ALLENSWOOD,

WIMBLEDON PARK,

June 29th 1891 LONDON.

My dearest Phyll,

I hope you are quite well. I have not heard from you lately but I suppose you are quite well. Isn't it terrible about the actors? Are you going to be present on Tuesday? Did you enjoy yourself at Eastbourne? Rather a quaint expedition it seems to me. Jeanbeau came to see me last Saturday and was very sweet. I hope you will remember me when the photos come home. We were all photographed on Friday; also M^{lle} Lou-vestre with 6 of the girls who have been here the longest. Could you do me a great favour beloved? I want two quaintaties to give as parting presents? Could you buy me them and will refund you when I go home; I should like a silver pencil for one please, & any-thing in the same style for the other. I would not trouble you with them if I could get them any where else but as I can't I fear I must apply to you.

The sooner, the better; I should think Crockett would do the job. A letter would also much oblige as I have not had any for ages. Therise sends you her best love & says that she cannot bear to leave England without seeing you; so please will you let her know before hand so that she may do her lessons. Your loving Pen.
