~~Dear~~ Madame

I do not recognize the statement you quote as having been made by me at the meeting at Caxton Hall. I have no recollection of having stated that you had more work than you ^{could} do & not a minute to spare. What I intended to convey was that, being the head of your profession as a woman auditor, you had a right, & were able,

To charge higher fees than those of less standing, following the practice of King's Counsel, eminent surgeons, &c. I regret that you should have misunderstood ^{me}, and disclaim any intention of making the statement in the form you attribute to me.

Yours faithfully
