IN TRAFALGAR SQUARE.
The Trafalgar Square Meeting on Sunday, January 24th, was a tremendous success. As our readers know, its object was to demand Votes for Women in the coming Session of Parliament, the abolition of regulations and punishments for women which do not apply to men, whether issued by the War Office, the Army Council, or the Home Office, and that adequate separation allowances and pensions shall be granted to the soldiers' wives and families, as a right, during their absence, and that the delays in granting allowances, the smallness of the allowances, and the proposals for police supervision were injurious to recruiting. The privations which women suffered were moreover injurious to the coming generation and she quoted the Mayor of Stepney, who had said that out of 200 Stepney recruits all but fifteen had been rejected by the doctor. She said that large numbers of soldiers' wives whom she had known as children, had come to ask her help in getting allowances, and that in many cases they were reduced to such a point of starvation that she was obliged to give them food before she was even able to speak to them. She said where the men who had enlisted had been out of work they had been obliged to leave their wives literally penniless, and then had followed weeks of delay in paying out the allowances. The women were behaving with great fortitude and prudence. They were doing remarkably well by their children, both in feeding them and clothing them on their small allowances. Mrs. Despard urged that if there must be restrictive legislation, women should not be particularised.

Mrs. Arnoliffe Sennett began hy

men. ARNOLIFFE SENNETT.

Mrs. Arncliffe Sennett began by presenting the following resolution passed by the Northern Men's Federation for Women's Suffrage, and signed on behalf of the Federation by some of its members, who are elected representatives in Scotland.

"The Northern Men's Federation for Women's Suffrage consider that by placing the soldier's and sailor's wife under the surveillance of the Police Authorities (i.e., the Criminal Department), the Government of the country has stigmatised the Nation through its Womanhood.

"They call upon the authorities responsible for the gross abuse of the liberty of the subject to rescind the Order concerning Public Honses, which they look upon as an insult to men as well as women, and to deal with all cases of drunkenness upon their individual merits.

Mrs. Sennett also presented the imputation and the subject to rescind the Green concerning womanhood shall remain under this whole-sale insult; and, furthermore, they deplore the habit indulged in by the Government, of perpetually forcing the disenfranchised portion of the community under the ban of the Criminal Department of Great Britain."

ROBBERS OF THE HIGH SEAS.

Everyone—except the shipping firms—is agreed that, to reduce the price of bread, freight charges must come down. The freight charges on price of bread, freight charges must come down. The freight charges on American wheat have risen from 15s. to 55s. per ton (266 per cent. rise) that on Argentine wheat from 12s. 6d. to 62s. 6d. (a rise of 400 per cent.) Shipowners have been very anxious to explain away their enormous profits, and refer to 'War Risks' and the increase in wages and stores. Eighty per cent. of the War Risk was, as a matter of fact, taken over by the Government at the outbreak of War and a maximum insurance rate of Government at the outbreak of War and a maximum insurance rate of £5 5s. per cent, was fixed with a minimum of £1 1s. per cent. On the last day of the old year this minimum was reached and the following extracts from various articles in the Times Annual Financial Review, published last Saturday, suffici-ently indicate into whose pockets the starvation prices for bread is going. There is no shortage of wheat.

"Argentina is even now beginning to ship new wheat, and the harvest is one of the best on record.. Australia has little or no wheat to ship, and but for this the Argentine surplus would give us lower prices and soon. As it is, Argentina's increased exports will probably fully cover the Australian deficiency and carry us easily into May, when India will be prepared to take up the matter of surply."

The same article says that at the outbreak of War—
"The British Government in the course of the next few days promulgated a War Risks measure which satisfied the trade, and has worked very well."

worked very well."
Turning to an article on Marine Insurance we find—
"The comparatively low level of War insurance rates at present, does not suggest an exceptionally large margin for profit from this class of business. On the other hand, British shipping is extraordinarily prosperous at the present, and there is no question that the owners can afford to pay the rather fermer premiums that are now being quoted."

firmer premiums that are now being quoted."
The article on shipping is headed, significantly, "From Depression to Prosperity." It reads—
"At the end of the year prices hitherto unapproached were being paid. As compared with the 12s. 6d. which was quoted for the voyage from Argentina at the end of July, 50s. was being paid. In normal times, 25s. was considered by owners a very good ate, and during the height of the boom in 1912 the highest rate touched was 37s. 6d."
Since this article was written

1912 the highest rate touched was 378. 6d."

Since this article was written freight charges have risen still higher. Amongst the "Reasons for the Rise" given is the following—
"Thirdly, the German mercantile marine is no longer able to participate in the carrying trade of the world. Large numbers are detained in German ports, in the United States, in the Tagus, and various neutral countries, and 445 German vessels, representing 1,04,826 tons have been captured, seized or detained."

seized or detained."

Thus the shipping firms have made the sailor's wife pay, in bread, for the very services which her husband rendered to his country in capturing German vessels, and keeping the seas clear for British commerce!

The shipping interests are also largely responsible for the rise in coal. An article on the coal trade says—"Shipowners have been in complete control of the situation. They have been able to demand practically what rates they wished."

The price of coal, at the

The price of coal, at the pit's mouth, has fallen since the War, owing to the loss of foreign markets, but the freight charges by sea from Durham to London have been raised from 3s. to 13s. 6d. a ton. The South Metropolitan Gas Company by given larged. London have been raised from 3s. to 13s. 6d. a ton. The South Metropolitan Gas Company has circularised its customers to inform them that unless freight charges are reduced, they will raise the price of gas by 8d. or 9d. per cubic 1000! Think what this will mean to poor families! The this will mean to poor families! The gascompany suggests that consumers should press their Members of Parliament to agitate for prompt action on the part of the Government with regard to shipping rates. It is a suggestion that we can echo most heartily, but we wish that the agitation of women had the strength of the Vote behind it.

GERMANY'S EXAMPLE.

From February 1, all stocks of c and flour in Germany will be se and held by the Federal Council. business transactions in flour flour a forbidden.

This is the official announcement

This is the official announcement made by wireless telegram from Berlin. Owners of corn are bound to report their stocks, whereupon confiscation at fixed prices will follow. For the regulation of consumption a Government distributing office will be set up, and distribution will take place to the towns and villages in proportion to the number of their inhabitants. More than this; the municipalities are called upon to procure and to store up provisions of cured meats.

SCHOOL MEALS.

SCHOOL MEALS.

The rise in prices is making it daily more difficult for working women to feed their children. There is ample legislative provision for the feeding of school children by the Educational Authorities, but the law is being administered in too many cases by Committees who do their best to discourage application for school meals, and to give those who do apply the feeling that they are the recipients of a begrudged charity. This is the time for the Board of Education to issue a strong circular to the Care Committees enjoining them to throw open the meals to every child, without regard to the circumstances of their parents (which are in all cases straitened by the increased cost of living) and if the circular is ignored, to change the personnel of the Committees.

The idea that school meals are charity must be exploded. The meals are supplied by the State, and who, in this case, is the State if not the people who pay the rates and taxes? Everyone who pays rent pays taxes, directly or indirectly. Everyone who who buys tea or beer or tobacco pays taxes. Everyone who works contributes to the taxable wealth of the State. It is not the business therefore of a voluntary Committee of ladies and gentlemen to stigmatise as charity that which the workers themselvers pay for; it is their business to administer the law. When will the Board of Education see that they do it?

Saffron Walden,

ness to add will the Bo they do it?

Saffron Walden,

Dear Miss Pankhurst,
The military have taken the day schools for billeting purposes here, and in consequence hundreds of children have been running the streets for two months already, and look like continuing to be school-less for an indefinite period, since there are no buildings available into which troops can be shifted, and no secular buildings available for schools. I imagine that the same sort of thing prevails to a greater or less extent over the Eastern Counties. And no one seems much troubled! My own feeling is that the churches ought to feeling is that the churches ought to be taken by the educational authorities, and that if the first move depends on the attitude of the church, something ought to be done to wake the church up. The churches are big, convenient of access and unoccupied during school hours, and from a merely moral standpoint the church ought to step in and offer itself for the good work which she boasts she was the first to start. I have, a couple of days ago, written privately to the Bishop of Chelmsford, whom I know very well, on the subject, but whatever he may do, public attention ought to be drawn to the matter. It strikes me that Suffrage Societies feeling is that the churches ought to whatever he may do, public attention ought to be drawn to the matter. It strikes me that Suffrage Societies are the organisations to take the matter up if anything practical is to result. If the thing is widespread, a deputation to the Government and perhaps one to the Archbishop of Canterbury, if it seems that the situation demands that the churches should be used, would no doubt effect an alteration. Could you get this done? The Suffrage movement could very soon find out the facts over a large area and make the necessary fuss.

Yours sincerely,

CHARLES JENKINSON.
