ORGAN OF THE NATIONAL UNION OF WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE SOCIETIES (NUMBER OF SOCIETIES IN THE UNION 476).

The National Union of Women's Suffrage Societies is a great association of men and women banded together for the single purpose of obtaining Votes for Women. It was founded in 1867, and now numbers over 45,000 annually-subscribing members, organized into 476 Societies, under the presidentship of Mrs. Henry Fawcett. The colours of the Union are SCARLET, WHITE, and GREEN. Among its members are people of all parties, and people of none. The cause that unites them is the cause of Women's Suffrage, and they work for victory by peaceful methods only. They use neither violence nor intimidation, but rely on political pressure and the education of public opinion. WILL YOU JOIN? (Membership form on p. 827.)

Notes and Comments.

The National Labour Party and Women's Suffrage.

"A Fresh Pledge to the Women" is the heading which the Daily Citizen gave to its report of the last day's sitting of the Labour Party Conference at Glasgow. By an almost unanimous vote the Conference reaffirmed its decision of last January to oppose any further extension of the franchise to men unless women are included in it. The most significant thing about this vote (which was carried "by a roar of assent") was the fact that it obtained the support of the Miners' Federation. Two years ago the Miners voted against a resolution stating that "no franchise Bill would be acceptable to the Labour Party" which did not include the enfranchisement of women. Last year, when the Women's Suffrage Resolution was couched in much stronger terms, the Miners were divided on the point, and did not vote; this year they were as enthusiastic in their support as any body represented at the Conference. The action of the largest and most powerful of the Trade Unions is typical of the rapid and steady advance which the Women's Cause is making throughout the country. The whole atmosphere has changed, and nowhere is the change more visible or more inspiring than in the ranks of Labour. The whole Conference, according to Suffragists who were present, was a proof that among the workers at least it is realised that the Suffrage movement is an essential part of democracy.

The North-West Durham By-election.

The North-West Durham by-election shows an enormous fall in the Liberal poll. It has been reduced by 2,494 votes, and as the Unionist increase is only 737, it is clear that most of the transference has been in favour of Labour. The total poll was a very heavy one, and Mr. Stuart has every reason to hope, as he does, that next time he will be returned in triumph to the House of Commons. Speaking of recent by-elections, the Times says that the intervention of Labour "has been justified by strong working-class support in Lancashire, Yorkshire, Cheshire, Durham, and Scotland. . . . Labour has been 'a good third' in several elections, and its large poll in Oldham, Crewe, Mid-Lothian, and South Lanark, had much to do with the capture of those seats from the Government."

Women and the Empire.

At the recent Indian Social Conference at Kurachi, India reports among other resolutions one condemning the employment of nautch girls. We understand that a regular agitation is being organised against nautches, on the grounds that the dances are indecent and the dancers practically dedicated to a life of shame. This agitation is being organised and led not by Englishmen only or chiefly, but by the most public-spirited and enlightened of our Indian fellow-subjects. An appeal is made to Englishwomen to refuse to be present at entertainments which include nautch dancing. Indian ladies would not attend them, and it is a severe commentary on the custom of keeping women ignorant and assuring them that they are "not concerned with Imperial affairs," that such an appeal should be necessary. There is no question, however Imperial, on which an Imperial race can afford to leave its women ignorant on the ground that they are not concerned. They are concerned, and deeply concerned, in such a question as this.

Home Rule All Round.

The question of Home Rule All Round will be discussed by the Annual Committee of the Convention of Burghs (Scotland) next week, and it is suggested that the franchise for National Parliaments should include women. By all means. We shall be interested to see how many Anti-suffragists are consistent in their support of women's franchise in local government.

A Commission Without Women.

A Commission has been appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury and York to consider the relations of the Established Church and the State. It is entirely composed of men. Are we to understand that there are no women with intelligence and knowledge in the Anglican Church, or that the Church is not their affair? Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Paget seem to most people to refute the first claim and even the German Emperor denies the second. But what then is the explanation?

Women Solicitors.

We are glad to know that a Bill is to be introduced by Lord Robert Cecil next session, making women eligible to practise as solicitors. We are of opinion that (exclusive of the Suffrage) no advance can be suggested of greater importance to us than that of throwing open the legal professions to women. It is second only to that, already won, of the medical profession. An entirely new understanding of the attitude of the law towards life, as distinct from property; a revolution in its attitude towards women, at present too often an insulting "favouritism" with brutal disregard, would, we are convinced, be the result of this reform. "Revolution" is not too strong a word when one remembers how women doctors have taught us all that women are not "natural invalids," but naturally sane and strong.

Women at the Pit Brow.

We deeply regret the decision of the New Charlston Colliery owners to dismiss the women working at the pit brow. If it is a fact that men are honestly convinced that this work is "unwomanly" they should be compelled to face the fact that the women do not agree with them, have at least as good a right to their opinion, and in any case must find work somewhere. What do those who throw them out of work propose instead?

Education and Common-Sense.

We might equally well head this paragraph "Education and Women." The whole problem of educational advance demands for its solution the knowledge and common-sense of those people who, in the natural order of things, know most about children—namely, women. An article in the Times Educational Supplement of February 3rd, asserts once more that the defects of the old system of evening classes were due to the fatigue of pupils, teachers, and inspectors. The idea of tired teachers teaching tired boys and girls is one which women with all their imperfections would never have thought worth wasting money on.

"Particularly the Boys."

The Times goes on:—"It is obvious that if the children, and particularly the boys, are to take advantage of the newly-arranged courses of instruction, they cannot tack this serious study on to the end of a long day's labour which fully exhausts their energy." The girls presumably can do so, at least more easily than the boys, no doubt because of their superior physical strength and intellectual ardour. It is a great, if inconvenient compliment to the girls, and looks all the more imposing by contrast with another article on "Technical Training" in which "children" and "boys" are used interchangeably. It does not appear that the world contains any girls; or, if it does, they are too brilliant to require any training for their work.

The Bishop of London and Forcible Feeding.

All humane people, whether Suffragists or not, must have read with deep relief the report of the Bishop of London after his visit to Holloway. The terrible stories circulated about Miss Rachel Peace's state of mind and body have given the greatest distress even to those who most disapproved of "militant" methods. Dr. Winnington-Ingram, who has seen and talked with her, reports her well in health, and his assurances will be accepted by all unprejudiced persons—and surely, most of all by those who insisted on making him the judge. The suggestion that the Bishop did not really see Miss Peace at all, but somebody else, is too absurd to be seriously considered. Miss Peace must be liberated eventually, and the deception practised on the Bishop would be made plain. At the same time, we feel that if Miss Peace has been forcibly fed for weeks (a point which is not made clear in the published reports of the incident), her state of health seems to show that forcible feeding can be conducted in a way not dangerous to health, even when the victim resists. In that case, why has such terrible injury as was inflicted, for example, on Miss Lenton, ever occurred? And if it did not occur, why was Miss Lenton released? It looks as though forcible feeding were done brutally or—as far as such a disgusting business is compatible with humanity—humanely, according to the whim of the prison authorities, and we therefore welcome the report that the Bishop intends to pursue his inquiries.

Catherine Breshkovsky.

English newspapers have recorded the escape from Siberia and recapture of an old lady of eighty. Here is her story.

Catherine Breshkovsky commenced her lifework in 1871, when about twenty-six years of age. She and her husband were both of gentle birth and were landowners in the South. Imbued with the same ideas, they went among the peasantry teaching the laws of reform and freedom. With a soul overflowing with pity for them and their conditions of life, she worked for their enlightenment and emancipation. Husband and wife, however, soon incurred the displeasure of the authorities, and were placed under police supervision, until one day when they were given the choice between a peaceful life and abstinence from politics or facing the inevitable exile of the Russian revolutionist. Her husband chose the former, and she left him. It was the turning point in her life, for she determined to follow out the career that seemed to have been marked out for her. Her action certainly refutes Tolstoy's words:—

"Woman is not equal to man in the highest qualities, being incapable of such sacrifice. Men will at times sacrifice their families to an idea, woman never."

If renunciation is the first element essential for carrying out any great purpose, Catherine Breshkovsky's work should be crowned with success. She was deprived of all claim to property and social rights. In order to be able to mix unreservedly among the peasants and pilgrims, and also to evade the supervision of the police more easily, she stained her face and hands dark and donned the coarsest garments and boots of the people. However, in 1873 she was arrested and kept imprisoned. It was years before the sentence of penal servitude to Siberia was passed on her, and all this time she was longing for activity. The transport to Siberia was made over 5,000 miles of indescribable roads in springless carts. We may find a description of the suffering and privations of the prisoners on their way in the pages of "Resurrection," but what she endured during those years of penal servitude no pen has yet described. "Grannie" fought every kind of privation and misery in the terrible prisons of Siberia, worked in the mines, and lived in villages bordering on the Arctic, hundreds of miles away from any civilised being. She attempted escape several times, tramping on foot for days, only to be recaptured and sent back to harder forms of punishment than before; but from the foulest cells, the lengthiest hunger strikes, her dauntless spirit emerged fresh and unbroken. Her first term of imprisonment ended in 1896. On her return to Russia she continued her political propaganda. In spite of all she had endured, her interest in the cause she had embraced never abated. She took an active part on the committees of the "Black Reformers," "People's Liberators," and "Land and Freedom," maintaining intercourse with all the powerful agitators of her time, her reticent and circumspect character surrounding her with a halo in the eyes of the desperate men around her.

At an important meeting held at Geneva, "Grannie's" attention was drawn to a man, prominent for the terrorist measures he advocated with the leaders. This new member was no other than Asef, the Agent-Provocateur of the Secret Police, a singular creation of the Russian Government, who, whilst apparently working with the revolutionists, did so to be in a better position to hand them over to his force.

At another meeting, held at Saratof, it had been decided to resort to all terrorist measures for advancing the cause. Asef had planned "Grannie's" arrest, but she evaded his endeavours. Her life now became the type of the lives of many high-minded people who, originally desirous only for the good of humanity, become embittered by continual repression and gradually consider any means lawful for gaining the goal in view. Her next years were filled with working out plans of the most desperate nature and preaching her mission to the people whom she everywhere inspired by her prophetic words.

In 1906 an attempt was made on the life of General Trepov, Governor-General of St. Petersburg. Asef pointed out her whereabouts to the agents of the Secret Police. She was arrested and confined at St. Petersburg, and tried after several years of imprisonment. Considering her age, she might have been pardoned if, at the trial, she had not declared her profession in court. She was sentenced to exile at Kirensh and once more set out on the weary journey to Siberia, where she has been up to the already recorded attempt at flight.

The sentence for running away from the Siberian Settlements is three years' penal servitude. Let us hope it may be mitigated in consideration of "Grannie's" years.

AFTER THE FIGHT.

A Message from North-West Durham.

Aneurin Williams (Lib.)	7,241
J. Ogden Hardicker (Cons.)	5,564
G. H. Stuart (Lab.)	5,026

Frankly, we are disappointed. We did hope for a win this time, but old tradition has once more proved too strong. Looked at, however, from the point of view of achievement, the result is nothing to be ashamed of. A poll of 5,026 at the first time of asking is excellent, and if this can be accomplished in a few weeks with little previous organisation beyond a few I.L.P. branches, the success of Labour in the constituency within a short time is assured. We have to remember that all those 5,026 votes were, in the mining phrase, "hewn out of the solid." Not one of the 5,026 men had ever voted Labour before. What defeated us was the Irish vote—a compact mass of nearly 3,000, controlled from headquarters and presented to the Liberal Party. Mr. Stuart paid fine tribute to the women's help. Speaking of their work, he reminded the audience "The women of the National Union are not here entirely for love of North-West Durham—nor for love of the Labour candidate. They are here because they are fighting for a great cause for which we are fighting too." Every reference to the N.U. was cheered to the echo. Whenever, as frequently happened, "Three cheers for Mr. Stuart" were called for, someone was sure to follow it with "Three cheers for the Suffragists," or "Votes for Women," and these were given just as heartily.

Where so many people have helped, it is scarcely possible to single any out for special thanks. But we should like to mention that Mr. Donald Oldham was with us for the first part of the campaign, paying his own expenses and giving invaluable help. We must also thank Dr. Ethel Williams and Miss Ashton for the loan of cars for polling day, and Mr. Tom Darlington for his voluntary work as chauffeur.

Mr. Stuart sends the following message through Miss Gordon:—

"Will you kindly convey my most grateful thanks to the Executive of the National Union for the magnificent work put in during the fight in North-West Durham. I cannot possibly speak too highly of the way in which both your speakers and workers helped us. I fear that the ordinary supporter of any political movement does not quite realise what fighting a mid-winter campaign in North-West Durham means, and I cannot hope to bring it home to them. I can, however, testify that I saw your women putting in the most enthusiastic work in circumstances of the utmost discomfort, and that I regard it as an eloquent testimony not only to their courage but to the sincerity of their convictions. I am exceedingly sorry that the result was not favourable to us, but I think you will agree that we laid the foundation of success in the near future."

CLAIMS OF WOMEN SORTERS.

A deputation of the Women Sorters' Association waited upon Mr. Herbert Samuel at the General Post Office last week to urge upon him that there should be an immediate increase of pay to all women sorters. They submitted that the maximum of the class should be raised to 34s., as against the 32s. recommended by the Holt Committee, basing their demand on the increased cost of living, and the superior duties to be performed. The deputation also drew attention to the class of women telegraphists at the Central Telegraph Office, whose maximum is 40s., and maintained that there was no justification for so great a difference—namely 8s.—in the maxima of the two classes. They urged that the minimum of the women overseers should be at least 2s. above the maximum of the women sorters, and that the number of overseers be in the proportion of one in ten, as is already the case with the women telegraphists, and not one in twenty.

The Postmaster-General promised to give the views of the deputation his consideration.

A GENEROUS ANONYMOUS GIFT.

The Hon. Treasurer of the Glasgow Society sends grateful thanks to an "Old Glaswegian" for the very handsome gift of £100.

ARTICLE BY MR. PHILIP SNOWDEN.

The article by Mr. Philip Snowden, on the "Present Position of Woman Suffrage," which appeared in The Englishwoman for December, has been reprinted. Copies can be obtained from the office of the Liverpool Society for Women's Suffrage, 18, Colquitt Street, Liverpool. Price 1d., or 1d. post free.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS.

Mrs. Frank Marshall's address until Easter will be 31, Grosvenor Road, Westminster, S.W.

MISS MARGARET JONES' ILLNESS.

So many enquiries have been made about Miss Jones since her accident in Switzerland that it is impossible for her to reply to all. She asks us to say that she is making good progress, and hopes to be back in England in six weeks. Also to convey her thanks for kind enquiries.

THE ALBERT HALL MEETING AND THE MANDATE FUND.

The demand for tickets for the Albert Hall Meeting on February 14th has been unprecedented. For days now, there has been a long waiting list of those who are hoping to secure the returned tickets of some unfortunates who have taken them and find they cannot use them: there is no other chance now of getting any of the 5s. seats, and not many even of the cheapest places are left.

Suffragists are now asked to turn their attention to the great Fund that is to be raised for the work of the Union. Its name is enough to commend it to all. We demand a Government measure for Women's Suffrage, for we know that no other way is to be found for winning the enfranchisement of women. Private Member's Bills have been tried and found useless. Nothing but a Government measure is any use to us.

And Mr. Asquith has said that on this subject he will "bow to the will of the people."

We have, therefore, to give to Mr. Asquith the mandate he DEPUTATION TO THE RT. HON. WALTER RUNCIMAN, M.P.

A deputation, organised by the North-Western Federation, N.U. W.S.S., was received by Mr. Runciman at Brampton on January 19th. In the absence through illness of Miss Bardsley, Chairman of the North-Western Federation, Mrs. F. W. Chance, President of the Carlisle Society, introduced the deputation and urged Mr. Runciman to do all in his power to secure the speedy introduction of a Government measure. The Bishop of Barrow-in-Furness spoke on the moral and religious aspect of Women's Suffrage, and Mrs. F. E. Marshall, Vice-President of the N.-W. Federation, reported that those who went with the Pilgrimage claimed fearlessly that opinion was with them—it was only waiting to know how to express itself. Mr. W. Eggleston, President of the Carlisle Trades and Labour Council, speaking for the organised workers of the district, and Mr. F. E. Marshall, speaking from the Liberal point of view, emphasised the need for a Government measure.

In his reply, Mr. Runciman spoke of the unfortunate influence upon private members of militant tactics, and disagreed with the deputation as to the extra force which comes from a Government Bill. "If," he said, "the Government were to take up the Bill it would not go through; it would mean the defeat of the Government, and that I should regard as a calamity." He maintained that it was the duty of members of Parliament who are in favour of Women's Suffrage to take their share in the formation of opinion amongst their constituents—a duty which has constantly been urged by the N.U.—and said that he had no sympathy with members who declared themselves in favour of Women's Suffrage, but were afraid to open their mouths on the subject in their own areas. He had never wavered in his own support and whatever his views might be on the precise details of the measure, he would be prepared to vote for the second reading of any Women's Suffrage Bill in order to break the ice. What Suffragists had to do now, he contended, was to consolidate opinion in the country, and bring another Bill before the House. When that time came, he would be in the right lobby.

The members of the deputation were:—

requires. We shall do so on February 14th by our vast demonstration, made up not only of thousands and thousands of individual supporters, but by men representing the great bodies of organised Labour. And this demonstration must "demonstrate" in a manner more conclusive than the passing of any resolution, however decisive; it must raise the biggest sum of money on record. The fund raised by the Pilgrimage was the biggest we have ever raised. We want to beat our biggest now. Women are the poor sex; but Women Suffragists make up in generosity and self-denial for the smallness of their possessions, and the money will be given, we do not doubt, in a manner worthy of the high traditions of a movement built from the beginning on self-sacrifice. Men also are especially appealed to. They are not the poor sex, and it is from them above all that the Mandate has to come. Let every man who owes something of all that makes life worth living, to a woman, pay his debt on February 14th!

THE LABOUR PARTY CONFERENCE AT GLASGOW.

By One Who Was Present.

Many questions of absorbing interest to women were discussed at the Annual Conference of the National Labour Party held in Glasgow last week. If there were no other bond between the Women's Movement and the Labour Movement, there would be a strong ground for mutual sympathy in the importance which each attaches to the place of the home in politics, and to the care for the welfare of the young, the weak, and the oppressed. But in this report we have only space to record the part which Women's Suffrage played in the Conference.

In his opening address, Councillor Fox, Chairman of the National Labour Party, referred in terms of warm appreciation to the help which the Labour Party had received from the Women Suffragists, and declared that "it is the Labour Party's duty to force the question of women's enfranchisement, and all that it involves, to the front."

As a result of the first resolution on the agenda, "the establishment of complete political freedom for all men and women" has been added to the usual statement of the general aims of the Labour Party.

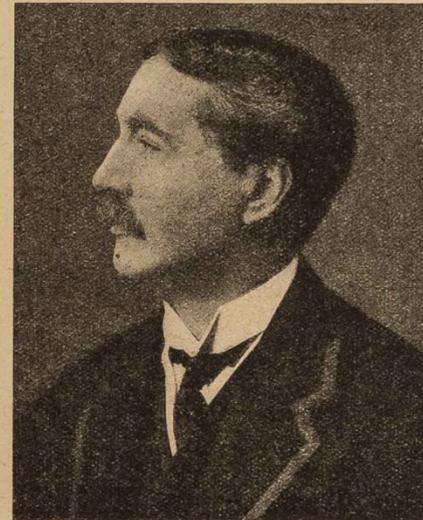

The decision of last year's Conference "to oppose any franchise bill which does not include women" was reaffirmed with enthusiasm. Last year the resolution evoked a prolonged debate. This year there was no need for discussion; the resolution was carried with a perfect roar of assent, only two members opposing it.

The full text of the resolution, which was moved by the Women's Labour League, was as follows:—

"That this Conference reaffirms its previous decisions on Women's Suffrage, and declares that the Government can only redeem the pledge it has given by bringing in a Bill to enfranchise both men and women, and requests the Parliamentary Labour Party, in view of the unsatisfactory statements of members of the Cabinet that Women's Suffrage cannot be dealt with in this Parliament, to raise the question of their enfranchisement at the earliest opportunity next Session."

The Fabian Society moved a resolution calling upon the Parliamentary Labour Party "to vote against any Plural Voting Bill unless a Government Bill enfranchising women has been previously introduced." This resolution was defeated on the ground that a Plural Voting Bill was not a franchise bill, but a registration bill, whose effect would be to take away votes, not to confer them. Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, on behalf of the Executive Committee, opposed the resolution, though the Committee wholeheartedly accepted the previous one moved by the Women's Labour League. He said they believed that the passage of the Plural Voting Bill would hasten and not delay a settlement of the whole franchise question.

Mr. Keir Hardie and Mr. Ben Turner spoke on behalf of the minority on the Committee, who wished to oppose the Plural Voting Bill. The resolution was defeated by a large majority.

Mr. A. W. BARTON, M.P. for Oldham, whose recent quarrel with the Liberal Association was caused by the refusal of tickets of admission to a great Liberal meeting to some Liberal women who had justified their right to the tickets as workers in the cause of Liberalism. Mr. Barton was informed that if he had asked for tickets for his "personal friends," they would have been granted. This he refused on principle, to do, as he held that the ladies in question had a right to admission on their own merits as workers in the Liberal cause.

NEWS FROM ABROAD.

AUSTRALIAN WOMEN AND MR. HOBHOUSE.

On hearing a report that Mr. Hobhouse was to be appointed Governor-General of Australia, the Women's Political Association cabled from Melbourne asking Jus Suffragii to urge the Australian and New Zealand Women Voters' Association in London to protest to Mr. Asquith against this appointment. The Association regards it as an affront to women voters. No Cabinet Minister would be acceptable, and Mr. Hobhouse would be particularly unsuitable, as his attitude towards Women's Suffrage has always been most insulting.

BOHEMIA.

Bohemian women are facing numerous serious changes, which require watchfulness and unwearied toil.

(1) The Austrian Government has proposed a new Suffrage Bill for the Diet of Bohemia, extending franchise to all men, but excluding women—except taxpayers. The eligibility of the women members of the Diet is denied altogether. This means a breaking-up of the equality which has existed till now. It also means the loss of the franchise to many women now paying a small tax, which the new tax law (now being passed by Parliament) will not require them to pay.

(2) The Prague municipality is preparing a new electoral law for Prague, which will give women the right to vote if they pay taxes amounting to at least 10 K. Because all women of Prague have been till now excluded from this right, questionnaires are being sent by the Prague municipality to other municipalities in Bohemia, asking for their opinion on Women's Suffrage.

(3) According to the new Law of Association this law would not come into effect until January 1st of the year following its sanction by the Emperor. (See Jus Suffragii, January, 1914, rep. of Austria). This might retard the possibility of forming political associations of women for a whole year at least.

Vybor pro volebni pravo zen has therefore sent a petition to Parliament (through the kindness of M. Choc) asking it to pass a resolution that the law become valid on the day that it is proclaimed.

[The above was kindly sent to us by the editor of JUS SUFFRAGII, as it was received too late for publication in the February number of that paper.]

FINLAND.

The Lutheran National Church held its quinquennial Congress in Abo, and appointed a Committee to consider the question of permitting women to act as sacristans in the Church. The Congress also debated the question of extending the ecclesiastical franchise to men and women over 24 years of age and expressed itself in favour of this reform. Since 1896 every owner of property and the head of every household, irrespective of sex, has had the right to participate in ecclesiastical elections in Finland.

GERMANY.

Discussion in Reichstag.

Our Berlin Correspondent, Frau Minna Cauer, editor of Die Frauenbewegung, sends us an account of the discussion on Women's Suffrage in the Reichstag, taken from a German paper:—

"On Tuesday a discussion took place in the Reichstag concerning the demand of the German Association for Women's Suffrage for the vote to be granted to women on the same terms as men. The debate showed an attitude rather different from that assumed in former discussions of the women's demands. Speakers of the 'bürgerlichen' parties no longer indulged in any of the old, dull, ill-chosen jokes on emancipated women. This was perhaps a direct consequence of the speech of the sympathetic Dr. Cohn who, as first speaker, anticipated the usual objections by refuting them. Moreover, the idea of women's right to vote has made visible progress. Only the Conservative Party declared itself categorically against Women's Suffrage. Even the 'Frei-Konservative' speaker gave it only as his belief that for the present the political vote of women in the German Empire could not be tolerated. The speakers of the Central party, the National Liberals, and the 'Volkspartei' gave a similar opinion. All speakers, however, tried to soften their opposition to the women's vote by appreciative words of the women's movement, and this was the characteristic element of Tuesday's debate. The representative of the Centre gladly recognised that German women now show great interest in the public affairs of the realm, the state, and the municipality, and he deemed that they had a legitimate right in expecting to be considered, to a certain extent, in public life. The speakers of the National Liberal and Frei-Konservative parties spoke in the same spirit. Even the Conservative speaker had no objection to some political recognition of women—the limits of the Conservative conception of the world. It would, however, be quite a mistake for women to suppose that the 'bürgerlichen' parties will make any important concessions to their demands. In spite of their platonic recognition, the Conservatives and 'Frei-Konservatives' voted to proceed to the order of the day, and the other parties only held that the petition was worthy of being transmitted to the Government. Only a few Progressive members decided in favour of the plea of the Social Democrats that the petition should be considered by the Government."

SPAIN.

The women of Spain advance slowly: but the Zeitschrift reports that they have now been awarded unconditional admission to the Universities.

A B C OF WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

WHY DOES THE NATIONAL UNION NOT SUPPORT LIBERAL CANDIDATES AT THE BY-ELECTIONS?

Many Suffragists say they cannot understand why the National Union will not support a Liberal Candidate at by-elections, even if he is himself a good Suffragist.

Those who say this have forgotten the history of Women's Suffrage in Parliament in the past 5 years. During that time the National Union worked for the candidate, irrespective of party, whose personal attitude on Women's Suffrage was the most satisfactory.

We did this because we hoped for the success in Parliament of a non-party measure for Women's Suffrage—that is to say, a bill for Women's Suffrage which would command the support of Suffragists of all parties.

Such a bill was the Conciliation Bill. It was not a party bill put forward by the Government, but was introduced each year by a private member. Suffragists of all parties promised to support it, and, therefore, it did not matter to the National Union to what party a man belonged, so long as he undertook to support our measure in Parliament.

THE SUPPORT OF A PRIVATE MEMBER'S BILL IN PARLIAMENT WHICH DEPENDS FOR ITS SUCCESS ON A MAJORITY DRAWN FROM ALL PARTIES MEANS, AT BY-ELECTIONS, SUPPORT OF THE CANDIDATE WHO IS THE BEST SUFFRAGIST IRRESPECTIVE OF PARTY.

But while Suffragists had a big majority in Parliament for a non-party measure, the Government would not grant time for its further stages. When at last time was promised, the action of the Government caused the majority to go to pieces.

How was this? The Conciliation Bill was "torpedoed," to use Mr. Lloyd George's own words, by the announcement that the Government intended to introduce a Reform Bill. This bill was to enfranchise practically every man and no woman, but Mr. Asquith promised that every opportunity would be given for the inclusion of women in the Bill by way of amendment.

Fourteen months afterwards, it was discovered that the Reform Bill had been drafted in such a way that the fulfilment of this promise was impossible. Mr. Asquith offered instead to give time for a Private Member's Bill, but experience had shown us that with the Prime Minister as our opponent, Liberals broke their pledges, and Irish Nationalists reversed their votes, because they feared that the passage of a Women's Suffrage Bill would embarrass their Anti-Suffrage leader.

THE ACTION OF THE LIBERAL GOVERNMENT HAD MADE THE SUCCESS OF A PRIVATE MEMBER'S BILL IN PARLIAMENT IMPOSSIBLE.

You cannot now secure a free vote, or an honest vote, on a private Member's Bill for Women's Suffrage, because many members think, not of the merits of the question, but of the effect upon the fortunes of their party.

Under these conditions a majority can only be secured for Women's Suffrage by means of a party measure. A party measure means a Government measure.

THE NATIONAL UNION THEREFORE DEMANDS A GOVERNMENT MEASURE FOR WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE.

We will waste no more time and money on work for a bill which can, and will, be defeated by intrigue in the House of Commons. It is useless to obtain the return to Parliament of individual members who are in favor of Women's Suffrage, if the party to which they belong is not pledged to Women's Suffrage. We withhold our support, therefore, from any Liberal candidate, however friendly he may be as an individual; his vote is no good to us while his Government is against us, and his return will strengthen the Government which refuses to do anything for Women's Suffrage.

TO DEMAND A GOVERNMENT MEASURE INVOLVES SUPPORT OF CANDIDATES NOT AS INDIVIDUALS BUT AS MEMBERS OF A PARTY.

A truly "non-party" Suffragist is one who puts her own party opinions second to her Suffrage opinions, and looks at all parties solely from the Suffrage point of view.

The February Magazines.

The Englishwoman.—The articles this month are chiefly devoted to women in public work. Miss Lowndes opens with one on "National Waste," a subject to which she contributes much original thought. The national waste dealt with here is the loss to the nation of the services of the unmarried women of the middle classes. "What people are able to do," says Miss Lowndes, "is practically of no importance. It is what they have a living impulse to do—a secret spring of action in their natures—which really affects the progress of humanity," and goes on to show that these vital impulses are allowed full scope in men; but in the case of women their suitability for great tasks is not the passport to their co-operation in public work, but masculine opinion as to what is suitable work for women to do.

The difficulties which confront women who are desirous of giving their services on public bodies are ably and clearly set forth by Mrs. Rackham in her article on the "County and Borough Councils (Qualification) Bill."

One does not generally expect to find amusement in a survey of hospital administration, or in the details of work in connection with hospital management, but anyone who can read "Problems of the Day" without a smile must be hopelessly deficient in a sense of humour. Mrs. Pennell, M.B., B.S. (née Sorabji), writes on "Medical Problems in India," giving a very unsatisfactory account of the conditions under which medical women are expected to accomplish the enormous amount of important work among the women of India.

New employments for women are so rare that it is cheering to read of another opening for women's work under the Insurance Act. Mrs. Johnson tells of her experiences as an "Insurance Visitor." Though the work is hard, it has many compensations, and can be undertaken in the visitor's own time.

In the open letter Madame Jeanne Schmahl deals gently with Lord Cromer's inaccuracies in his "Feminism in France," which appeared in the November number of the National Review; inaccuracies which would have been truly shocking if the "unlovely crew" of Suffragists had been guilty of them.

Jus Suffragii.—The international Suffrage paper is making strides in increased interest and value. All Suffragists who feel the romance of a world-wide movement should read it. This month's number has interesting articles on the political situation in Sweden, factory workers in Russia, and a questionnaire on women-dentists in many of the countries of the Suffrage Alliance, which is of great interest in view of the demand—at present largely unsatisfied—for women-dentists in Great Britain.

Nineteenth Century and After.—"Woman Suffrage at Work in Australia." A summary of the sixty-three answers to the inquiry instituted into the working of the Suffrage in the nine States of America that have introduced it, by Adeline Duchess of Bedford, the Marchioness of Salisbury, and ten other ladies. Needless to say, the replies are in a large preponderance favourable, and the marked character of the evidence is well worth consideration. "The Diminishing Birth-rate. Is it a National Danger?" by Dr. James A. Rigby, treats the question boldly and from an original standpoint. "Clubland Two Hundred Years Ago" is interesting as contrasting the influence of women in the French Salon, with its absence in the English coffee-house and literary society.

The Fortnightly.—Mr. Edmund Gosse has a delightful paper on Lady Dorothy Nevill, and there is much food for thought in Mr. Hurd's considerations in regard to emigration.

The World's Work.—An account of "Mrs. Andrew, Ironmaster," known as the "Iron Woman," from her success in managing her husband's foundry.

War and Peace.—This is a new Norman Angell monthly for all who are interested in the promotion of international peace.

EXPECTANT MOTHERHOOD. J. W. Ballantyne, M.D., F.R.C.P. Edin. (Cassell. 6s.)

The Wife of the Working Man.

[In this and following weeks, articles on the need for the protection of wives and mothers will appear in THE COMMON CAUSE. We leave the writers perfectly free to expound facts and suggest remedies, but in no case does the N.U.W.S.S. take responsibility for the views set forward in signed articles. Our object is to provide a platform for free discussion.]

The two million wives of the two million men in permanent employment who are earning on full time less than 25s. a week in the United Kingdom, live curiously anomalous, important, and impotent lives. If it were not that the great majority of these men are, on the whole, kindly and decent persons, the lives of their wives would be inconceivably dreadful. Where the husband—in any class, or earning any income—is a brutal or intemperate man, the life of a dependent wife is likely to be far from pleasant. But when the brutal or intemperate husband earns less than 25s. a week, the life of his dependent wife is certain to be unspeakably terrible. There is no need, however, to suppose an intemperate or even unkind husband in order to show that the wife of the working man lives a life full of grinding responsibility, of sordid and unceasing toil, of wearing anxiety, combined with utter powerlessness—a life cruel enough to crush the vitality of any human being. And to live such a life, the wife of a respectable, kindly man, on such a wage may be able to spend on her own food something like 2d. or 2½d. a day!

What is the life lived by these two million women? Let us always remember that the picture given deals only with those whose husbands are in permanent employment. There are unknown numbers of women whose husbands are casual labourers. These suffer even more from anxiety and misery than do those whose lives are about to be described.

The carter or labourer or packer who earns 23s. a week regularly is likely to give 20s. a week to his wife. Out of the 3s. he keeps for himself, he dresses, smokes, drinks, and pays national insurance and club-money; possibly he also pays fares to and from work. It is not a sum which, looked at from the light of personal human experience, seems unduly luxurious.

But the woman is face to face with a harder problem and a greater responsibility than that of mere thwarted personal needs. She must house, feed, clothe, warm and clean for an uncertain number of persons. She has not even the power of deciding how large or how small the number shall be. She must choose rooms near her husband's work, no matter that rents may be high and housing inconvenient and unwholesome. She must choose food which is palatable to her husband, whether it be suited to the young children or not. The problem has to be worked out on a basis of 20s. a week. She probably married when her husband first earned £1 a week, and he most likely gave her 18s. By the time her allowance rises to 20s. there may be three or four children. Perhaps 23s. is a top wage, and when the family numbers eight persons the household allowance is still 20s. or, at the very most, 21s.

In London, and in most of the large industrial towns, such a family would live in one, two, or perhaps three, rooms. After a day's work the parents may have to share their bed with the two youngest children; the difference between them being that, if he can, the father sleeps through the various incidents of the night, while the mother is for ever on duty. After such crowded and disturbed sleep both children and parents rise tired and strained, to exist through another day's work on an average of 3d. or 3½d. a head for food all round the family. The breadwinner, perforce, gets at least 6d. a day spent on his food—he could not do his work efficiently on less. The mother and children, therefore, get about 2d. a head. In districts where rents are lower, wages for less skilled work are lower also, and the amount spent on food does not vary as much as might be supposed from the difference in rent.

Between bearing, nursing, and rearing children; scrubbing, sweeping, and cleaning rooms; washing, ironing, and mending clothes; cooking, serving, and clearing away meals, the labourer's wife lives a life of such extraordinary toil that only the most certain and brilliant future would explain equal devotion in a free human being. But all her ceaseless activity brings her no security, no prospects. Should her husband fail her—should his health give way—should he gamble or take to drink, her home, which she has worked so hard to make and to keep in order, fails her too. She is, when all is said and done, a kept woman. If through any cause, innocent or otherwise, her husband should fail her, she is thrown on to the labour market and its recognised "women's wages," with all her family to keep. She now becomes entirely responsible in the eye of the law. Even while her husband was maintaining her, she was legally responsible equally with him for the proper care of her children, whether her conditions were such as to enable her to care for them properly or not. An instance of this is the class than the distressingly ungrateful and even critical spirit displayed towards them by the ruled.

Such a divided standard is, of course, perfectly natural. When the qualification for the vote is, as it is now, so small a matter that no male person is hopelessly excluded, and a man though he may be off the register to-day may be on it again to-morrow, it would be absurd to suggest that his almost accidental exclusion is due to any deep moral difference between himself and other men. Not so, when the barrier was practically impassable. Then it was easily supposed that the poor man was unfit by nature or Divine ordinance, or from some other equally remote and unsearchable cause, for the business of government. His attention was therefore directed towards those virtues which make it easy to govern him. Criticism (which is inconvenient) is apt to be the result of too much knowledge. Ignorance, therefore, was regarded as almost a virtue in the poor. Certain books were "unfit for working-men" to read, and "too much education" was easily believed to be the ruin of the working-classes. Ambition, "noble" in the rich, was easily seen to be a most reprehensible discontent in the poor, upon whom misquoted portions of the Church Catechism were enthusiastically urged. Even religion took a curiously different form for rich and poor; and laws were regarded as made "to protect the rich in their estate and to restrain the vices of the poor."

This attitude of mind is not dead indeed, but it is dying. A tree can go on looking green and flourishing for a time after it has been cut down, and there are still people who cling to a divided moral standard for rich and poor. But the axe was laid to the root of that tree in 1867. No more dramatic illustration of this truth need be given than the words of Mr. Robert Lowe after the enfranchisement of even a small proportion of working-men—"Now let us educate our masters!"

Wisdom and knowledge are most desirable in rulers. They are apt to be inconvenient in the ruled. If you want to take the huge responsibility of directing another man's life, it is really more convenient that he should think you as wise as Solomon; and he will not, if he knows anything at all. But give him a share in directing your life, and you too will desire to "educate your master."

Women are still on the other side of that deep gulf which divides rulers and ruled. The gulf is deeper, for it is impassable. A man might pass from one side to the other even before 1867. The property qualification was high, but still a miracle might happen! And exceptionally liberal-minded rulers, realising this, could still with an effort realise the fact that all men are human beings. But with women the cleavage is complete, for a woman cannot become a man! And the belief that there is a division in moral standard, as in physical functions, becomes in their case complete.

Public spirit and broadmindedness, sanity and judgment, courage, honour, self-control: behold the virtues of the ruling class! Unselfishness, submission, gentleness, personal devotion, chastity of life, are instinctively assigned to the governed. How natural it is! If a husband desires to rule supreme over his wife, must he not wish her to display the virtues of submission and devotion? If, still conscious that to err is human, he nevertheless wishes her to accept his judgment as final, can he wish her to be extraordinarily wise? In him, indeed, wisdom is seen to be a virtue—aimed at, if not attained—but in her is it too much to say that ignorance is not without its charms? It is at least convenient. Miss Austen, not a hundred years ago, wrote of a heroine who blushed to find herself incapable of following the highly intellectual conversation of her lover—"Foolish child! She little knew the extent of her own attractions! Imbecility in women is a great addition to their charms!" Nor was she wrong, if one may judge by parents of this year of grace, 1914, who anxiously adjure the schoolmistress "not to make Mary too clever." "Cleverness" may be desirable in rulers: it is highly inconvenient in the ruled. Courage and judgment, sanity and wisdom, are less desirable than gentleness and personal devotion even to "unworthy objects" (Pace Mr. Austen Chamberlain). Mercy is preferred to justice, and if women are "incapable of taking impersonal views" it is at least equally true that their rulers seem incapable of wishing them to do so.

Is it perhaps possible that we are all wrong on this point? Could women take impersonal views if they ever dealt with impersonal matters, and show courage if cowardice were not thought to be beautiful in them? Are justice and mercy really divorced? And is it a true morality which finds any virtue "inconvenient" in any human being? We Suffragists think not. And in our hearts we know that the Woman's Movement in all its different methods of expression, in its heroism and rebellion, even in its tragedies and mistakes, is at heart a revolt against a divided standard of morality—a deep and unconquerable resentment against a mean standard and a low ideal.

Albert Hall Demonstration.

The rush for tickets for the 14th still continues, and, with the exception of a few 5s. seats in boxes, only shilling and six-penny seats can now be had. Those who have not yet applied for tickets should write to headquarters at once. We want to urge all friends to wear badges (price 1d.) and to remove their hats. The aspiring ornaments which adorn this winter's hats are exasperating at a meeting, however exhilarating in the street, and we want everyone in the hall to have a good view of the speakers. And please remember that the meeting will begin punctually at 8 o'clock, and that all ticket-holders should try to be in their seats by 7.45 at latest.

Annual Council Meeting.

The final agenda will be in the hands of Secretaries of Societies on Monday, February 9th. The Council begins on Thursday afternoon, February 12th (2-6 p.m.), and will continue throughout Friday, and, if necessary, on Saturday morning. The Executive Committee of the London Society is holding a reception to the delegates at Caxton Hall on Friday, February 13th, from 8.30-11 p.m. Tickets are 2s. each for friends, half-price for members of the London Society.

Hospitality.

A very large number of delegates are looking forward to attending the Council Meetings on February 12th, 13th, and 14th, and we appeal for an additional number of hostesses to come forward with the very kind offer of hospitality which alone makes it possible for these delegates to come to London. Many of them would like to stay for the Demonstration Meeting in the Albert Hall, and in this case it would be necessary for them to be put up on Sunday as well. Members and others who are able to house a delegate, or delegates, from the 12th to the 16th, or for a part of this time, are begged to write without delay to Miss P. Strachey, London Society for Women's Suffrage, 58, Victoria Street, London, S.W.

Press Report.

An interesting series of articles called "Life in the Harem" has been published by the Daily Telegraph, and can be had from their publishing offices, 141, Fleet Street, E.C. The Islington Daily Gazette of January 19th and 26th contains a very interesting account of Suffrage activities in Islington, and particulars of a meeting given by the Women's Co-operative Guild, at which "The Wastage of Child Life" was discussed. It is stated that the Guild have promised to attend the Albert Hall Demonstration.

case of the woman who lived so far from a well that it took her nearly an hour to fetch water from it. She was sent to prison by the local authorities because her house and her children went unwashed. Her husband was in receipt of low, regular wages, and her children were in good health.

A wife who, for any reason, is not maintained by her husband, becomes responsible for the whole maintenance of her children. She may have been the best of mothers, and motherhood is a calling which exacts strength, patience, wisdom, self-control, and industry. But though it is a calling which is of such national importance that if it were not carried on the nation would cease to exist, a mother, as such, has no status. Though she works so hard for them, her children are regarded as her husband's affair. Should he fail them, her home work, having no market value, cannot support them. They suddenly become her affair, and she has nothing. She can only look, in the terrible struggle before her, to the Destitution Authority.

If upright and careful mothers could rely for their children's best interests on any power that was always alive and always in work (so to speak), there would be some encouragement for women who felt themselves capable of self-denial, patience, and affectionate wisdom in the bringing up of children. As it is, the whole responsibility for the nurture and welfare of the next generation is left to the fathers, who, in many millions of cases, are wholly occupied in earning an insufficient wage and in their turn leave it to the mothers, who are ultimately expected to produce the children to the education officer clean and well cared for—mothers who are not the legal parent, have no money of their own, and are not even reckoned by the State to be worthy of consultation in its affairs! And yet no affair of the nation can equal in importance the work which is carelessly left to the overworked, underfed, impotent women. The well-being of the children of the nation should be a responsibility not only of the parent but of the State.

M. S. REEVES.

SOUTH BUCKS BY-ELECTION.

Candidates: Mr. Tonman Mosley, Lib. val.
 Mr. Baring du Pre, Unionist.

Committee Rooms: High Wycombe:—3, Crendon Street. Slough:—115, High Street.

Polling Day: February 18th.

Work in Slough is encouraging. Our Committee Room is lent us by Mr. James Elliman. It is a source of general interest and has brought Women's Suffrage well to the fore. Our canvassers have met with sympathy and willingness to be enrolled as "Friends of Women's Suffrage." On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Lachlan gives a drawing-room meeting for us. On Thursday evening the Slough branch of the National Union of Railwaymen held a meeting to hear a Suffrage speaker.

Mrs. and Miss Hartopp Nash, of Slough, have taken charge of the Committee Room daily, and the Misses Putnam have proved energetic canvassers. From Ascot have come Miss Hanbury, Miss Grant, and the Misses Forester, while Miss Violet Eustace, Mrs. Goolden, Mrs. Egbert Atherley-Jones, Miss Miller, and a bevy of Stewards for the public meeting gave invaluable help.

It was estimated that seven hundred people were in the Hall on Monday night, and three hundred were turned away from the doors. Mr. Baillie-Weaver and Miss Helen Ward roused the audience to enthusiasm, and the resolution demanding a Government measure was carried with acclamation. There were a few dissentients among a group at the back of the Hall. A collection of £2 11s. 7d. was taken. Literature and badges sold freely, and nineteen copies of THE COMMON CAUSE. Seventy-five "Friends of Women's Suffrage" were enrolled, bringing up our total in Slough to 166. We are sending a speaker to address the Women's Co-operative Guild on Tuesday night.

HIGH WYCOMBE.—A good number of crowded open-air meetings have been held in High Wycombe and out-lying districts, at which great sympathy has been shown, and 180 new "Friends" have been gained for Woman Suffrage. On Friday night a great public meeting was held in the Town Hall, when Mrs. Scott took the Chair, and the speakers were Miss Royden and Miss Courtney. A resolution was put, demanding a Government measure, and this was carried enthusiastically in a full house, with only four dissentients.

At Amersham, on Monday, the Town Hall was packed to the doors, and a very enthusiastic meeting was held. After a lively question time, the resolution asking for a Government measure was carried by a large majority. A good collection was taken; forty-eight "Friends" cards signed, and some new members secured.

COMMON CAUSE WEEK IN SWANSEA.

The Swansea Society is embarking on a Special Campaign this week, with a view to increasing the circulation of THE COMMON CAUSE in the town and district. Not only in Swansea itself, but at Mumbles, Morriston, and even Neath, an enthusiastic band of workers will sell the paper, in the street, from house to house, outside theatres and music-halls, and at any meetings where sympathisers are likely to be found. Most of the principal newsagents have promised to display special bills, and several other methods of advertising have been arranged. The President, who is abroad, is sending a cheque towards expenses, and other members who are unable to give personal help have also contributed towards the fund. It happens that the Annual Meeting, a Lecture by Miss Muriel Matters, three Drawing-room Meetings, and three Trades Union Meetings occur during THE COMMON CAUSE week, so a large number of copies ought to be disposed of without difficulty.

HISTORY OF THE SWANSEA SOCIETY.

The Swansea branch of the N.U.W.S.S. came into being almost exactly two years ago, its inaugural meeting having been held on February 7th, 1912. It began modestly with only twenty-six members, but with an excellent President and Vice-President—two very well-known and popular ladies—and a Drawing-room Meeting in May, addressed by Miss Helen Fraser, raised its numbers to about forty. Its history so far has been quiet and uneventful, the only exciting moment being when the new policy of the N.U. was started, when for a few moments the whole fate of the Society seemed to hang in the balance! It was, however, soon agreed that there was no need to argue about the matter, as the local member, Sir Alfred Mond, is a tried and staunch supporter of Women's Suffrage, and in our case no difficulty need arise.

After that we plodded steadily on, our meetings (chiefly drawing-room meetings: our Swansea ladies are very hospitable) being generally addressed by Miss Helen Fraser or Miss Muriel Matters, who divide between them the chief affections of Swansea Suffragists. We now number a little over 200, and our ambition is to have doubled last year's membership (110) by our next annual meeting on February 11th.

Just now we are indulging in a perfect outburst of energy, owing to the advent of an organiser sent from our Federation headquarters. When the offer of assistance came we replied with a grateful "Thank you!" and prepared to sit down and have a rest while the organiser organised. Fond hope! The lady (quite young) arrived, and was extremely kind, and said several nice things about us. She had only one suggestion to make, and that was that we should do just twice as much as we were doing already. She said we must send speakers to Trades Union meetings and get resolutions passed. We must begin to work the "Friends of Women's Suffrage" Scheme. We must have a COMMON CAUSE week, and double its circulation here. And last, but not least, we must have fortnightly members' meetings.

We said, "But no one will come to them." She replied, "It doesn't matter whether anyone comes or not. You must still have meetings." We begged for meetings monthly rather than fortnightly, and were overcome with gratitude when she relented and kindly consented to let us hold only twelve a year. Then we heaved a sigh, and set to work; there has been a splendid response, and what looked a most formidable task is turning out quite easy. The "atmosphere" in Swansea as regards our Cause is now most encouraging. People are ready to hear about the Suffrage, and to take an intelligent interest in it, and even if they do not straightway join our Society, most of them, and especially perhaps the men, wish us success. We confidently hope that this special Campaign Week will do much to increase the popularity of THE COMMON CAUSE.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE SWANSEA BRANCH, N.U.W.S.S.

Amongst the members of the Swansea Society there is a general feeling that the Special Swansea number of THE COMMON CAUSE would be found wanting unless it included some mention of our esteemed President, Miss E. A. Dillwyn. She has worked wonders in the cause of Suffrage by her untiring efforts in the local Society, and by the example she has set as an active member of public bodies in the district.

Miss Dillwyn was born in 1845 at Park Wern, Swansea. She is the daughter of Mr. L. L. Dillwyn, M.P. for Swansea from 1855 to 1892. After his death his daughter became the chief director of the works of Dillwyn & Co., spelter manufacturers. She carried on the business for several years, during which time she was a member of the Swansea Chamber of Commerce, and a regular attendant at its meetings. Formerly a Guardian of the Poor for Swansea Union, she is now on the Board of Guardians for the district of Gower. Miss Dillwyn does not confine her interests to reform or commerce. Besides being an excellent linguist, she has published several novels, and is a reviewer for the Spectator. In private life she is an enthusiastic player of bridge, and, as such, has used her influence to draw the threads of social life in her locality more closely together. She has furthered this desirable end, moreover, by her constant generosity in subscribing to the expense of local entertainments and meetings, and encouraging a more general patronage of these functions. In the Swansea Society "tea provided by Miss Dillwyn" will make the success of meetings a foregone conclusion. Her occasional absence from the scene of her labours is felt as keenly as her presence is appreciated. It is hard to imagine the growth of the Swansea Society without its President.

COMMISSIONAIRES' CORPS.

We are still badly in need of more Commissionaires. The work of the Corps will be most interesting, and not very arduous, except for the long hours; and the simple tunic uniform will not cost the commissionaires more than half a crown at the outside. If one or two already enrolled will help to enlist some more members it would be of great assistance.

HOSPITALITY.

So far we have had very few offers of hospitality. There are 4,000 members of the National Union in London; we should be grateful if members who see THE COMMON CAUSE would canvass friends who do not—both for hospitality and annual subscriptions to the paper.

SECTION ORGANISATION.

We are more than grateful to Miss Hibbert Ware for coming forward in response to last week's appeal to undertake the organisation of the Magic Lantern Popular Lectures and Suffrage Talks, and to Mrs. Bright for offering to help Miss Dorothy Courtney, our Arts and Crafts Honorary Secretary. Miss Nellie Kelsall is acting as Hon. Secretary to the Commissionaires' Corps, at the Exhibition Office. We could do with many more helpers in the office, and still need somebody to take over the organisation of the Science Section, the Bazaar, and one or two smaller jobs. And no one has offered a donkey for the Camping section!

TIME AND LABOUR SAVING DEVICES.

If any reader has in use any time or labour saving device or invention which she can recommend from personal experience, we should be glad if she would send us the manufacturer's address, together with a short testimonial for private use only.

50 FOR WORDS OATINE 2nd GREAT WORD-MAKING COMPETITION

1,000 CASH PRIZES

Table with 2 columns: Prize rank and amount. 1st Prize £100, 2nd £50, 3rd £25, 4th £10, 5th £5, 50 Prizes of £1, 100 of 10/-, 845 of 5/-.

Closing Date, Feb. 24.

In this competition it is only necessary to make FIFTY WORDS, and the prizes will be awarded to those competitors who send in lists of the 50 longest words that can be made from the 19 letters contained in the words

OATINE SHAMPOO POWDER

For example, the following suggest themselves:—

Wonder—Shipmate—Motion.

This is a simple, pleasurable competition, not involving any arduous work or hunting through voluminous dictionaries. Only fifty words have to be made, and the dictionaries before the judges have been purposely selected as being neither voluminous nor expensive, and for the further reason that one of them is to be found in almost every household.

Each list of words must be accompanied by the coupon to be found in every 1/- box of seven Oatine Shampoo Powders. The coupon referred to gives the full list of conditions to be observed by competitors, and also gives the names of the dictionaries which will be before the examiners, and only words to be found therein will be accepted.

No one in the employment of, or in any way connected with, The Oatine Company will be allowed to compete.

The following gentlemen have agreed to act as a committee and will award the prizes, thus ensuring an absolutely independent and impartial decision for all competitors, and the decision of this committee is final:—

LOUIS KAUFMAN, ESQ., General Manager "TRUTH." H. CARGILL, ESQ., Advertisement Manager, "JOHN BULL." J. DODDS, ESQ., Advertisement Manager, "DAILY SKETCH."

OATINE SHAMPOO POWDERS IN TWO VARIETIES—

For DRY HAIR in Red Packets. For GREASY HAIR in Green Packets.

Amazing Difference in Two Individuals' Hair.

The ordinary Shampoo Powder, while a decided improvement, in most cases, on the cake of toilet soap, yet leaves much to be desired, in that it is made in only one variety to suit all hair conditions. There is, however, a great difference in people's hair, some having too much oil, and some hair which is very dry. The same shampoo will not suit both. It will remove oil that cannot be spared from dry hair, making it brittle, harsh, and difficult to do up after washing. With oily hair, on the contrary, it will not remove the excess of oil, sometimes clogging and matting the hair yet further.

Recognising these conditions, The Oatine Company have brought out two varieties of Shampoo Powder. Think under which class your hair comes, and order the shampoo designed to suit your particular case.

MAKE YOUR PURCHASE EARLY, in order to obtain the coupon referred to above, as it gives full particulars and rules of the competition together with the names of the dictionaries before the judges, so that before sending in your list you will be sure that all words made are admissible. This coupon should be carefully read before you begin compiling your list of words, and, when buying, be sure to ask for the special kind of Shampoo Powder to suit your particular requirements.

Send in your list as soon as it is completed, in order to facilitate the labour of the judges. All entries, however, must be received by Tuesday, February 24th. The list of prizewinners will be published in The Daily Sketch of March 18th.

IF YOUR CHEMIST CANNOT SUPPLY YOU, SEND P.O. FOR ONE SHILLING DIRECT TO US, AND YOUR ORDER WILL BE DISPATCHED BY RETURN OF POST.

Rev. New Suffrage Society.

Full particulars may be obtained from the Secretary, Mr. Charles Gray, at 3, Adam Street, Strand, W.C.

"The Dansant."

A very successful play, "The Dansant," was given by the Actresses' Franchise League on January 23rd at the Empress Rooms.

Great Poster Parade by Trained Nurses.

Miss Beatrice Kent writes:—We appeal earnestly to all trained nurses of courage and esprit de corps to give practical proof of the same by joining the Parade, as a protest against the scandalous misuse of our uniform by common prostitutes. The nuisance has become intolerable. The respectable woman with a right to wear it is being insulted by those who mistake her for the vile masquerader. The public is in serious peril. To sit at home and grumble is useless. To throw one's uniform in the fire—as one incensed nurse did—will serve no purpose, save as a vent for individual emotion. Our appeal is principally to nurses who are Suffragists, because we feel convinced that they will be ready to make a little sacrifice for so righteous a cause. We ask for a hundred nurses. It is considered desirable that outdoor uniform should be worn by all who are willing and able to do so, but it is not obligatory. Incidentally, the Parade, if successfully carried out, is certain to help forward the Suffrage movement, and also the cause for State registration of nurses, which is the fundamental basis of our protest. Full particulars on application to Miss Beatrice Kent, Organiser, 13, Coliseum Terrace, Regent's Park, N.W.

The Best Friends of Draper Shops

The best friends of draper shops are common soaps, and the women who scrub and rub with them.

A quicker way of wearing out clothes could hardly be discovered.

Fels-Naptha soap was invented to make clothes cleaner and whiter and sweeter than with ordinary soaps.

Not only was the invention successful, but the only right way, the best way of using it, happened to be "the Fels-Naptha way."

So that the best way—"the Fels-Naptha way" happens to be the easiest and the cheapest way.
