My dear Pippa

Margaret is a good deal better and the doctor says she can now undertake the journey to Calcutta, so we are off tonight. Miss Pennick is coming with us, extraordinary person, on her way to Dootacamund (!) which is a great comfort as M is still pretty feeble and can't do very much for herself yet.

Bombay is slightly less dis.

agreeable as to climate just now than it usually is, still it is rather sticky and muggy and I shall be glad to be in Calcutta again when it is quite pleasant now, and Margaret will have a better chance of picking up quickly there than here - I shall write again and tell you the news next week - now I have got to pack up.

Ever your loving

Ralph
