REPORT

OF THE

COMMITTEE FOR 1910.

WING to the grave constitutional crisis through which the Kingdom has been passing, together with the lamented decease of our late King Edward, the year has again been an uneventful one so far as the acquisition of any measure of enfranchisement is concerned. For practical purposes the two Parliamentary Sessions were monopolised by the Budget and Veto debates; and, with rare exceptions, the Bills promoted by private Members were not even considered. As all our Subscribers are probably aware, however, Mr. Shackleton's Conciliation Bill, after an unusually serious debate, passed its second reading in the House of Commons, upon the 12th of July, by a majority of 110 votes; and, had Mr. Asquith granted facilities for its discussion in Committee, there can be little doubt that about one million of our women Occupiers would now be enfranchised. But Mr. Asquith personally is hostile to the claims of women; and all that our friends could extort from him, during the autumn Session, was the promise that "the Government would, if still in power, give facilities, in the next Parliament, for effectively proceeding with a Bill, if so framed as to permit of free amendment." But this, however unsatisfactory intrinsically, is a noteworthy advance upon Mr. Gladstone's action in 1884 when he declared that, if a Women's Suffrage Amendment were carried, he would withdraw his Representation of the People Bill altogether.

Outside of the House of Commons, however, our cause has been advancing with a steady and assured progress in all directions. Of the numerous colossal Demonstrations which have been held in Great Britain, in addition to 10,000 smaller Meetings of various kinds, all of which have been inspired by an invincible determination to bring this long-protracted struggle to a speedy successful issue, it would be impossible to render any account within the space at our disposal. Amongst the most important Women's Meetings of the year, however,—at the Annual Conference of Women Workers, held at Lincoln, and which was attended by Mrs. Henry Dockrell, Mrs. Moscardi, and Mrs. E. Hill Tickell, as our Delegates, a most significant incident took place. An attempt to exclude Women's Suffrage Literature from the tables of the Association was made; but we are happy to report that the attempt was unsuccessful; and we believe we are correct in stating that a large majority of the members of this most influential Body of practical philanthropists are personally in favour of women's enfranchisement.

Abroad, although there is probably no country, except the United States, in which as many as 10,000 Women Suffrage Meetings have been held within the year, there has been no abatement anywhere in the vigor and enthusiasm with which our movement has been carried forward towards assured victory. But the United States, not unnaturally, take the foremost place in the universality of this activity. From New York to California:—in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Virginia, Illinois, Oregon, South Dakota, Oklohama, Washington, and several other States, powerful Associations are everywhere making their influence felt; in New York City alone Meetings have been held daily throughout a large proportion of the year. More important still, in Washington State victory has been achieved; there are now five States,— Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Idaho, and Washington,in which women possess the vote; and several others it is expected will soon follow their example.—In Australia there is hardly a month passes in which, in both the Federal Parliament, and the separate State Legislatures, some distinct advance is not made in equalising the laws affecting men and women. In April Miss Vida Goldstein received 53,000 votes as a Candidate for election to the Commonwealth Senate,—for which women are now eligible.— In South Africa the Women's Enfranchisement League is extending its ramifications all over the Dominion.—In Norway the Municipal vote has been extended to all women; and it is expected that the Parliamentary will be conceded in the coming year.— In Sweden about forty women have been elected to the Municipal Councils; and a reactionary Bill, designed to exclude married women from the Municipal electorate, was rejected in the Upper House by a unanimous vote.—In Denmark a limited Women Franchise amendment, with eligibility, passed the Lower House in April.—In Holland, until the State Commission for the Revision of the Constitution has reported, no Parliamentary progress can be made; but, in the meantime, the women are availing themselves of every opportunity for advancing their claims.—In Belgium a Bill conferring the Suffrage with eligibility upon women for the Trade Councils has been passed.— In France, since the formation of the National Association, the movement has been advancing all over the country with rapid strides; 200 Members of the Chamber of Deputies have pronounced in favour of a Bill which would confer the Franchise and eligibility in the Municipal, General, and District Councils. Women may already sit upon nearly all Educational Bodies, in Chambers of Commerce, and Labour Councils.—In Germany, where the work is extremely uphill, and the Kaiser is personally hostile, progress, though necessarily slow, is steady in all the leading cities: and women have obtained the right of taking part in political assemblies; their chief activity, however, has been educational and industrial; they have gained admission to the Universities, and are crowding into the Trades and Professions; there are said to be nearly one hundred women Doctors in practice; and several women have been admitted to the Bar.—In Austria the conditions are much the same as in Germany,—only that the women are still excluded from political meetings.—In Switzerland, in several of the Cantons,—they have obtained the right to vote in Church affairs; and in several, again, are eligible for seats upon the Trade Councils.-In Italy a Bill, for establishing equality of rights between men and women, was most favourably received by the Prime Minister; and, if it had not been for the fall of the Cabinet, that Bill might now have been law.—And finally, without travelling farther East for more illustrations, in Russia. where the difficulties in the way of political action are almost insuperable, the women are not at all relaxing in their praiseworthy efforts: two Papers, representing their interests, have been established within the year.—Are we not justified in again reminding our Anti-Suffrage critics that, if they cannot discern the signs of the times in this overwhelming world-wide movement, they must be constitutionally and incurably blind?

At home the increased activity of all our Associations has been most remarkable. The visits to Dublin of Councillor Margaret Ashton, of Manchester, and Miss Bertha Mason, of London, at our invitation, were conspicuous successes. Miss Ashton is one of the most accomplished lady speakers in the North of England; and her address, upon the "Citizenship of Women," delivered in the Mansion House, by the kind permission of the Lord Mayor, was pronounced by those who were present one of the most well-timed, and persuasive, ever heard in our City. Miss Mason's delightful "Story of the Women's Suffrage Movement," profusely illustrated with Lantern Slide Portraits, from Mary Woolstonecraft down to the present time, was unique in its historic interest; and both lectures were listened to by large and most appreciative audiences.

The educational Meetings which we promised in our last Report, and which were held under the presidency of Mrs. Haslam, were well attended, and proved very instructive. Mrs. C. H. Oldham and Miss Hayden, M.A. discoursed upon "Women in Business"; Mrs. Wyse Power, P.L.G. and Miss Buchanan, P.L.G. upon the "Work of Women upon Public Boards"; Lady Dockrell, U.D.C. and Mrs. C. L. Townshend upon "Women's Work and Wages"; Miss McNaull upon "Women in the Civil Service"; Miss Bellingham Todd upon the "Relations between Mistresses and Servants"; Dr. G. Prosser upon "How to Save our Girls from a Life of Shame"; and Mrs. E. Hill Tickell upon the "Proceedings at the Lincoln Conference of the National Union-of Women Workers"; and in all cases lively discussions followed. The inequalities in the remunerations paid to women, compared with those received by men, engaged in similar employments, was specially commented upon; and the blame was largely laid at the door of our Parliamentary Representatives, who have never insisted that, in all Government and Municipal Offices, as National School Teachers, &c., the women should receive equal pay for equal work, when equally well performed, with the men employees.

Amongst the many encouraging events of the year, we have much pleasure in including an important development in our Cork Branch. Owing to the assiduous efforts of Mrs. Christie, the Hon. Secretary, the Committee has been re-modelled, the number of our Subscribers has been doubled; and a good deal of effective propagandist work has been accomplished.— In Limerick, again, since the visit of Lady Betty Balfour, in November, an energetic Committee, with Mrs. Dodds, and Dr. Massy, as Hon. Secretaries, has been formed.—We have some hopes, too, that, early in the new year, an influential Men's League will have organised itself; and, as soon as an Executive Committee, and a capable Hon. Secretary, have been appointed, will be in a position to render valuable help in directions which we have been unable to reach.

Another exceedingly satisfactory incident we have much pleasure in recording. At our request the Dublin Corporation very generously passed the following Resolution, without one dissenting voice, viz.:

"That the Corporation of Dublin approves of the "Conciliation Bill" introduced to give the Parliamentary Franchise to women such as already have the Municipal Franchise, and which has already passed the House of Commons by a majority of 110; and they request the Government to give immediate facilities for its passage into law";

and we accordingly forwarded a copy of same to the Prime Minister, to all the other Members of the Cabinet, and to a large number of our Representatives.

There has been, on the other hand, a serious disappointment which we have also to record. Our Subscribers will not have forgotten that, when the Acts, enabling women to be elected upon the County and Borough Councils in Great Britain, were passed in 1907, Ireland, for some reason that has never been satisfactorily explained, was excluded from their operation; and that in consequence our women were denied a constitutional right which was conceded to their English and Scottish sisters; and they still remain under the same derogatory inequality. During the past year Mr. Hugh Law very kindly consented to introduce a Bill, which we got drafted, for the removal of this stigma; but, owing to the absorption of the entire time of the House of Commons by the Government, it never reached the second reading. It is to be hoped that the coming Session of the newly-elected Parliament will witness the redressal of this grievance, for the accomplishment of which a few hours of the Parliamentary time would be all that is needed.

Our Irish Branch of the Conservative and Unionist Women's Franchise Association did excellent work when they invited Mrs. Fawcett to deliver her two addresses in Dublin and Kingstown in February. Our Women Suffragists, of every shade of opinion, owe a heavy debt of gratitude to Mrs. Fawcett for having practically initiated our movement in Ireland by her memorable address upon the "Electoral Disabilities of Women,"—delivered to a most distinguished audience in the Molesworth Hall, upon the 10th of April, 1870. Mrs. Fawcett still remains, as she has always been, one of the most logical and convincing of all our numerous advocates; and throughout the forty years that have elapsed since 1870, she has never failed to render invaluable service to our cause. Her Dublin and Kingstown addresses were characterised by all her accustomed mastery; in Dublin she was effectively supported by Lady Arnott, the Countess of Fingal, the Rev. J. O. Hannay, the Lord Justice O'Brien, and Lord Castletown; and, on both occasions, a large and appreciative audience accorded her a most cordial hearing. The more recent visit of Lady Betty Balfour has been not less welcome; and the numerous spirited addresses which she delivered in Dublin, Belfast, Limerick, and other places, must have imposed a heavy strain upon her energies. It should never be forgotten that it was to her husband, Mr. Gerald Balfour, when Chief Secretary for Ireland, that our fellow-countrywomen have been instrumentally indebted for that Local Government Act which conferred upon them, with scarcely an exception, all the Municipal Franchises which they now enjoy, -including the Lodger Franchise, not yet extended to the women of Great Britain.

Our Irish Women's Franchise League, again, have been indefatigable in the holding of in-door and out-door Meetings, Debates, &c., throughout the year; and they especially distinguished themselves by inducing both Mrs. Pankhurst, and Miss Christabel Pankhurst, to come over and deliver their exceedingly vigorous addresses to crowded audiences in the Rathmines Rink, and the Round Room of the Rotunda respectively. And, whether we approve or disapprove of what are called militant methods, it must be acknowledged that some of their members succeeded in coercing Mr. Birrell to receive a deputation from their Body which he had refused to a courteous request, made by our Honorary Secretary, on behalf of our three combined Associations.

The number of our leading advocates, from our various Societies across the water, who have visited Dublin during the past two years, has been most remarkable; and our Anti-Suffrage Association have no excuse for their failing to appreciate the overwhelming force of the claims of women to their legitimate share in our Parliamentary Government. In Mrs. Colquhoun's depreciation of the political sagacity of her sex, we could not discern one redeeming feature. Professor Dicey's Lecture, as everyone expected, was couched upon a higher plane; but in his advancing years, he has become exceedingly pessimistic in his outlook, and has almost ceased to believe in human progress. Women generally are not the incapables that he would have us believe; there is no reason to suppose that, when they obtain the vote, they will not display, in their use of it, quite as much intelligence as our average men electors; and their acquisition of the vote is just the one essential condition required for the cultivation of their intelligence in a sphere from which they have heretofore been arbitrarily debarred. From the flimsiness of the arguments in both of these indictments, we are informed, as a matter of fact, that several of their hearers, who had previously been in a state of doubt, have become converts to our cause.

As the consequence of all this multiplied activity, there has been a considerable addition to the roll of our Subscribers; but, on the other hand, a number of our more ardent militant supporters have drifted from our ranks. Ever since the establishment of our Association in 1876, our action has been consistently non-party, and constitutional; and, at this eleventh hour, when we are on the brink of victory, we can see no reason for changing our methods of procedure. The number of most important concessions which our nonmilitant Associations of various kinds have achieved. by purely constitutional methods, since the commencement of our agitation in 1866, has been most remarkable. In 1869 the Municipal Franchise was thrown open to Englishwomen; in 1870 they were made eligible for seats upon the newly-created School-Boards; and the Married Women's Property Act, -a protective measure, the value of which it would be impossible to over-rate, was passed in the same year. In '76 the Act, enabling women to take Medical Degrees, was passed; in the same year our own King's and Queen's College of Physicians granted their Degrees to women; and in '85 our College of Surgeons followed their example. In '79 our Royal University threw open its Degrees to women. In '81 the Municipal vote was extended to the women of Scotland. In '88 and '89 the vote for the County Councils was conferred upon the women of England and Scotland successively; and the vote for the District and Parish Councils followed in due course. More significant in some respects than any of these, in '86 the degrading Contagious Diseases Acts were swept from the Statutebook. For Ireland our Women's Poor Law Guardians Act was passed in '96; in '98 our Local Government Act conferred all available English Franchises upon our fellow-countrywomen; and, without entering into greater detail, in '99 the Agricultural and Technical Instruction Act threw open a large number of Public Offices to our women, from which a very considerable number of them are already reaping material benefit. And all these boons, together with a large measure of equality in our two Universities and our Intermediate Schools, have been obtained without our appealing to aught in any degree resembling physical violence.

That we are upon the eve of an early victory, in our judgment admits of no reasonable doubt. The Government are pledged to the hilt to pass an enfranchising Act provided they continue in office, and provided a majority of the House of Commons are distinctly favorable; and, as somewhere about 400 Members are known to be favorable, we can discern no loophole of escape. Our Governments, whether professedly Liberal or Conservative, are intensely conservative in everything relating to women; but they are not deliberate pledge-breakers; and we see no reason to doubt the sincerity of either. Mr. Asquith's Cabinet have their work cut out for them upon many different lines; and we do not expect an enfranchising Act in 1911; they are not enamoured of the Conciliation Bill, and can readily pass a better; and, in the confident expectation of a better, we await the result. In the meantime, if our various Societies could persuade all the chief Municipal Corporations in the Three Kingdoms to pass Suffrage Resolutions similar to those adopted in Dublin, Cork, Limerick, and some of the English and Scottish Cities, they would do much to compel the Government to give their contemplated enfranchising measure a leading place in their programme.

The discontinuance, through insufficient support, of our faithful advocate, the Englishwoman's Review, is greatly to be regretted. For over fifty years it has supplied a trustworthy record of the leading events of our women's movement in many different fields; and no one of our existing organs can adequately take its place. So far as we know, there is only one copy of the entire series to be found in Ireland,—that which Mrs. Haslam has presented to our National Library,—where it will remain an abiding store-house of information for future reference. The Common Cause continues to do its excellent work as representing our constitutional Societies; both it and our International organ, Jus Suffragii, we can cordially recommend to all our Subscribers. The Englishwoman, Votes for Women, The Vote, The Conservative and Unionist Women's Franchise Review, and the Men's League Monthly Paper, are all doing energetic work in their respective spheres. A dozen copies of Common Cause we continue to supply to the leading Reading Rooms of Dublin.

REPORT FROM CORK BRANCH.

Another year has almost come to a close, and we are glad to be able to state that our Branch is going quietly and steadily forward. This year we have more than doubled the number of our subscribers; and our list contains the names of some of the most intellectual women in Cork, and those who are engaged in furthering the higher education of women, who appreciate the value of it, and know the benefit it has been to themselves. Thus, our Educational and Constitutional methods have attracted and appealed to the educated, logical, and thinking individuals, both men and women in our community. University College, Cork, again takes the initiative in valuing in a practical way our capable women, so it is with pride we record the appointment of Miss Ryan, M.A., to the Chair of Romance Languages, and we believe she is the first woman who has been appointed Professor in Ireland. Her laurels are well deserved, as she has worked her way steadily and conscientiously upward; and she will be invaluable to those students who have the good fortune to attend her lectures. Also, with pleasure we record that Miss Swertz, M.A., has been chosen Lecturer in German. In the same College, Women Officers of Residence have also been appointed, viz.: Professor M. Ryan, M.A., Miss L. E. Smith, M.D., Miss C. J. Foreman, M.A. and Miss A. Pike. Our Branch has been instrumental in getting a Resolution passed by our Corporation in favour of the Conciliation Bill. On October 3rd, Mrs. Pankhurst inaugurated in Cork a Branch of the Irish Women's Franchise League. This obliged us to put our Association on a more business-like basis, and a General Meeting of our Subscribers was called on October 13th, when we defined our position. A Resolution to the following effect was proposed, seconded, and carried by 25 votes to 3:—

"That this Association being absolutely nonmilitant cannot join or amalgamate with one which is not equally non-militant."

MRS. CHRISTIE, Hon. Secretary, 15 St. Patrick's Place, Cork.

REPORT FROM LIMERICK BRANCH.

Several members joined at the close of the Meeting held in Limerick, on November 23rd, at which Lady Betty Balfour spoke. Therefore it was decided to form a Branch of the Irish Women's Suffrage and Local Government Association. A Meeting was held in the Chamber of Commerce, on December 3rd, at which a Committee and Hon. Secretaries were appointed. The Meeting then considered what could be done in Limerick to further the cause of Women's Suffrage and kindred subjects, and decided to work with the Conservative and Unionist and Women's Franchise Association, and Irish Women's Franchise League, as far as compatible with the non-militant and non-party principles of the Irish Women's Suffrage and Local Government Association. Letters were directed to be sent to Messrs. Lundon and O'Shaughnessy, Parliamentary Candidates for the County, enquiring their views on Women's Suffrage. It was also agreed to approach the Corporation at an early date, asking them to send a resolution in favour of Women's Suffrage to the Prime Minister. Subsequently, the Hon. Secs. wrote to the Clerk of the Corporation, asking him to bring the following Resolution before his Council on December 15th:

"That the Council of the Borough of Limerick calls upon the Government to give immediate facilities for the passing of a Bill into Law granting the Franchise to Women on the same terms as it is now possessed by men."

This Resolution was approved by the Corporation, forwarded to Mr. Asquith and acknowledged:

Hon. Secs.
