My dear Pippa

I am very distressed to hear this about Mamma and trust that the Consultant will be able to give a reassuring report about her. Let me know full particulars of what he says. It's not likely I could do anything by coming up, but if at any time you want me send me a wire and I will come along as soon as I get it.

My address here is 130 The Mount

but it will be safest to wire to War Office, York, and if I am not in the office they will direct the telegram on to me by motor cyclist.

I have been meaning to try & find an opportunity for writing to Mamma for some time past to tell her how we are getting on, & will do so shortly.

As a matter of fact there is not much to report except that now the frost has gone we are quite comfortable in a nice house hired at 3 guineas a week.

I have been looking out for the W.O. women scheme with interest, & have heard at intervals that matters were moving along. I suppose we shall see further details in due course. There was an idea not long ago that we were to form a Depot here for the ladies, but I don't know whether anything has yet been settled as to that.

Has Oliver come back from France yet? Grace met Mrs Bertrand (or, as I believe she now prefers it, Alice) Russell when she came down a short time back to lecture, & she told us that Oliver was just starting over.

Give my fond love to Mamma & tell her I am anxious to hear that she is quite all right again.

Your affectionate brother
Dick.
