

THE LONDON SCHOOL OF ECONOMICS AND POLITICAL SCIENCE ■

Autographed Letters

This item was missing at the time of project digitisation. Efforts are being made to find it, once it is located, we will digitise and publish it.

From D. O. Ford

AL/1109

(2)

differs so I feel sure now, you understand that dear Millie -

I love you as much as ever & never forget all the great debt I owe you about so many things, now.

- I find the W. S. work in Leds most depressing - I have suppressed all my tiresome war opinions I have loyally worked with them all but only about 4 turn up at Committee and one will have any meetings - Bandaging, such work, have got at their brains - However the working women are more alive - partly owing to the atrocious Munitions wages Order & the conditions in ^{some of} the Munition Factories ^{are} partly because of the News'

Trade Unions & their truly disgraceful behaviour to women - partly because of the good behaviour of some of the unions - Everywhere is mixed.
But I read your words about the hopeful future wherever you write them with great joy & faith.

I am working away at W.S. just as usual where ever I can -
I am on ~~my~~ various Adversity City Council Committees, wages assessorships so on solely for W.S. sake - to keep that end up before my fossil-like men ^{could see them!} colleagues - I wish you there are like a play!

An evil part of my mind, which is I am sorry to say away to part at times, wants some of our W.S. society in Leeds Never

AL/1109 cont (4)

to have votes, but to see all the other women having them.

To think that an annual Sub: of 1/- saves them from all their work is so horrid!

Mrs. Foreman Talbot is our Hon. Sec: but I have been doing the work lately. I am so thankful Miss Coke is with us & I am sure she will do so much good.

Please forgive such a long letter in answer to yours. It is a pleasure to be in communication with you dear Millie once more.

Your loving faithful

J. Ford.

Much love from both of us to you both.
"warmly" Bessie calls out, from her bureau.