Mrs Ramelson

July 8th, 1965

Dear Mrs Ramelson,

I am afraid I cannot track down any reference to Mrs Harriet Law, which is a pity, as she must have been an interesting person. If I do chance to light on anything, I will, of course, let you know.

Alas, in spite of promises, there is still no sign of the return of "The Vote". Owing to her sad circumstances, I do not like to press the poor borrower too much, but if the volumes don't come back soon, I shall have to write to her again.

I do hope that you yourself are better, and that the news of your mother is as satisfactory as it can be in view of the state of her health. I do think it is so wonderful of you to carry on with your work in spite of everything.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

Mrs Ramelson
