

activity with me. nobility of temper. Saw an
B. ~~face~~ of San Felix. workers, in
single-minded
disposition

Heathstone
Badley
Course
Barnfield
March 13

With two hundred
letters, all equally called
for. grateful acknowledgement ^{to} ~~in~~ full ^{of} ~~of~~
like answering none of them; but I suppose
this feeling will go off
as I come to have
fewer matters of business pressing upon me;
to this day will come

When I shall sit myself earnestly to the duty
that lies before me.

To-day, however,
though very busy, attending to various changes
we are being made in the houses, I must write you a few lines, first
to thank you for my
dear friend your kind
letter. I know you
valued my husband,
and mourn his loss. To this in any good cause

which he so steadily supported, especially to that cause which you have agreed to regard as the most important of any, so it was a pleasure to read words which I knew came from your heart.

Then I just want to say a word on another
matter.

Just Seashman told
my sister that you were about to retire from our association, on the ground that it was suffering from your connection with it,

It may be that you are right,
but it is a disappointment
to me that you should be driven to take this course - for, the real originator, the most generous & zealous supporter of the Suffrage movement in Peterfield, I should wish you to
summat over here.

Greatly I have always appreciated the way
in which you have worked with a Committee with whose policy you were not always in accord, subordin.

of your own views
to those of your
fellows, workers, in
single-minded
devotion to our common
cause.

W. P. Colclough
W. P. Colclough
W. P. Colclough
W. P. Colclough
W. P. Colclough

nobility of temper, your own views like answering men
them; but: "improvement
this feeling will go
as far as I have
power on others of
pressing upon
of this day will come

of your own views
to those of your
fellows, workers, in
single-minded
devotion to our
common
cause.