

I am sorry I did not write while I remember better.

will you let Mr. Massett have the frames

James Strachey

Kilgour
AL/255
Bourne Sq. W.

22nd May 1907
I have found your letter.
Yours very sincerely
M.S. Kilgour.

The lady makes a large request, and I can't do as well as I^m hoped to do in reply.

The lady can consult
"Woman under the English Law" by Arthur Cleveland, published Aust & Blythe, 1896

There may be a newer edition.

Then there is a book,
just about to be brought
out by Fisher Unwin, called

"Every Woman her own Lawyer".

Some bits of information can be gleaned from
the enclosed pamphlet.

I fear that is all I can suggest, except going to a public library
and consulting the Encyclopedia Britannica,
on Divorce, &c.

The Westminster Public Library is a good Free Library, and may have it the Encyclopedia.

I suppose that the London Library is sure to have it, but I don't know the conditions of entrance.

I did not expect more at Wimbledon, and quite looked at that election from the suffrage point of view. So glad you all are satisfied.

Fawcett Library
27 Wilfred Street
London S.W.1.

27c

Please note one or two more Wimbledon names.

Miss Anders,
3, High Street, Wimbledon

I promised her an invitation to a Suffrage
meeting.

The schoolmaster's wife
living at the School House,
close to the big Board School, Clarence Road (^{the part} east of Evelyn Road) -

Mr. P. Ke (James)

and the woman at 172, Clarence Road (see card returned by me near school house too to agent)

I'm sorry I forget the name
Mr. Beatty of 5 Elm Grove, Wimbledon
w? perhaps look it out.
perhaps Jackson.

you have you?
of course

let me

and I remember better.

will you
Hallett
names
Street
& has

letter,

The

I did not write while I remembered
a large request
can't do so I hoped to do so

the consult

I am sorry
"Woman under Law" by publ'd by Am