My dear Miss Hall,

But the Irish militant women are ahead of all the others. Their badge combines the orange with the green. Their executive board is composed of catholics and protestants together. Even just before the war, when the Irish men were divided on home rule -- the Irish Women's Franchise League was a unit for "suffrage first". Even after the war, when the <sup>Irish</sup> men were not a unit about anything, the League was for "suffrage first". If you will read one copy of the Irish Citizen, any issue, you will see that the Irish women are true leaders. I glory in their spunk.

I send a copy of the Irish Citizen in this mail. I have been a member of the Irish Women's Franchise League for some time. And enclosed is a membership card for you -- I am sure you belong with them.

I dont expect to go east altho the campain states are my country and to win them my religion.

Yours for the gold and green,
