My dear Pipcat

Donkey moi votre patte. I am the beast for not writing.
My specs are pince. No arms are broken as yet but I have fallen off once. This is a picture of the place where we ride. It is in a field and it is enclosed in boards about two feet high. Those lines inside are the places where they go. Sometimes in one circle,~~one~~.

or sometimes round the whole thing. I fell off, or rather slipped gracefully down, for no particular reason, and of course the ground was cause you can eat jam etc. at tea & in a most awful state because of the rain, so when I got up — "the vourse. The monotony of the blue trousers was relieved occasionally by darker spots of a brown hue, while we ride do sword exercise and generally succeed in giving their horses one or two smacks. There is one under officer whose name is Lemprincé and about 12 corporals I should think. I have not got Wellington but elastic sides. Plain fronts mean the front being all one piece. I got some jam and it is all right because you can eat jam etc. at tea & breakfast. The cake is already devoured. I went to the Secretary and wrote on a piece of paper that I wanted £1 for Games subscriptions which he took and that was all. On the first day among a crowd of people some one asked me if I knew Frank Wedgwood at Clifton. I didn't remember about the nephew and so I didn't look at him with a rembering eye. Those are all the questions I can answer. On Wednesday before last we had a whole holiday and I went to see Oliver as he told you. Mrs. looks awfully ill.

I am now a senior and wear a gold stripe! Lord Wobley is not coming this term but next and someone else is coming this term. Give my congratulations to Dick and beg him not to forget me when he sends han-ches to his military friends. I am very excited about what Mrs Gibbs said to Marjorie. Are you going to the Lodge, and when are you going back to Lancaster Gate.

Goodbye

Yr loving
