SHENSTONE,

CAMBRIDGE.

J. 10 G.M.

My dear Kelly,

You see I lose no time to inform you of my safe arrival here and to thank you once more for all your kindness and the sort of hospitality that made me feel quite at home at Rowden and which I therefore enjoyed thoroughly.

Yours
Cotter.

I came here all right by the 5. 44 train, but it was not entirely without trouble, as the stupid porters at Brighton (after having seen my box labelled to London Bridge) put me into a wrong carriage though I had expressly told him that I wanted to get to L. B. I never suspected

Do not be shocked by my parking with: in German the state of things till after Croydon, when a lady in my compartment mentioned going to Victoria. I was then to late to correct the mistake. So I had to go to Victoria, but by means of a taxi I succeeded in putting up my box at London Bridge and still catching the right train from Liverpool Street. I find travelling in England a very one can very well stand from such a puzzling task after all!

It is a lovely evening here and I found the Misses Kennedy who return your kind message looking very well, not in the least changed.
Today is the last boating day, the races having been postponed till after the Tripos. I hope your gout will soon be quite well, i.e. sent to the devil, where it comes from! Goodbye, dear Nelly and my Kindest! Yours very affectionately
Alice
