September 27th, 1909.

Dear Miss Phillips,

I fear that I cannot have explained myself very clearly in my letter of September 23rd on the subject of the proposed joint Committee of the National Union and the London Society.

My Committee while offering a general welcome to such a suggestion are not able to proceed in the matter without information as to the views of the National Union upon the scope of work of the new Committee and other necessary matters of arrangement. They have therefore placed the matter in the hands of their Sub-Committee for Public Meetings for report.

The three members of Committee selected by the National Union to represent them in the event of a joint Committee being formed, have been invited to attend a meeting of the Sub-Committee for Public Meetings on October 4th in order that the scheme of the National Union should be fully understood by my Committee.

I much regret that any misunderstanding should have arisen.

Yours very truly,
