is it with those who are the recipients of the different forms of assistance.

In addition to the visiting done directly or indirectly by the social agencies, the paid Bible woman constantly visits the homes & is assisted by a band of ladies [volunteers]. The pastor of course makes calls to some extent & the elders look after absent members.

Poor members of the Church are assisted out of the Church Poor Fund, which is raised by collections at the monthly communion. Last year grants were made to the amount of £55. This relief is also managed by Mr. Matthews [of the Home Mission], so that no overlapping takes place between the two agencies.

Other Religious Influences.

Drink & Temperance Work.

The people of Woodbury Town come under the influence also of the Church of England [which has a mission Hall here] & of the London City Mission, which has one of its agents stationed on the spot. A great deal is done, & a good deal of ~~charity~~ ^{charity} given, but there is absolutely no co-operation between the religious bodies. They find again & again, after they have relieved what they thought to be a quite destitute case that the persons had already been assisted by one two or even three other charities. In such a small compact district they might certainly have active co-operation.

Drink is very prevalent & leads to a good deal of harm. They try to counteract its influence in various ways. They have a flourishing Band of Hope which has a gymnasium & a somewhat ~~unsuccessful~~ Gospel Temperance Society but there is also a branch of the British Women's Temperance Society with 120 members. The lady in charge of this reports that "Temperance work this year has made a greater stand than in any previous year" An increased stability & interest. An effort has been made to induce the mothers to sign a paper promising not to allow their children to fetch beer from the public house, & many mothers are doing this.

best to prevent this. This alarm of the Church, had been aroused by the fact that two workers counted 113 children coming out of a single house on Sunday night, after church time in about 10 minutes.

Not much prostitution prevails, but a good deal of loose morality. Those who have been living together without marriage & are very loth to come to ~~the~~ be married & can only be got to do so by coming with other couples.

Thrift or the reverse amongst the low class at Woodberry Down is largely a question of drink. If they gave up the drink they become careful, but if they do not drink everything goes. He has known many cases of poverty arise from lack of thrift.

The houses in Woodberry Down are very built, but in most cases the people can keep them nice if they like. Many people say that if you give the poor good houses they will become better but he has not found this so. Working families have little respect for the kind of house they live in & pull down banisters & pull up the floors without much compunction. Some

Of the houses in Jewkesbury R^d [the worst street in the district
are in a very bad state & largely from this cause.

Altogether, Mr. W's account of Woodberry Town suggests a happy go lucky population who have a high old time. When times are good & money is about they eat & drink & are merry. When the bad time comes or sickness intervenes they have but to wish & a good fairy appears from one or more of the rival sects & ministers to their needs. Enough has been done apparently to have converted every mother's son & daughter of them two or three times over, but still the war cry goes forth - very courageously yet with little hope one fears - "Woodberry Town shall be for Christ", but it is not by any means yet.

Interview with the Rev. George Martin, Minister of the Upper Clapton Congregational Church, High Road, Upper Clapton, at Rowden House, High Road.

The minister has only been at Clapton for about 18 months. His previous minister had been at Upper Norwood (for 4 years) & at Lewisham High Road (for 20 years). He is a type of the highly respectable minister of a (mainly) respectable congregation.
If he had been stationed there many years he might have been compared with his neighbour Mr. Kingford of the Church of England. He is a Nonconformist parallel ^(of 20 years standing) of the Rowden dean - less impressive & less genial, & of course with nothing of the priest about him, but living in the same kind of comfortable house;
interested primarily in his chapel & its services; & I think, looking out on the social activities of his congregation & on the special claims of the poor, with sympathy, but from the little ministerial perspective of one whose first duty is to increase the church membership and to preach the word. He is getting to be an old man, & belongs to an old school, but on his own list his success at Clapton has been remarkable. But the social he fights are somewhat weakening, the love of gain & the love of pleasure, & general religious indifference & doubt.

He would by no means endorse in uttermost view (v. p 41) that all good social political work is spiritual work. He sees for all that they should be "actually united to Christ by personal faith", & is suspicious of the modern critical spirit, which makes an assured faith more difficult for many & weakens the authority of the Bible.

With regard to Clapton, he said that while the idea was for it to become more populous & for smaller houses to be built (this nearly always happens when a lease falls in of one of the old houses with garden etc) it would remain for a considerable time a comparatively well-to-do neighborhood. As our people are mainly well-to-do, with a few very rich, but also with some very poor, "we have some one-roomed people" in the streets lying behind the Chapel which is on the West-side of the High Road).

There is a good deal of local spirit & affection. As compared with Northwood a larger proportion of the people living at Clapton are still actively engaged in business. Northwood is not only more depressed than well-to-do, but more

Besides the minister only a Bible Nurse is paid, the only

Including 45 Sunday School Teachers, the total voluntary workers would be nearly 100. But he had never before tried to make an estimate. The large number of Societies etc.
described in the Manual for the year shows that there must be a large band of co-workers.

The new afternoon service are run on Gospel lines. The object, as stated in the Manual is "to attract to the services of the Church those for Christ's work of the afternoon class & other who, from one cause or another, have hitherto held aloof."

Other forms of more missionary activity are the Summer outdoor service & Winter Mission service of the Young People's Soc. of Christian Endeavour. In the spring of 1896 the Soc. started a "Cyclists Gospel Band" "to carry the Gospel to the villages & small towns round London by means of the Cycle" as the Manual puts it - in a cyclical C - (another form of religious exercise!).

Propaganda

The Cycle: Gospel Band.

His point of view.

The spirit of criticism.

Sabbath-breaking.

Detects no special class-indifference.

Mr. Martin, in spite of the success of his own ministry, (the Church membership now stands at about 360, some 135 having joined since Mr. Martin came), takes rather a gloomy view of the religious outlook. Worldliness & indifference to religion generally are the prevalent things in these times, but his impression is that the love of gain & of pleasure rather than actual opposition to religion are to be contended with. He was at the point that he reported the mischief & unsettlement caused by the spirit of criticism that was abroad, & broke out on the awful amount of Sabbath-breaking both among rich & poor. He was particularly severe on the well-to-do Sunday goers.

But he by no means thinks that the wide-spread apathy is peculiar to any class. Perhaps the skilled working-man is as hard to get hold of as anybody, but as a matter of fact on cross town "conferences" & "openings" of the advantage "revival" & such new members include shop-keepers & working-men, the quite poor & the rich, & with apparently the above reservation, he detects no class-indifference.

Visiting

In all his own work Mr. Martin would seem to confine his attention to his own congregation. Most of the propaganda is done for the church, but very little of it by the minister. He holds the landing-net, but does not fish.

In visiting he mainly confines himself to cases "of distress & sadness". He tries to know his people as much as possible, but has no systematic of visiting among them. There is "a good deal of meddling among the congregation"; & this he tries to foster, venturing in this connection his "pastoral at-home". He has, as usual, a fixed night at the vestry to see people - [the non-conformist substitute for the Confessional].

Nursing

Most of the nursing would be done by the Bible-Nurse, but there is a great deal of kindness shown by the people themselves. Mr. Martin seems confident that if any one is ^{trouble} in one or who would take any necessary steps would be sure to hear of it, & that the sick person would be looked after.

Other church - No cooperation

There are several large well-attended church & chapels in the district, but neither with these nor any other outside agency does not seem to be much co-operative. "We do our own work" & although there is no objection to co-operate, "we find that we ^{have} plenty to do". Perhaps the result of working alone is a "little overlapping", he admitted, but thought that they were apparently superseded by the fact that his church had a tradition & included "some very experienced workers". In this connection it is worthy of note that the church of St Michael & All Angels contributed £15 towards the expense of the Bible Nurse, a proof of the warm sympathy & approval of the unsectarian character of her work.

Interview with the Rev. Peter Carmichael B.D. 20 Alwyne Square, Canonbury, N.

Dr. Carmichael is bald-headed, head turning grey, about 50 years of age: very Scotch: very cheery: he is presbyterian minister at the Park Park Church in Governor Road, Highbury.

Dr. Carmichael has been here 12½ years. Up till 1893 he was colleague of Dr. Edmund at this church.

His congregation is a very scattered one. Some come two miles to church. Three-fourths are Scotch or nearly related to Scotchmen i.e. either sons or grandsons of Scotchmen. The remaining quarter are English.
'We claim that the Presbyterian Church has a right to be considered English as well as Scotch now.'
'They are puritans in the best sense of the word.
very strict about Sabbath keeping. Very many would not dream of travelling on a Sunday. They are all

all well-to-do. Such of them as are families live in houses rented between £40 & £60 a year. A few pay £60 or £80 but not many. The young men of his congregation are mostly employed in the City at Banks. The young women are nearly all in the Post Office - Of 90 young members of the Church 45 are men & the same number women. In all the number of adult church members is 468.

The better class are shewing a tendency to leave, to move further out to Highgate, Epping and Enfield. I have lost many in this way, people who were rich both in spirit & material wealth. This is especially true of families. Those that remain are young men & women who are lodgers & not householders. Thus although the number of church members has rather increased than otherwise the number of church sittings that are rented has greatly decreased. Formerly with a Church membership of 450, 700 sittings would be rented because one member might mean 10 seats (for his family); now the membership is 468 and only 450 ^{sittings} are let.

Those who have taken the place of the families that have gone

Entry of the Jews.

Church going

gone are Jews. Not the best Jews or the worst, not the richest or the poorest but the 'in-betweeners'. Their entry into the district has been a gradual thing for the last 10 years but it received a great impetus on the opening of the Synagogue in Poets road 5 years ago. Landlords don't like them as tenants for gentiles will very rarely lodge in the same house as a Jew but they seem to accept them all the same.

The church has felt very much the departure of the families. Families are settled & set the tone of a congregation & create the habit of church going. Leakage comes where you have mainly young people. Young men who have attended every service every Sunday in their native towns come up to London ~~where~~ & find church going the exception. If you do not get hold of them in the first 8 months you never get them as long as they are single. When they marry & have children there comes the question of baptism: this connects them easily with the church ^{again} & often is the way to complete return. But marriage about here more often means the departure of the young couple from the neighbourhood: houses are too large & too dear: they move

Indications of a return of the rich.

Dislike to basements

Young men & Church going

to another district. So that marriage as things are means loss.
Dr. Carmichael hopes that the rich families who have ^{left} may some day return. There is already a slight tendency this way. Epping & Infield are getting filled up. The houses there, are jerry-built & insanitary. Then as their families have become adults the cost of several season tickets has induced many heads to come up to town again. ^{pay a little more as rent but save the} But at present he said there were only indications of this return, insufficient to enable him to look forward to it as a certainty - Still I beg & pray that these good old houses about here may not be pulled down to make room for half a dozen new small ones; if that once happens there will be no return!

People have now a strange dislike to houses with basements you will have noticed that the houses built to suit the present demand are without them: This he said might seem a small point but it had had a very real effect in making people less willing to come back.

Then he returned to the question of leakage. The church had tried to get hold of young men coming to town by means of letters from their native ministers, but they had had found that young men regarded it as an infringement of their independence, so he has dropped this means. Just lately (3 months ago) there was a conference of the Free Churches in Islington to consider the question: as a result 40,000 houses were visited & a special appeal was made to all who were not connected with some other denomination to come to church on October 10th. I certainly saw a good many $\frac{1}{2}$ new faces on that day so it had some effect, but I don't think it will really lead to any permanent improvement. Perhaps however I am maligning my young men & their not coming to me only means that they have gone elsewhere. Dr Dawson the Congregationalist has very large congregations of young men & young women at his services. He follows his evening service with a social entertainment & sacred concert in the Hall below the church. The young people go straight from one to the other. No doubt it is amusement that young men want. But my congregation would not tolerate any thing of that sort.

His congregation he said refused to mix up anything social with their religion. They won't even allow solo singing in the choir. We came to a compromise over that & it was al-allowed that a solo might be sung while a different voluntary was being played on the organ so that neither should absorb the attention of the congregation. This is rather absurd & there is a section now who are asking for a solo during the collection "but I very much doubt if we shall get it passed."

Visiting. Three times a year the whole congregation is visited by the elders. a social visit lasting also from 20 min to an hour. He himself pays a social visit to each one every 9 months. In addition to this he makes a pastoral visitation & gives up all free Thursday evenings for this purpose. Each evening he takes 3 families, holds a religious service in each house. From Annual Report 1895

The Session again deemed it advisable to intermit the Wednesday evening Service during the month of August, when so many of the families of the Congregation are out of town, and they are glad to find that since the resumption of the Meetings the attendance has been satisfactory. They realize how difficult it is amid many other pressing engagements, both public and private, to set apart one evening in mid-week for social worship and fellowship, but they desire earnestly to impress upon all who have it in their power, to keep sacred for that purpose the Wednesday evening hour.

The Bible Classes, which meet in this Hall every Sunday afternoon, under the superintendence of Mr. Wales, have been carried on much as previously reported, the number of families who have left the neighbourhood, or whose young people have grown up, having considerably reduced the numbers which were in attendance some years ago. The average attendance is 56 children.

Rents. The average rents paid by the heads of families in his congregation wd be £50 a year. Dr C's own house in Alwyne Square is £60: it used to be £75. Perhaps the better houses have gone down a little but the tendency of neighbouring rents is to rise!

Interview with the Rev. W. J. Dawson Minister of Highbury Quadrant Congregational Church.

22 October 1897 at 17 Highbury Terrace. CD.

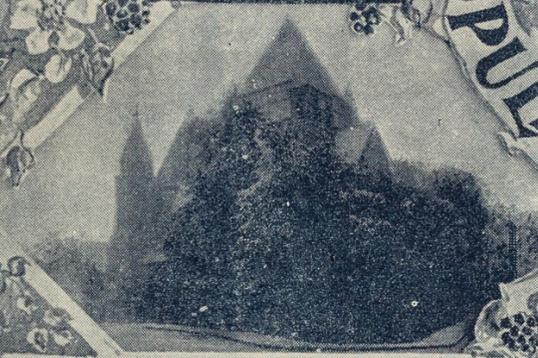

Mr Dawson when at home & at his ease
looks like an artist - velvet coat & red tie -
his face suggest either a painter or a musician;
see next page. His house is full pictures, old masters or early English mostly, & his hobby is collecting these things & other treasures for which he ransacks the old curiosity shops of London
in his Monday walks - Monday being his day
of rest & recreation. He received me in the room depicted in the sketch, but not sitting at his desk. He was very friendly & we talked for an hour and a half not turning to the list of questions
till we neared the end. He is a forcible man conscious of his own powers, conceited & full of himself, but not disagreeably so. I do not know that he would inspire devotion but he may well be popular & successful as a leader especially of young men.

He belonged formerly to the Wesleyans & served
in several pastorates but could not stand the 3 year system which caused him to move
just when his methods of work began to tell.
He condemned the system strongly - it was not
the moving only but the looking forward to it that was mischievous. The man knew he shone soon leave. The people knew it & each was conscious of the influence of this knowledge on the other. "No more Methodism for me" said Mr Dawson.

With the Congregationalists he is in his proper place. He is free to go his own way. Managing his church in such way as he thinks best & so secure of his position that when I asked him the question he said he could not be turned out. But election is by the majority of Church members, assembled in meeting for the purpose & he admits that he supports the same body could annul the appointment. The immediate governing body are the Deacons who are elected by the Church members. The Church members themselves are elected by the existing body usually on the recommendation of the pastor & a profession of faith.

When Mr Dawson was appointed - 5 years ago - he was promised £850 per annum but this has been raised to £1000. He found the Church a very slow going respectable institution & many of the old members have been shocked at the social side of his work & the uses to which he has put the Church buildings - for lectures, concerts &c. "I told them having an organ which had cost some hundreds of pounds & a Church which had cost £20,000, I was going to use them & I should be ready to use them for any purpose not definitely irreligious."

The information Mr Dawson gave me concerned the Church & his own work. There are also two missions one in Highbury Vale attended to by a volunteer organization - the other in ~~Antenna~~ ^{Antenna} where Mr Matthew Smith is in charge. He is paid & has been there before Mr Dawson's time & to

him we ought to go for this important branch
of the work.

The population in the district ~~surrounding~~ surrounding
the church is upper middle class with an artisan fringe but round about the mission
the very poorest people live & one way or other
all sorts are touched. Of his regular congregation almost all keep servants & few if any have carriages but to these he has added some artisans especially since building the gallery & putting a lower price on sitting there - in the body of the church every sitting costs 8/- a quarter
in the gallery the price falls to 2/- The working class if they come at all prefer the gallery apart from the price. He draws his large audience from a rather wide area & is probably most attractive to the young &
it is for their benefit that he has organized clubs & classes of many kinds. Of all these
he is titular president, but he leaves them
to manage their own affairs which they do successfully. They pay their own way also, or when

b
short come to him or any one else for help.
They get nothing whatever from Church funds.
Besides himself & the one missionary no one is paid except organist, Chor master & 4 leading singers. & these last are a new move which is moving successful directed towards the maintenance of a really efficient choir. The better discipline & training are appreciated
& there is no difficulty in obtaining members.
The building consists of the church & a lecture
hall with class rooms used amongst other purposes as a Sunday school but called a Bible class as their title deeds forbid a Sunday school! The missions are used also as Sunday schools.

The services are morning & evening. The church holds about 1650 & is practically full in the evening. in the morning about 7300 attend.
The two missions together hold 1200. At the base there may be 300 in the evening - not many in the morning. At Port Antonio road see Mr Smith for

The main social attraction is the regular course of lectures from October to March on Monday evenings. It is charged for the course but occasionally there is a special charge as when Nansen lectured for them last year it was paid £100 & every seat was reserved & sold. Ordinarily there are no reserved places. It is first come first served & the doors are besieged half an hour or more before the opening time. Arranging for these lectures involves a lot of work - mainly done by the Secretary. The organization is called the Highbury Quadrant Literary Association. The church is usually filled. On the first occasion the Lecture Hall was used but it was from the first too small & has never been used again. In addition to Cricket Clubs, Swimming Clubs, Gymnasium &c. for week days. Mr. Dawson adds some special attraction to the evening services - 1st Sunday in the month one thing - 2nd Sunday another & so on. A musical service

one evening - special address for young men another
 this being followed by a social hour (in the lecture hall) which Mr Dawson uses to get acquainted with strangers & introduce young men to each other. The service is not of the "young men only" type. It is merely their special night - so they come to the service, but the social hour is for them only.

The educational work consists of the bible class (or Sunday school) & a special class of young men on Sunday afternoon taken by a man who has made it his life - opening his house
 to the boys & winning their confidence & helping them out of their troubles. There are probably week day classes too as well as club meetings
 in the class rooms. With none of this has Mr Dawson anything to do. It all runs of itself.
 He said he only went to the Sunday school once
 a year to preside at a meeting - but he seems nevertheless to be an inspiring force though he claims very little. His place seems to be mainly that of preacher.

visiting is done systematically from the missions
where there is a nurse at least & Bible women (who

of course are paid). Mr Dawson himself visits the sick but does not always hear of them.

There is a certain amount of charitable relief given. mostly to the poor of the congregation & no doubt much more is done from the Missions. I think one Sunday a month the collections are especially for the Mission Charities.

Mr Dawson spoke favourably of the Church work at St Augustines & St Mary Stoke Newington. but I do not suppose there is any particular co-operation. with the C.O.S he cannot work. Last Sunday Mr H. took a census at the church for the purpose of answering the same question for the year: the congregation in the morning was 301 in the evening 182; this is under the average.

At the Mission service there are about 120 "all the poorest of the poor": asked how they were attracted Mr H. said "I am very

Sceptical as to the value of missions, that is to say merely a mission hall with services. I should prefer to see mission churches planted
which should force the people to take some of the burden on themselves - I am afraid that at present - almost the only motive which brings the poor to missions such as ours is the hope of charitable relief. At the start
I set my face firmly against anything of the sort, but found it was impossible to stick to this attitude. My missionary frankly told me
he could not visit the people without ~~relief~~
giving relief. There is a great deal of competition
down there and if he don't do it some other church will. But our present missionary is a prudent man, and he try to keep the relief
as far as possible subordinate to the true

Mr. H. speaks of the overlapping as terrible.

"Except in the Mission District we do not attempt to go outside our own people"

Mr. Gibson and Mr. Kelton are both filled to overflowing and all the churches in the neighborhood draw a good congregation, but a very large proportion of the people round the church go nowhere. Mr. H. finds this from the fact of the enormous number of Sunday papers which he has been purchasing as he walks to Church on Sunday morning. The majority of those who read the "Refugee" etc. on Sunday morning you may be sure will not go to Church.

Mr. Alexander was preparing his sermon and I did not go through a general question Especially as he said he knew little about them.

Outside the mission in which he himself takes

and he gave me the impression of being the straightest and most truthful of any that I have met.

Oct. 29, 97.

Personal.

Mr. Lockyer has only been at this Circuit for a few weeks but is a capable man & has much of the general information at hand. I was shown into a fireless dining-room he at once taken by Mr. Lockyer to the dining room by the fireside of which an old lady, I think his mother, was peacefully reading, and soon after my arrival peacefully sleeping. From first to last Mr. Lockyer seemed oblivious to her presence, he was very thorough the whole interview in the case of fireless dining.

Mr. L. is a man of about 40, a little reserved as far as perhaps a little precise & M-archy thought, the sort of man that "wants crumpling", but a very good fellow none the less. He came to Green Lane from Hastings, he had London experience some years ago in Clayton. He is more particularly in charge of Green Lane chapel, he has information more or less on the whole Circuit. On Midway Park Chapel I afterwards saw Mr. L. S. Dunham the other minister, & on the Matthias Road Mission he ought to see Mr. Winton, 41 Winton Road, the minister.

Church - membership -

The congregation at Green Lane come from a radius of about a mile. "Good middle-class villa population", mainly City people. There have been heavy losses in recent years through movement from the district, but on far numbers rather than quality of people affected.

At Midway Park the congregation has the same general characteristics but there are more of the working-class & more young people of both sexes, coming from their own homes, & living apart from their families. Green Lane has a much more exclusively family congregation.

At Matthias Road a poor & less rough population is reached.

The congregation at Green Lane do not vary much morning & evening & average 450.

At Midway Park the morning is about 450 & the evening about 600. (Mr. Lee-Purkiss afterwards gave me the same statistics).

Visiting.

163
The minister visit the families of their own congregations as much as possible, & in addition each class-leader looks after his or her own members.

Both the members of Green Lane & Midway Park give a great deal of personal help to Maria Rose, & particularly support it financially, it being really their mission.

The aim of the minister in ~~his~~ visiting is first to see the families & afflicted, but it is "part of the work of our pastoral oversight to see the people in their own homes as well as in the church buildings, & to share in their griefs - and joys". The Agenc. is pastoral & social but the maintenance of a close connexion with the Church is the ultimate motive.

Nothing systematic is done to provide for nursing nor is anything needed.

For the poor members of the churches the Lord's Supper Fund is by rule reserved. It does not amount to much, nor is much needed, "except perhaps at Maria Rose". Each of the largest churches has their "Stewards of the Poor". At Midway Park

there is a Benefactors Soc. formed to give help to non-members, but not much is given - perhaps £10 a year - mainly to indigent cases. At - Matthias Rosen is a typical kind of work - attempted (Comp. House etc) see Müller.

Green Land Church is really just in Stoke Newington but the work centre is practically in Islington & an 3 churches have joined the Federation of Free Churches.

As Mr. Bronger has been here so short a time we did not discuss any of the other points. Instead I asked him about the system of a three year rotation adopted in the Wesleyan Methodist body. It seems that although some time ago there was a movement for an extension of the term, it has died out, & for a long time to come Mr.
Bronger thinks that no change will come. Occasionally there is now a legal violation of the legal obligation to adhere to a maximum of 3 years, but Congress is very jealous of an such violation. In order to change the term of 3 years an Act of Parliament would be necessary. Every Wesleyan Methodist Church being run in accordance with the "Poll

In the Federation of Free Churches -

The three-year system -

beed" Wesley original trust deed, & the legal instrument of the sect. One of the clauses provides for the 3 year limit & that, if Mr L. for instance stayed on or from Lane for more than 3 years, his position would be illegal & his acts (as e.g. in signing church documents) would be void. No change is likely to be made unless the Wesleyan body is nearly unanimous & there is no such unanimity or anything like it at present.

Without having any decided opinion I gathered that Mr Lorange would not be averse to some change in terms of the Trust. He felt however that ^{it} was a case of balanced advantages, maintaining the contract change is a promise of magnanimity as a gain from the prior option,
~~the "if clause" is great drawback being~~ "of course"
 the waste of local knowledge acquired.

Circuits generally invite, & if a minister is anxious to go, Congress rarely always agrees.

A minister may return to a circuit after 3 years, but he very rarely does so, & such a thing as his man going backward &
 forward between 2 circuits every 3 years seems practically unknown.

Mr. Lockyer showed me the corner + land rooms on free land. The former is a large structure, admirably placed in good land, near its junction with Petrolon Road.

Mr. L. seemed a rather forcible + thoughtful man, with a somewhat professional air, of witom. and geniality or ^{any} sign of a sense of humor. He weighed his every word. He seemed well ~~to~~ fitted, conscientiously, to carry on the traditions of the corner to which he belongs.

The Congregation.

Personal.

St Jude's parish.

M^r Lee-Dunham (Walesham) -

From M^r Lockyer I was to see M^r Lee-Dunham, on the chance of finding him in. We had a quarter of an hour and about the Miriam Park Church of which he is in special charge.

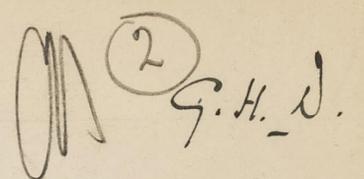

This church is the chief of the district & can look back to old times when the great preachers of Methodism were always set there. The congregation has a tradition of friendliness and appreciation to keep up & succeed. The former quality is combined rather with its liberal life. The latter finds its chief vent in its open air work, viz. its Sunday-School & Field. The two last are run together, & as a Trans-Pan. Soc families are visited weekly.

M^r Lee-Dunham said that the difference of the Miriam Park Congregation from that at Green Lane was mainly one determined by its district, & emphasized the feature of the young men & women, who were living in his district in large numbers. A good many families had however moved away here or to the church for an extra week & some help.

For these are poor weeks £20 or £25 a year is needed.

M^r Lee-Dunham is a rather younger man than M^r Lockyer - a little more human & with a better head. But his lecture is perhaps a bit more flattery. He could probably or even forget-that he was a person, & do not take his presence for granted.

I think that they made ground for a good deal in the way of personal influence.

Interview with Rev. J. M. Gibbon. 116. Clapton Common.
Congregational minister.

Mr Gibbon is a man of rather under median height
longish black hair, brushed back, black moustache
short black velvet coat. Voice powerful. Looks rather like a Spanish Jew.

Mr Gibbons' Church is at the corner of Portland Avenue
and Stamford Hill. It is a large building faced with rough stone. Capable of sitting between 1600 & 1700 persons.

All the sittings are let & he has 200 now waiting
to rent any that fall vacant.

There are no poor members of the Church: As Dr. Dale of Birmingham so often said, "Congregationalism
is the Church of the middle class."

Stamford Hill is rich: No house on the hill can be had for under £60 & rents run up to £100
& even to £200. It is a kind of social oasis.

On

On the North is working-class Tottenham; on the South is lower middle class Stoke Newington. Stamford Hill is better than either of these in Mr. Gibbons' opinion. The richest are heads of city businesses the poorest are just starting businesses. It is an old-fashioned neighbourhood. People unostentatious. They make rather a point of being so, even if a man keeps a carriage he will seldom go about in it himself but use the tram & leave the carriage to his wife, in any case he will never talk about it.

He deplored the politics of Stamford Hill. 'They used all to be Liberals' now they are Liberal Unionists; there is not a Home-ruler I am sorry to say among them: they are too comfortable, too easy-going, too well-to-do: they can't be roused, even the Armenian question failed to stir them, some years ago it would have made their blood boil.'

'Why is it that you hate us so' he once asked a foreigner & the answer was 'because you are so damned comfortable.' Our prosperity, he said, wants wants nipping by a frost, that would rouse us!

His congregation like a quiet service & they "love ^{Scriptural} ex-
-position." "Any man in any London church who will take a text of the Bible & expound it will be listened to." He complained that they were not denominational enough but seemed really rather pleased with the fact than otherwise. He test-ed this by the amounts offered for charities.
For denominational objects there was always a much smaller subscription than for Foreign missions or General Booth's darkest England
scheme. They disliked a liturgy and solo sing-ing in church, but they admit the Lord's prayer
and have a paid organist, an excellent organ & a good choir with paid leaders. "I have tried to intro-duce something in the way of a liturgy but they would have none of it!"

Congregationalists, he said, are a sermon-hearing com-munity. "It's the only hold we have, we are driven back on it because we have no liturgy!"

His services are at 11 AM & 7 P.M. The church is

is always crammed. A great many young men come (He was proud of this & implied that it was the excellence of the sermon that made them come, but he was in no way boastful of it). His congregation at both morning and evening service is between 1600 & 1700 (at each). In the morning it is almost exclusively Congregationalists but in the evening every denomination come. Not that doctrine & denomination affect people as long as there is not too much outward show. He said that one of his Deacons was a church-warden in White chapel and another in Cripple gate.

They have a Mission in Tottenham with a Mission Church, to hold about 180 persons. Another mission they hold in the School Board at Stoke Newington.

The poor don't come except very rarely to his Church. "They wd be welcomed if they did but they rarely do."

He said that their Church had very little religious influence with the poor. They are very friendly to us 'Of course they are because we give them so much, money, food, maternity letters etc' but there is a great class difference between the poor & the well-to-do. He thought the difference had been accentuated during the last few years. He said that though his congregation would welcome the poor he thought that in their innermost heart they wd rather they did not come to their church but kept to their own mission hall. It was a feeling that was felt on both sides but never expressed.

"Though ~~you~~ many think we ought to pay more attention to the poor yet I think our work is with those whom we really touch"

A very large sum is given away every year in Charity but "generous as my congregation is, I always say, it's only the poor that really give." Personal help & timely relief were, he said, the keynotes of the charity of the poor ~~to be assisted~~. They know exactly what one another want and give it when it is wanted.

The Church is in touch with many social clubs, bicycle foot ball & cricket. He was not sorry for it because the

the young people must be brought to feel that the Church has an interest in everything that they do.

But he deplored the increased use of Sunday as a pleasure day. 'I get the young men to church right enough, but they won't take classes in the afternoon. They will attend services but won't teach classes as they used to do before the advent of the bicycle.'

They have a nurse bible women of their own. They partly supported another in the East End & also pay half the cost of a London City Missionary in the Tewkesbury Road (South Tottenham).

Aboda Street and the Tewkesbury Rd are the two poorest in the neighbourhood. Great many tram men in the first and burglars in the second. The burglars he said were respectable citizens in Tewkesbury road ~~best~~ and went abroad to do their burglary. They don't touch Stamford Hill in their wanderings.

Of other denominations he spoke of St. Andrews Church

187
in Stamford Hill being always crammed with the exactly the same class as he gets at his church.
Then he referred to the 'Agapemites' whose
elaborate church is quite close to his house.
Their head he said was one 'Prince' now 85
years of age who considers himself as the embodi-ment of the third person in the Trinity. The sect
has altogether about 500 adherents, some in Sweden & some in Ireland: about 200 come from the neighbourhood of Barnet & Romford. The men are the most extraordinary people to look at you ever saw, lanky & emaciated: the women are rich old widows. He knows some of their men are old military men & others are on the Stock Exchange.
Their church is called the Ark of the Covenant
built for a testimony against the world. There is no marrying among them, 'what is the good, the second coming is at hand & expected any moment.'
The result of their tenets was a great deal of immorality when their members were younger.

Police do their duty except as regards prostitutes. Capt. C.

Common and the waste land round Craven Lodge is the haunt of vile women from Dalston. They come up regularly every night. I can't come home from my church without being accosted 2 or 3 times on the way. He said they got hold of lads and black mailed them.

Drink is worse than it used to be especially amongst women. Every doctor will tell you that women have acquired the habit of nipping. Some he said accuse the grocer's licenses but he did not himself attach much importance to this. The real reason was, he said, that they had so little to do. All round London are growing up suburbs of small houses whose owners have just enough to live comfortably. Women left at home, small ailments, immediate stimulus of drink. That is how it begins.

Marriages. Early marriages are permanent moralities is how I put it & I encourage them. Young men of my congregation marry at 25 and the girls between 21 & 24.

Thrift. His people save a great deal but make very little show of it

Health extremely good. The west side of the Hill is on gravel.
Houseing also good.

Everybody is comfortable. Since the jubilee he has noticed a tendency to spend more on luxuries. He spoke of the jubilee as a sort of "awakening to luxury" & was sorry for it.

Mr. Gibbon has been here nearly 9 years. He is the 3rd
pastor of the Church which was founded by a Dr. Ralli about 25 years ago.

ON (2)

Interview with the Rev. W. Wooding,
Minister of St. Matthias Free Church Unitarians,
at 173 Ashurst-Road.

Mr. Wooding carries the duties of Minister of the above church with title of a minister (I believe mathematics) of the City of London School. He has been at St. Matthias for 15 years. He previously a Congregational Minister in the country, he left the denomination because its Chapel Building Soc. on making a grant to his chapel, made it a condition that a broad Trinitarian Declaration be adopted. This deed includes doctrinal clauses; is always imposed when grants are made; & is having a great effect on the Congregational Churches of the country. He has not heard of any modification of the clauses since he left the Congregationalists.

The Trust deed of the St. Matthias Church simply provides for its use for "the worship of God". The Church ^{is 200 years old} originally belonged to the English Presbyterians, each congregation of which is independent. He became Unitarian, as most of this denomination have done, he visited his Wooding having that he was a Congregationalist with a Trinitarian bias. He told them, &
they said said what mind. Nice then, his + their Policy of the Chapel Building Committee of the Congregational body.

opinions have approximated.

There is a smaller morning congregation of the traditional supporters of the pass, some 70 or 80. These belong to the better middle-class & come from a wide area, Harpenden, Hemel Hempstead, Hemmels, as well as Stone Newington.

The evening congregation is almost entirely different; numbers 40-50, & is mainly composed of young people who had passed through the Sunday School. A very few of the morning people come in the evening, to help in retaining people & showing them to their seats, but apart from this the two congregations work quite apart. This is probably mainly due to custom, as when Mr. Working came here there was no evening service. There is apparently no particular difference in the character of the morning & evening services. From the pulpit the right of free individual opinion is not fully recognized, & the holding of this or that particular form of belief is not held to be a proper distinction in Christian life. The diffusion of ^{new} opinion is largely regarded as a willingness to see things from all sides. (V. red. pages.)

STOKE NEWINGTON GREEN CHURCH.

After the passing of the Toleration Act, 1689, which removed some of the chief vexations to which Protestant Nonconformists had been subject, Meeting Houses and Chapels sprang up in all directions, in which Dissenters were, at length, free to worship God according to their convictions.

In 1708, a few Presbyterian families of Stoke Newington, taking advantage of this new legal status of Nonconformity, became associated as a Church, and met for worship in the Chapel now standing on the North side of the Green, it having been erected for this purpose by one of their number and rented to the little Society then formed.

In 1798, in which year the building was purchased by the Congregation, a Trust Deed was drawn up which devoted the Chapel to the use of "Protestant Dissenters for the Worship of God," thus leaving to their successors an inestimable heritage of freedom and an example of generous confidence in the further development of religious thought.

Newington Green Church, therefore, stands in the direct tradition of 17th century dissent, and has preserved what many so-called Free Churches have surrendered—its freedom from dogmatic conditions of fellowship. Untrammelled by creeds, a gradual evolution of religious opinion has naturally taken place, the several Members of the Church being free to acknowledge and accept the widest expansion of knowledge whether of science or religion.

The Congregation counts upon its roll many honourable names. On the walls, tablets remind us of Mrs. BARBAULD, whose "Hymns in prose and verse" and "Evenings at Home" are still familiar in many households; of SAMUEL ROGERS, banker and poet, and of his nephew SAMUEL SHARPE, Hebrew scholar and Egyptologist; of RICHARD PRICE, minister, known also for his revision of Annuity and Assurance Tables, as well as for his advocacy of Civil Liberty, and his famous pamphlet on the "Justice and Policy of the War with America"; of ANDREW PRITCHARD the microscopist; of THOMAS CROMWELL, minister for 25 years and writer on antiquarian subjects; of JOSEPH MUNDY TAPP, STEPHEN CORNECK FREEMAN and WILLIAM TITFORD; all of whom took an active interest in the well being of this Church, and were in a distinguished sense "seekers after truth."

There is reason to believe that in general society there are many persons who are estranged from religious association because of the irrational dogmas of traditional christianity. Thoughtful people naturally shrink from such an outrage on human reason, and therefore, drift away from all religious communion rather than endure it. These, the Minister and Congregation of Newington Green Church most cordially invite to join them in the maintenance and furtherance of services which aim at the expression of a simple, reasonable, and devotional Christianity; and which, therefore, it is hoped may prove a satisfaction to many whose mental and spiritual rest has been seriously disturbed.

The minister is the only person paid. Other helpers are a Lady Visitor, + some 16 other helpers, besides 29 Teachers in the Sunday School.

There are 160 members. Some of the latter a has been invited join the Church of England; others become aquiescent; while some join non-religious bodies, like the Ethical Society.

The Church holds 150. There are separate school rooms. No services except on Sunday. Visit the congregation as much as possible.

There is no charity given in connection with the Church. Unless the recipient are perfectly well known the demand of help and care is. A distinct feeling among his people that donations of this character are harmful, + that all charity should be dissociated from religious sources. His people can + do give, but they do so independently of the Church, + mainly through the C.O.S. [The Piteavon belongs to the Working people, + her family is one of the old supporters].

In reply to a question as to why he thought of the modern

High Church development, Mr. Wooding said that ~~it~~ it seemed to him to be making fast for Catholicism, but not for Rome. Anglicans seem to have little difficulty in accepting such Roman doctrines as prayers for the dead, the ^[Martyr] the Wonders of Saint, the Confession, but he thinks that the national feeling, combined with the historical knowledge that Papal authority rests on a fraud, would always block the way to any reunion with Rome.

Mr. Wooding is a man of about 50, + looks, in ideas he is rather like a school-master than a parson. He is all-weather, cheerful. He is kindly, + probably has to deal with people who are, above the average intellectual + moral level. He has taste, but there is no sign that it fires him to any great extent, the thin people are of course outside the local theological current.

Inquiries into the Rev. H. Stone (Dean of the Highbury Park Circuit of the Wesleyan Methodist) at Willesden Road.

There are ~~Six~~ ^{Six} Chapels & one Mission in this Circuit, but as the last only is in London & far in Stone for only a few minutes.

At Highbury Park Chapel in Willesden Road there is a fairly large congregation of from 800 to 1000 both Sunday morning & evening. There are 400 children in the Sunday School, & about 35 Tenors. It is probable that a considerable ^{population} of all the above are drawn from within the metropolitan area.

The Giuseppe Ross Mission is taken under the more particular wing of the Highbury Park Chapel. The people attending are "mechanics & various trades". There are about 40 people working there, including the Tenors, but in Stone could not analyze the total, as value or number for the congregations. There are about 200 children in the Sunday School.

Mr R.W. Crowther, Church Secretary of St Paul's Church, St Paul's Road, N.
Harecourt Congregational Church, St Paul's Road, N.

Mr Crowther is a member of the firm, Sewell & Crowther
& the interview took place at the offices in Cockspur Street.
He is a man of about 50, hair and whiskers nearly grey,
of medium stature but alert and active.

Harecourt Chapel is an historic building. It is the parent of such well known churches as Stamford
Hill (Mr Gibbons), Highbury Quadrant (Rev. W. Dawson)
as well as
the Rayleigh Memorial Church & Brittonia Row (Mr Smith).
As a church its record goes back to 1660.

Like other churches it has felt the effect of the
outflow of population, some of its best members going out to Hampstead. Not nearly noticed any movement north to Harringay etc., which would hardly be so good as Highbury & Canonbury still are. The opening of Chessold Park arrested the deterioration
of the neighbourhood & houses in Pettitton Road
that were let at reduced rentals are now
fetching the old rates.

They have no poor in the immediate neighbourhood of the church but there is a poor patch by the Bullo Pond Road + Essex Road (The Wall St district - 14). In the immediate neighbourhood the people are good respectable folk - medium middles class.

Only paid worker is the pastor - At present the pastorate is vacant but expect it will be filled very shortly. Six deacons, 5 Committee men, and a large number of other workers - all are supposed to do something.

Barecourt Chapel seats 1300 people. Have two other halls attached and vestries and classroom. Two houses in Alma Road (adjoining church) are used as classrooms. They also have a Mission S. Anne's Hoxton (parish) in Hammond Square, Hoxton for which the church is responsible.

Meetings of some kind are constantly going on. Complaints are made that the chapel keeper never has a minute to himself.

Sunday, 11 am. Fair congregations - 500 to 800
6. 30. Service. Larger than morning. Have a musical meeting after + make service bright Congregation in the morning is the better class people from Highbury etc. In the evening gather more from the Essex Road and Upper Street districts. The two congregations are largely distinct. When the people are in comfortable circumstances, they seldom come more than once a day. They are there in the morning; in the evening their servants & dependents come but you miss them.

Sunday School On Books Teachers 27; Scholars 320.

Average attendance - Afternoon - Teachers 22, Scholars 215.

Wed Service Children are drawn from the immediate district. Well dressed: from comfortable homes. Few poor, altho' they would be welcomed & not made to feel they were poor.

Wed Service Young Men & Young Women

Bible classes &c.

Social Agencies include: Temperance Society

Temperance Social Circle

Band of Hope

Harcourt Literary Society: includes nearly all the Church members. Lectures &c.

Ladies Gymnasium. Well supported.

Harcourt Library, Cricket Club.
No mother's meetings - not needed except at Messines

Social Agencies

Choir.

Visitation.

Charitable Relief.

Strong Choir over 50 voices. The choir fund in 1896 amounted to £120

Visit a great deal. Every week a leaflet is left at the houses in the neighbourhood. District is mapped out. The late pastor (Rev. Lawson Forster) was a 'great visitor' and now they visit largely to keep the church together during the interregnum. Ladies also visit in connection with the relief societies.

One way and another a good deal of relief is given. They have the largest Christmas dinner fund in the district - £100 in 1896. Tickets 3/- + 5/- are purchased by the congregation, the purchasers either giving them to some poor person or returning them to the Comtee for their use. Appear to have given 471 dinner in 1896. Also give a new sursperse to each of the children in Islington Parish schools, Hornsey Rd. Every case is investigated personally by lady visitors. Last year found a few who were being relieved elsewhere. - See account attached.

Harecourt Dorcas Society

Meetings for work are held on the first Wednesday in each month, at 3 o'clock, in No. 1, Alma Road.

New members will be heartily welcomed, and subscriptions are solicited from those unable to attend.

Two hundred tickets were distributed by the Subscribers for the Annual Sale of Clothing, held on December 8th, 1896, for which 384 garments had been made, the proceeds amounting to £11 11s.

Forty-one blankets have been lent to poor families for the winter months.

Mostly tickets are given in the Essex Rd district at Hammond Square + Serimon Lane Mission

Spent £22 in 1896; mostly for materials.

Harriet Maternal Society

This Society meets at 1, Alma Road, on the 1st Wednesday of the month, at 3 o'clock. A subscription of 5s. entitles the subscriber to one presentation ticket. During the year 15 cases have been relieved, and also help given to the Sermon Lane Mission. The Society will be very glad to have some new subscribers.

Expenditure small -
£ 3.18. in 1896

Communion Collections amount to £ 56 of which £ 33.10 was paid to poor members and £ 19 in other relief.

No co-operation except so far as the Free Church Council supplies a bond. Also work with the Islington Aid Society (W. Smith). Are more ready to co-operate with the Church of England than they are with us.

Active churches are St Pauls and St Johns. Speaks of Mr Morgan as "an uncommonly nice man".

So far as the work of the church is concerned they are keeping things together until a new pastor is appointed. "Marking time". The membership has decreased as under:-

The Future of Harecourt.

Appreciation

Mr Crowther however has great confidence in the future of Harecourt. "If I were a pastor I should prefer a church like Harecourt to any in the neighbourhood. Its buildings are not so expensive to maintain as Quadrant or Union and the district must ~~always~~ remain, for a long time at least, residential, whilst at Union the shops are gradually creeping up & will drive away the residents."

So far as I can gather from Mr C. and the Church Manual, a active work is being carried on; well organised in most departments and with a large number of voluntary workers, who appear to be making special efforts so that the work may be maintained until such time as a new pastor is appointed. Its activity is mainly amongst the middle class & better working people, only coming in touch with the very poor by its Mission in Horston.

Mr Wm Tallack, 61 Clapton Common, N.E.
Society of Friends - G & A

Mr Tallack is the well-known Secretary of the Howard Assn, 5 Bishopsgate Street and a member of the Friends Meeting at Park Street, Stoke Newington.
He is probably over 70; spare and somewhat withered and wrinkled. One of the old school
of Friends & dressed with their primitive simplicity
- no jewelry, not even a stud. Still a pleasant
old gentleman with a fund of reminiscences
as to the past worthies of Quakerism.

Our talk was of a desultory character and the following report is merely a record of the points
referring to Park Street & the Friends Meetings.

~~There~~ A considerable number of 'Friends'
live in the neighbourhood of Stoke Newington, & Park Street draws its congregation from a considerable distance; Hackney, Islington, Holloway, Haggerston etc.

At Stoke Newington, there are 330 members
and 35 non-members or 'attenders' as they are called.
They are mainly middleclass; comfortable middle class
but not a "towering wealthy meeting"

Meetings held

Social Influences & Meetings

Sunday 10:30 & 6:30 . Worship.

Thursday 10:30 am do.

Sunday morning is the principal meeting.
Attendance 180 to 200 & 50 to 60 in the evening.

Sunday. Adult School of Men. 9:30. Attendance 50 about.

Men are encouraged to take part in the arrangement and the teachers work as comrades rather than instructors. "One of the men remarked that he never knew what real democracy was until he came to this school." Here as elsewhere scarcely any of the scholars are Friends & the teachers are mostly Friends. Not a proselytizing affair. Chiefly working men.

Adult school for Women 3 PM

Childrens School 3 PM. Children of "Members and (A small meeting) attendees"

Meeting for Young Friends. 6:30-7:30 PM (First Sunday in month)

Beside the meetings for worship, there are a number of meetings are held for charitable & social purposes but of these it is difficult to get particulars. The "Friends" believe in the New Testament injunction "Let not thy right hand know know what they left hand doeth" and in the personal responsibility of each member to God & they act upon ~~these~~ ^{principles}. The result is a number of small working meetings at the houses of various friends. Mr Tallack knows about half a dozen at Clapton. His daughter makes things for the poor. This same principle also leads to much casual visiting. He mentioned two ladies who spend nearly all their time visiting the poor.

If regular meetings & officially recognised there is the Adult School Social (Thursday 8 AM) during 6 months of winter. Missionary Helpers Union (Wed 3 PM) a working meeting. Library and Club in connection with Adult School.

Have no paid ministers except their foreign missionaries but if any ministers have their expenses are paid. The little A.B.C. handbook gives the names of 8 ^{including 3 women} ministers ~~as~~ Stoke Newington. The only difference between the

No paid Ministers

Appointment of Ministers

Local Institutions

ministers and other members of the community is that the former sit in the front rows of the meeting.

Their method of appointment is as under:—
When a member has spoken 'with acceptance' for some time—generally several years. The elders' meeting brings the name before the meeting of Ministry & oversight, & this body (if approved) brings it before the Monthly Meeting, ^{with} which body the appointment rests. When approved by the M.M. this body would report to the Quarterly Meeting. ^{Ministers have no special powers and would be the first to put down any assumption.}

The ~~quaterly~~ Monthly Meeting is the body that really governs. At their meeting they never have voting. All alterations are made by general consent—don't like to overbear a minority. It is the only body that can excommunicate a member; & that member could appeal to yearly meeting.

The Friends have several institutions in the district;

Friends' Masonary Home, 77 Downs Park Road. About 12 young men training for missionaries. They work in connection with the local mission services

Friends' Rescue Home, 10 Laura Place, Lower Clapton.

Teach washing, laundry work & needlework. 6 inmates

Goakley's Almshouses, Park St., Stoke Newington

Minor part of a bequest by Michael Goakley, given for inhabitants of Isle of Tharnet, where there are larger benefactions. Ten or dozen women (old) live at Park St. Get 4 a week & two tons of coal a year.

Apart from these the friends seem to have played a large part in public charities: the Stoke Newington Dispensary (109 High St) was founded by them, as also the Invalid Asylum next door (No 187). Joseph Beck was largely instrumental in getting Christ Church Park for the public & his name is inscribed on a fountain in the Park.

The new generation is not so reserved as the old & is going in for new methods. Look upon the old quarters as out of date & fossilised.

~~They do not get~~ The working men to join them. They think the 'Friends' are too respectable and don't feel quite at their ease. People don't like the intervals of silence at their meetings.

Most of their Mission work is done by the Bedford Institute of which Mr Alfred J.
Alexander is secretary. Should see him.
