

July Wednesday 22nd - Fine wind all night and well out to the Atlantic was good on this patient from dining last few days consequently I had good copious did not see but did nothing of any interest - ocules during day excepting that the pig broke loose and found their way into the patients berth before I got up heard them grunting and was afraid they might penetrate paper as mine

Ernest H Beckers Journal of a Voyage from Liverpool to Maranham on board the good ship Lady Sale 732. 20ms registers

Oct. or 15. First day - at 8.30

Left Liverpool arrived on Amies Pier Speed, from Mr. Moon's house with my father and Lydia and Jerry, where we were joined in a few minutes by Mary, Elsie and Mr R Roberts and at whose house they had been staying after waiting on home and a half or two hours Mr Moon arrives on the pier and after saying a few words to the captain called me aside. He said as nearly as I can recollect "tell Mr Beattie that you are to have everything found for you in the way of log materials that is found for young men of your age in my establishment at this, I have written this to him but you had better say that I have told you to mention it. You must be very ~~enormous~~ careful in making friends it is true you will not have the opportunity of making many but that is an additional reason for being careful in the selection of those you do contract friendships with. - You will of course have a decent department on the Maranham house you you but I wish you to make yourself acquainted with the whole business, and I have said so to Mr Beattie, and if you see anything going wrong & you must immediately mention it. and I do not want you to be a spy in the place but () you are the only person who will be there that I know personally and Mr Beattie may want to come home and Hall his brother in law has entered the Brazilian National Guard and other were other foolish things.

I do not want you two to be rivals and now another thing and this I should say was Mr. Beattie present and I have implicit confidence in him, if else you are left in charge of the premises you ^{are} on no account whatever leave them.

We then said goodbye to my own the Captain and I said goodbye to my dear father and sister and went on board the steam tug Lion which was waiting alongside the quay for Captain Cook and myself and in about 5 minutes we were on board Lady Dale which was lying in the middle of the river.
The crew immediately began to haul up the anchor but as there were 40 fathoms cable out it was nearly an hour fully before we made a start during which time I was looking at the boats on the pier. I could distinguish them all and of some there was a great deal of rowing of oars and handspikes between we got fairly off at about 11 1/2 and in about 10 minutes I saw them all walk off the quay homeward bound - as we sailed went down the river on the Atlantic U.S. Mail steamer leave the dock on her way to New York she is a very fine looking vessel and I suppose will left us a long way behind though our little tug despite the greatest efforts of our little tug. A few minutes before this made acquaintance with our little small pilot who seemed a very smart little chap and I should think stood about 5 feet nothing on his back, however he had a very coarse quantity on about him and ordered the oars about in fine style. He gave the Captain and myself nearly the whole of history and plentifully interspersed it with the indispensable expressions, "I says says I says" in all its various unorthodox forms. One remarkable fact connected with his story was that he and his wife lived in a ~~happy~~ really happy family style with his mother in law. I thought this fact, as I have no reason to doubt its authenticity, worthy of being jotted down he also informed me in answer to an inquiry of mine that when he was a fisherman off the mouth of the river ~~then used~~ to earn about £3 or 4 a week. not at all too much for as he called it "such a nasty dirty trade" but still it is more than I thought even of that craft came by. We passed the Bell buoy, or called from there being a bell buoy, mist which the motion of the sea is continually moving about 1/2 c. It is the last of the buoy's ^{are} when forced that you are out in the sea and to alarion of it these are no bombs or shoals and you are in the open sea. As the wind was SW by S the Captain decided to take the tug, or rather let the tug take us on for 2 hours more at cost to Mr. Moon of £2 per hour and as the wind came from the South we kept in towards the Welsh coast. Dinner was ready at 2 1/2 and as the water was very quiet and I heavily fatigued I was very hungry and went down to take my part in the final work of dismissing it along with Captain pilot's 1st mate Mr. Briggs. The 2^d mate dinner vegetable soup boiled ham boiled steaks potatoes in jackets unmanning on deck to look after the ship. It was during this meal that the pilot made known the extraordinary fact already mentioned in connection with his mother-in-law. When dinner was about half over the pilot went up stairs to see how things were going and came down again with the gratifying intelligence that the wind was getting round towards the north this put us into good spirits where upon the three officers put some spirits into themselves and I put some bad wine into myself (note, take no more wine while on board unless the quality improves) ~~then~~ going on deck again ~~say me for I found it out first~~ ^{discovered that the} ~~found~~ ^{man} at the wheel ~~who~~ knew no more about steering than one of the pigs ⁱⁿ the sty pen on the main deck. ~~the~~ ^{he} man was entered on the ship's books as a first class seaman - ~~was~~ ^{was} ~~of course~~ sent forward and advised in a gentle manner not to show his nose aft again. As he went the captain told me his ~~share~~ wages would be dropped from £ 2.5/- to 1-10/- per month at 3.40 the 2 extra hours of tugging being over pilot whistled to the steamer which let let go the hawser which attaching us and dropped alongside. The steward's sister was on board of her and she came onto the our ship to say good bye to her brother she might have been on the ship instead of on the steamer, ~~the~~ while going out but for the possible probability of the wind rising and preventing her getting leaving us for the steamer I am in a disagreeable state of doubt as to whether the pilot took

The thing that was done by the captain who was appeared with a brown coat and to the indifference of speech compared to what before of the master of Jimico look was rather a note which I wrote and left ^{addressed} to my father on the table in the saloon. however as nobody that I can hear of has seen anything of it I shall persuade myself that it is ~~gone~~ ^{has} reached its destination. The captain tells me that the men who work the tops have to ~~press~~ ^{bring} Jimico their own provisions and that as they often take ^{very} little ~~anything~~ with them the steward's aster has probably eaten nothing since her breakfast so he orders the steward to ~~give~~ ^{send} them ~~some~~ two pieces pork a little tea, sugar, and some fine biscuit ^{to the crew of} ~~on board~~ the lion which being "glorized" at them they receive with grim and very dirty hands - however as the lady who is ~~content~~ ^{content} with share the eatables with these ~~such~~ ^{and} ~~and~~ ^{and} dirty to be one of those benefited by the captain's gift did not see ~~how~~ ^{how} it ^{came to hand} ~~was received~~ ^{or by what cut head at some} ~~eat~~ ^{eat} more the less heartily ^{for the manner of its reception} (namely greasy ~~points~~ ^{points} and very black lines - it doesn't make me sick to write this now). She having been assisted on board the try again ^{with} a considerable display of fankles he and the pilot also having gone on board until he finds his ^{the lion} ~~own~~ ^{own} boat ^{has} ~~we~~ ^{we} are ~~now~~ ^{now} left to our own devices & sheant tell what sails were set or about "hauling taut the main brace" and all the rest of it ^{because} ~~as~~ ^{as} it would considerably bother me to do it and be equally bothering to you to read it suffice it say that we went on very ~~regularly~~ ^{regularly} but to move milit about 8^o ^{of cockpoober} having suttered a feeble "no thank you" to the C. Enquiry as to whether I would take some breakfast and dozed off until dinner time, and continued in a state of ~~doze~~ until Friday morning. sometime between ~~the~~ of Thursday morning when the captain ~~was~~ told me that I was making for the Isle of man and I was several times asked by him and the steward whether I would take anything to eat but I could ~~not~~ swallow nothing but water and was always ill after ^{that} ~~doing~~ ^{that}. There was one thing I ^{perfectly} ~~always~~ longed for every time I awoke and that was Soda water, and I often apostrophized my self in no complimentary way for not having had about 12 doz with me, and before I return I shall have a plentiful supply sent me from England unless I can procure some at ^{the} place where I sail. The nearest things to it I could get were Siddle's powders and fortunately the captain had a good supply of them but they were a poor substitute as far as refreshing one went they have such a disagreeable taste of Soda. But I dare say they were good for me. The whole of Wednesday night Thursday and ^{night} ~~Thursday~~ there was a heavy sea and fortunately for myself I have no distinct recollection of how the time passed for I was dozing ^{nearly} ~~the~~ ^{and comes pretty} ~~the~~ ^{did not go by} ~~the~~ ^{unpleasantly}. I was always availed when the order "bout ship" was being executed it ^{is} ~~is~~ putting the ship about or altering the direction in which she is sailing, and whenever it is done 5 or 6 men in their heavy sea boot seize some heavy ropes and ~~the~~ ^{the} blocks and work with them along the deck just over where I am lying and ~~you~~ may imagine that it is no slight noise they make but a tremendous roar. If there were any of them I could thread I should feel very much inclined to have a "boat" with them - Took a little sago Thursday night

Friday 17 Oct. Third day - Took a little of sago what is called coffee but such coffee I never tasted before, and about 11.7c got up and went on deck, saw the Isle of Man about 30 miles to N.E. ^{also the Cumberland A to E of the Black Sea} we have been taking about here since Thursday night - Feeling ~~very~~ "sara bad" again returned to my berth and just reached ^{soon enough} to prevent the steward having the "caybin" floor to clean. ~~Went~~ ^{Went} into bed again immediately - By day is right I ^{saw} ^{much} better when lying on bed, down on deck, though my berth is as far as possible to the stem of the ship, and there is the usual smell in it - For the remainder of the day laying in bed doing nothing ~~and~~ not feeling very poorly but not able to eat - I am not certain whether it was at this time or on Saturday that it occurred to me that Camphorated Spts would do be very refreshing, and got the steward to hunt the bottle out of my boat - Tried to eat a biscuit but failed - Dozed through the night with the usual interruptions ~~use~~ of "boat ship" -

Saturday 18 Oct Fourth day - Took a little sago for breakfast and did not attempt to get up. Captain tells me Isle of Man is still in sight. Ring for steward and tell him to bring out Hothouse grammar. After looking at it for an hour come to conclusion that I cannot make much of it - put it ^{up} at present - ^{1/2} begin to feel considerably better and take some very good soup made of preserved meat which I really enjoy eat two platefuls. I do not feel sick but have a strong disinclination to getting up - ^{4/9} took a leidlity powder to quieten the soup which has the desired effect but and did nothing more to day but lay tossing about until I went to sleep sometime after 8 ^{1/2} was awakened several times during the night as usual.

birds escaped last night but it seems did not leave the ship as we saw it several times during this day, but it ~~appears~~ does not appear inclined to be caught again.
Dined with Captain for first time since being properly at sea soup & roast ribs with potatoes cabbage and ^{the latter} turnips lumps about size $\frac{1}{2}$ brick, and pudding of some sort, but as what I had already eaten had very nearly been too many for me I was obliged to leave the table and lay down before it came on. Very little wind and thought we should have fouled a ^{yard} ~~ship~~ but soon wind dropped entirely and we hastily stowed let alone running into one on other ^{things into being} preserves and bread for tea again and Tuesday October 21 - 7th Day - Dull cloudy morning but fair wind all night and made which fully makes up for want of sunshine. No land in sight but many of same ships as we saw yesterday. Did not set up till 12³⁰. Eat pretty good dinner - Mutton broth plenty of vegmutton pie boiled salt fresh beef - Sage pudding potatoes cabbage Dr. Briggs astonished by the immense quantity of cayenne pepper he took to his berth he must have put nearly 1/2 teasp. conful to each plate full - The ducks and pigs (chemical) habitations, a more miserable set of things than the former ones, behold - Dined relative strength of floss oilical clock. Captain pronounced salt stronger - A little chat with him about sharks and their fish - "I say young sharks are as good as cod hope to have an opportunity trying it myself - preserves and bread again for tea Am greatly indebted to Aunt Amelia for her present - This evening not very far from dark light ^{not in sight} coast below but land we suppose but wind getting more W and as I am by that horrible "lost ship" that we are talking may not be past it by tomorrow morning dead but - does
