EU EXIT WILL HELP CRIMINALS
ESCAPE BRITISH JUSTICE

If Britain leaves Europe, criminals and terrorists who go on the run will be given a helping hand to escape British justice.

British police make full use of European police and criminal justice measures. Hussain Osman, one of the failed 21 July London bombers, placed explosives at a tube station in London before fleeing to Italy. As a result of European measures including a European Arrest Warrant, he was arrested in Rome eight days later and quickly returned to the UK to face justice.

Osman is now serving a 40 year prison sentence. In similar cases before these European measures were in place, it took up to 10 years for criminals to face justice.

These powers also help police forces work together to identify and catch networks of criminals and terrorists.

WHY WE'RE BETTER OFF IN EUROPE

"So many jobs rely on Britain being in the EU. The jobs market is hard out there for people like me, so we need to make sure more good jobs are being created, not putting jobs at risk. That's why we're better off in Europe."

Andrew, Engineer

"Rights at work like paid holiday, maternity and paternity leave are all protected by our EU membership. Leaving the EU would be bad for working people."

Sandra, Store Manager

"Being in Europe is important for my children's future, for their employment prospects and because we need to work with Europe to protect the environment for the next generation."

Ben, Quantity Surveyor

BRITAIN IS MORE POWERFUL IN EUROPE

Being in Europe helps make Britain a more powerful country.

Britain's EU membership:

- Helps us to negotiate better deals with countries like the USA and China – that keeps prices down and helps British businesses sell their products
- Makes us a major player in world trade – as a member of the European Union we're part of a market of 500 million consumers which other countries want to do business with

If we leave Europe, Britain will be weaker, not stronger.
