My Dear Daisy

I was pleased to get your pretty card & your message of greeting.

Gloyn has already sent off to you by surface mail the copies of the Lord Choultro's address. I shall look forward to the present you are kindly sending me. Helen has not yet returned from her visit to her grand children in Montreal but I expect her home before the end of July.

I spent Xmas with my Budgett nieces in Cranbury & also Emmeline's sister Dorothy Pettit & my own cousin Dora Lawrence. And we had a merry time. On my birthday (88) I stayed with friends at Penlake.

I took Mary Stokes to see Rosmersholm last night. Ibsen had a surgical way of probing the psychopathy of women & showing that if men denied souls to them they could be decidedly unpleasant!

We had our first snow-flakes to lay. Up till now it has been warm, dark & wet. You are no doubt basking in summer sunshine & the same no fault applies to my own niece Nellie Davis in New Zealand.
