REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE FOR 1912.

THE year opened auspiciously for the passage of our Conciliation Bill early in the Session. Mr. Agg-Gardner obtained an excellent place in the ballot; nevertheless when, upon the 28th of March, he introduced the Bill for its second reading, though it had obtained the enormous majority of 167 votes in 1911, it was unexpectedly thrown out by a majority of 14 against it. We need not enlarge upon the causes which led to this catastrophe. It was partly due to the tergiversation of a large proportion of our own Representatives, who feared that, if the Bill succeeded in reaching the Committee stage, it might delay the passage of the Government of Ireland Bill; partly also to the absence from the House of a number of the Labor Members who were otherwise favorable to its passing; and also, as is alleged, in no small measure, to the disgust produced in the minds of a large number of our Parliamentary friends by the fresh outburst of militancy upon which we commented in our last Report, who embraced so favorable an opportunity of manifesting their disapproval of such tactics on the part of a certain section of our supporters.

It is a painful thing to have to acknowledge that the action of our own Representatives was one of the chief causes of this deplorable defeat. There can be little doubt that, if they had given a cordial support to the Bill, it might before this have been placed upon the Statute Book; nevertheless under the circumstances, some allowance must be made for their untimely desertion. We believe we are correct in stating that this was the first occasion in the history of our agitation on which a majority of those of our Members who took part in the division, voted against us; in 1911 there were only nine; on this occasion they no doubt believed that the immediate passage of their own more favored measure was at stake; and their action therefore under the conditions was perhaps not unnatural. As a similar contingency did not seem likely to recur, we cherished the not unreasonable hope that, when Mr. Snowden's Women's Suffrage Amendment to the Government of Ireland Bill came on for discussion, they would atone for their desertion by giving a cordial vote in its favor. In this expectation we need hardly remark that we have been grievously disappointed.

Mr. Snowden's Amendment was reached upon the 5th of November; and, in preparation therefor, we addressed the following appeal to each of our Members:—

“Dear Sir,—By giving a strenuous support to Mr. Snowden's proposed Amendment to the Government of Ireland Bill, conferring the Parliamentary Franchise upon all of our women who possess the Local Government vote,—an extremely moderate proposal,—you will render an inestimable service not only to the small number who may thereby be enfranchised, but likewise, through them, to all classes of your fellow-countrywomen.”

As some of our Members have frequently complained that they have never been asked by any of their constituents to support our movement, we enclosed a copy of the above appeal to each of our Subscribers, together with the following letter addressed to themselves:—

“Dear Sir, or Madam,—By addressing a letter similar in substance to the above, but as much as practicable in your own language, to the Parliamentary Representatives of your Town or County, and any other Members whom you may desire to influence,—addressed to the House of Commons, Westminster,—you will render invaluable help to our cause at this most critical juncture in the history of our movement.”

To what extent our Subscribers responded to this request, we are unable to pronounce; we know that a large number of them did; we also know that a great deal of similar pressure was brought to bear upon our Representatives by our other Suffrage Societies; nevertheless, to our astonishment, when the Division Lists were published, it was found that out of our 103 Members, only 11 voted for the Amendment, and 71 against it—and that it was defeated by a total majority of 173 votes, one of the heaviest, if not the very heaviest that has ever denied to any section of our women their legitimate rights. Upon the morality of this reversal we do not wish to comment. It was altogether the result of party complications, and did not in any way embody the real opinion of the voters. Those opinions were more truly represented by the majority of 167 in 1911; and the defeat was one of the kind which invariably produce reactions, and are consequently the precursors of approaching victory.

The recent breach amongst the leaders of the Women's Social and Political Union affords no indication of any abatement of zealous devotion to their convictions, on the part of any section of our sisters beyond the Channel; on the contrary, such differences are always an indication of vitality. What it does prove, however, is the dangerous anarchical tendency of a militant policy. That policy began with the attempted forcible entrance into the House of Commons; and has proceeded, stage by stage, to the mobbing of Cabinet Ministers at Public Meetings, and in the streets, the breaking of windows both in Government Offices and those of private owners; it has since reached the stage of setting fire to Public Buildings, destroying letters in the Pillar Boxes, and cutting the Telephone wires; and we know not what further developments it may take, if unhappily persisted in. We have always objected to such practices for a variety of reasons, of which we need only mention two. In the first place they tend to degrade, and vulgarise, one of the noblest movements in the history of the world,—the elevation of women to their rightful place in our social and political organism. And, secondly, the experience of the past half century supplies abundant proof that they are practically unnecessary. To repeat what we said in our Report for 1910:—

“The number of most important concessions which our non-militant Associations of various kinds have achieved by purely constitutional methods, since the commencement of our agitation in 1866, has been most remarkable. In 1869 the Municipal Franchise was thrown open to Englishwomen; in 1870 they were made eligible for seats upon the newly-created School Boards; and the Married Women’s Property Act,—a protective measure, the value of which it would be impossible to over-rate, was passed in the same year. In ’76 the Act, enabling women to take Medical Degrees, was passed; in the same year our own King’s and Queen’s College of Physicians granted their Degrees to women; and in ’85 our College of Surgeons followed their example. In ’79 our Royal University threw open its Degrees to women. In ’81 the Municipal vote was extended to the women of Scotland. In ’88 and ’89 the vote for the County Councils was conferred upon the women of England and Scotland successively; and the vote for the District and Parish Councils followed in due course. More significant in some respects than any of these, in ’86 the degrading Contagious Diseases Acts were swept from the Statute Book. For Ireland our Women’s Poor Law Guardians Act was passed in ’96; in ’98 our Local Government Act conferred all available English Franchises upon our fellow-countrywomen; and, without entering into greater detail, in ’99 the Agricultural and Technical Instruction Act threw open a large number of Public Offices to our women, from which a very considerable number of them are already reaping material benefit. And all these boons, together with a large measure of equality in our two Universities and our Intermediate Schools, have been obtained without our appealing to aught in any degree resembling physical violence.”

From the point of view of justice to women, the passage of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, for the suppression of the White Slave Traffic, has been one of the most important events of the year. Inspired by whatever motives, an insidious Amendment was introduced into the Bill in the Committee stage; and, acting upon the suggestion of the Ladies’ National Association for the Promotion of Social Purity, we accordingly addressed the following Memorial to the Prime Minister, the Home Secretary, and Mr. Birrell:—

“Our Committee are unanimously of opinion that the Criminal Law Amendment Bill will be rendered almost nugatory, for the checking of the White Slave Traffic, by the alteration in Clause 1, by which the power of arresting the traffickers is restricted to officers who may be specially detailed for that duty under the Bill, and they desire to express their confident trust that the Government will restore the Clause to its original form, which they consider absolutely necessary to its practical efficiency.”

Induced by remonstrances of a similar kind, from all parts of the Kingdom, the Government restored the Bill to its original shape; it was also extended to Ireland, and eventually passed both Houses in a form which, we trust, may be effective in checking the hideous crimes which it is intended to prevent.

The Annual Conference of the National Union of Women Workers which was held at Oxford in October, was attended by Mrs. White Birch, from British Columbia, Lady Dockrell, U.D.C., and Miss Hayden, M.A., as our Delegates. The Papers, Addresses, and Discussions, as usual, were full of interest. Amongst the chief subjects considered were the Criminal Law Amendment Bill, the Better Protection of Infants, Women Workers and the Living Wage, Women's Interests under the Insurance Act, the Difficulties of Rural Housing, and the Treatment of the Feeble-minded; and a Resolution was carried that a woman should be appointed as one of the Commissioners of Lunacy for Scotland, and also another for Ireland. The need for more devoted personal service on the part of women generally was the keynote of the Conference; and the Address delivered by Dr. Scott Holland, at the Public Meeting in the Town Hall, was especially impressive. The question of Women's Suffrage was, however, again ruled out from consideration, though a large proportion of the delegates were strongly in its favor. In consequence, at our Committee Meeting in October, the following Resolution was moved by Mrs. White Birch, seconded by Miss Hayden, M.A., and carried unanimously:—

“That, as our conviction that the want of the Parliamentary vote throws great obstacles in the way of women's social work, and diminishes its efficiency, thereby depriving the nation of much of the fruit of its earnest efforts, has been strengthened by the report of their impressions of the Oxford Conference, made by our Delegates who attended it, it is the opinion of the Committee of the Irish Women's Suffrage and Local Government Association, that, at next year's Meeting of the National Union of Women Workers, to be held at Hull, a Paper on the necessity for Women's Suffrage should be read at one of the principal Meetings.”

In contrast with the illiberal tactics of so many of our own Members, we desire to commemorate the chivalrous action of Mr. Lansbury, the Labour Representative for the Bow and Bromley constituency. An ardent supporter of Women's Suffrage, who disapproved of the lukewarm attitude of many Members of his own Party, he resigned his seat, and sought re-election, as a test of the real opinions of his own constituents. Unfortunately this act of noble unselfishness was not appreciated; and, though strenuously supported by several of our ablest suffragist speakers, the opposing forces were too strong; and he has paid the unmerited penalty of at least temporary exclusion from the House of Commons for his chivalry, and we have lost the services of a faithful and consistent champion within its precincts.

From Abroad the reports which we have received through our International organ, Jus Suffragii, and other channels, continue to exhibit a steady and unswerving progress in every quarter of the globe. In the United States, more especially, three fresh States have been added to the six which had already obtained the vote; and the number now enfranchised includes Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Idaho, Washington, California, Arizona, Kansas, and Oregon; embracing an electorate of more than two millions; and there is every reason to expect that several other States will soon be added to the list. In New York the agitation is assuming vast proportions; the torch-light procession of 20,000 women suffragists, upon the evening of the 9th of November, was one of the most impressive spectacles ever witnessed in America.—In Canada the leading public organisations are crowding into the movement; an influential deputation waited upon the Premier in September.—In Australia and New Zealand the Women Electors continue to exert their rightful influence in wholesome legislation; and in South Africa an energetic enfranchising Association has established active Branches in all the leading towns; and several Members of the Cabinet are known to be favorable.—In France the recent development of the Woman Suffrage Association all over the country has been enormous; and, though the women have not yet obtained the Municipal vote, they exerted a notable influence upon the elections in May.—In Holland they have suffered a disappointing defeat, which it is hoped may only be temporary; the Commission for the revision of the Constitution contained no recommendation of including the enfranchisement of women amongst their proposals, in consequence of which their enfranchisement may possibly be thrown back for some years.—In Belgium the women have wakened up to a sense of the necessity for their participation in public affairs. In March they held a successful Congress at Brussels dealing with the protection of young children; and in April not only did a large number vote at the elections for the Trade Councils, but several were themselves elected members in Brussels, Antwerp, and possibly other Cities.—In Norway women now have little left to contend for; they have all got the Municipal Franchise; most of them have got the Parliamentary, together with eligibility; nearly all trades and professions are open to them; and, with a few exceptions, they are eligible to all State Offices.—In Sweden the women have not been equally fortunate; the Government Bill for their enfranchisement was defeated in the Lower House, though the Prime Minister made a powerful speech in its favor, and, in a simultaneous debate in the Upper House, a large majority voted for its passing.—In Finland the Women's Union held a most interesting fete in celebration of the twenty years' jubilee of their first formation.—In Denmark the women took an exceedingly active part in the Municipal Elections; and eight women of conspicuous ability were themselves elected in Copenhagen; and, more important still, a Bill, including a generous measure of enfranchisement, has passed the Lower House.—In Germany, for the first time in their history, women were permitted to take part in the elections to the Reichstag; and numerous speakers presented their claims to political enfranchisement with conspicuous effect.—In Austria, in all its constituent States, Bohemia, Galicia, Poland, &c., and also in Hungary, the greatest activity has prevailed throughout the year; in Vienna, at a Conference of Delegates from the various Nationalities, the women's claim to political equality with men was set forth with perfect explicitness,—universal, equal, direct suffrage, with eligibility, for all Representative Bodies.—In Russia, some valuable educational reforms have been introduced; the marriage laws have been amended; there is some prospect that women will soon be admitted to the Bar; and that political rights will be conceded by the Duma.—In Italy a Royal Commission has recommended the concession of the Municipal vote.—In Egypt, in India, in Japan, the education of the women is steadily advancing; and finally, in China, where women have been more repressed by custom than probably in any other country, their recent uprising is one of the most remarkable in the history of the world; not only have some thousands of them enrolled themselves in Suffrage Clubs; nine have already sat as Members in a Legislative Body in Canton.

In Ireland the general apathy which so long prevailed, has now entirely passed away; in consequence of the increased activity of all our Societies the movement has become truly national. Public Meetings have been held in most of our principal towns, besides a very large number in Dublin, both in-door and in the open air. Our own Branches in Cork, Limerick, and Mallow, have also done excellent work. Our Public Meeting in the Mansion House, held by kind permission of the Lord Mayor, and presided over by Councillor Harrison, was particularly interesting from the fact that all the speakers were women, and most of them women of large practical experience in public life. Miss Rathbone, M.A., T.C.D., City Councillor for Liverpool, a member of a family which has long been noted for its devoted participation in all philanthropic efforts, and who herself worthily maintains the traditions of her house, by like disinterested work, delivered an admirable address upon "The Present Position of the Women's Movement." The following Resolution was proposed by Dr. Mary Strangman, from Waterford, also a Town Councillor, and seconded by Miss Mary Hayden, M.A., Senator of our National University, in appropriate speeches, and carried unanimously:—

"That no Reform Bill will be satisfactory to the Women of the United Kingdom which does not confer upon them an adequate measure of Parliamentary Enfranchisement."

A second Resolution:—

"That the Irish Women's Suffrage and Local Government Association, being non-party and non-militant, is entitled to the support of our fellow-countrymen and countrywomen of all shades of political opinion," was effectively spoken to by Miss Buchanan, P.L.G., and Mrs. C. Richardson, B.A., and, with a few militant dissentients, was carried by acclamation.

Our Educational Evening Meetings have now covered most of the subjects in which women are especially interested. So far they have been well attended, and have fulfilled our expectations. During the past year the Rev. R. M. Gwynn, F.T.C.D., discoursed instructively upon "Industrial Law and Women Suffrage"; Mr. T. J. Haslam upon "Some Conditions of a Possible Utopia"; and Mrs. O'Nolan and Mrs. Mitchell upon "The Aims and Objects of the United Irish Women": and upon each occasion an interesting discussion followed.—At an Evening Meeting in St. George's Parochial Hall, the Rev. F. Greer in the chair, the question of Women's Suffrage was considered; and Mrs. Haslam, Mrs. Richardson, B.A., Miss Chevenix, B.A., Miss Stewart, B.A., and Miss Perry were amongst the speakers.—We have also to record that at two Public Meetings in the Town Hall, Roscrea, arranged for by Mrs. Birch, Mrs. Haslam and Miss Buchanan, P.L.G., delivered addresses; and it is hoped that an effective Committee will be the outcome.

The election of Miss S. C. Harrison to a seat upon the Dublin Corporation, as recorded in last year's Report, has already been amply justified by the zeal and public spirit with which she initiated the Local Government Inquiry into the action of the Distress Committee in providing employment for the men and women unable to find work in Dublin; and there can be little doubt that the result will have a salutary influence upon the action of such Bodies in the future. In testifying to the facts of which she had personal knowledge, Miss Harrison was for several days subjected to the severest cross-examination; and by general agreement nothing could well exceed the ability with which she sustained the trying ordeal.

Amongst the interesting events of the year was the generous bequest of three hundred pounds to our Association by the late Miss Dupre Wilson,—a zealous member of our Committee,—to accrue upon the demise of the present beneficiary; but it is to be hoped that Women's Suffrage will be achieved long before that condition has come to be fulfilled; and, indeed there is some possibility that a measure of enfranchisement may be achieved during the coming year,—that is to say, provided that the existing Government, whether for good or for evil, continues in office.

Mr. Asquith has repeatedly pledged himself that, should a Women's Suffrage Amendment to his proposed Reform Bill be carried in the House of Commons, he will incorporate it in the Bill; and Mr. Lloyd George has explained that of three possible proposals:—Adult Suffrage,—the Conciliation proposal, conferring the Franchise upon none but Householders,—and what is called the Norwegian or Dickinson Amendment, which would confer the vote not only upon women Householders, but also upon the wives of Householders,—the last is the only one which would have any chance of passing:—

"I have always been in favor of what is called the Norwegian Amendment. I should deplore the extension of the Franchise on the very narrow basis proposed in the Conciliation Bill. The wives of working men are profoundly interested in the great social questions before the public:—the Housing problem, the Education problem, the question of feeding children, the Temperance question;—and it would be a great misfortune if, in any extension of the Franchise, they were left off the register. I think I might go further, and say, that the Norwegian Amendment is the only one which has any reasonable chance of being carried. There are a good many supporters of Women's Franchise who would not support the Conciliation Bill under any conditions. They object to it on purely democratic grounds. On the other hand, there are a good many supporters of the Franchise who object to Adult Suffrage. The Norwegian Amendment is a very fair compromise between the two extreme proposals. I earnestly hope it will be possible for supporters of Women's Suffrage to concentrate on this. There is a majority in the House in favor of Women's Suffrage, and if we all unite in favor of one Amendment, we can carry it."

There is the ring of sincerity in these declarations ; and we cordially approve of Mr. Lloyd George's recommendation. The Conciliation Bill has never been more than a very poor make-shift ; an Amendment which would confer the vote upon the wives of men Householders would be infinitely preferable ; and we must earnestly repeat the advice which we gave to our Subscribers in our letter of the 18th of October last. If every Woman Suffragist in Ireland would write at once to the Parliamentary Representative of his, or her Town, or County, and any other Members, whom they might desire to influence, we have little doubt that many of those Members would respond to the request, and that the Norwegian Amendment might be incorporated in the Bill.

That Amendment, as promoted by Mr. W. H. Dickinson, runs as follows:—Clause 1, Page 1, Line 12. After "a" insert : "female person shall be qualified to be registered in a constituency as a Parliamentary Elector, if she is over twenty-five years of age, and is the inhabitant occupier, as owner or tenant, or the wife of such an inhabitant occupier, of a dwelling house in that constituency, and has resided therein for a period of at least six months last past, provided that, except as herein enacted, no women shall be registered as joint occupiers in the respect of the same dwelling."

REPORT FROM CORK BRANCH.

The last year has been a most trying one for all Suffragists. Our hopes have been repeatedly raised and repeatedly disappointed. When our enfranchisement seemed almost an accomplished fact through adverse circumstances this certainty was again wrested from us, and now at the end of 1912 we are still voteless.

However, gleams of light appear all round, proving that women are gaining ground, power and appreciation. Last spring here in Cork Miss Dunn was appointed a sanitary inspector, and in the beginning of December Dr. Lucy Smith was appointed visiting physician to the Cork Female Prison. This appointment has given great satisfaction to everyone, and we feel sure the duties of her new responsibility will be discharged with her usual conscientiousness.

There are now in Cork three lady doctors holding prominent responsible positions, viz.: Dr. Lucia Fitzgerald at the Eglinton Asylum, Dr. Alice Barry at the Cork District Union, and Dr. Lucy Smith at the Cork Female Prison, the latter a position which a woman is peculiarly well suited to fill.

Owing to the actions of the extreme branch of the militants we have refrained from prosecuting our cause in public, as the majority of people were made so antagonistic to it by these violent and unwise methods.

REPORT FROM LIMERICK BRANCH.

We are sorry that during the past year we have very little of interest to report. Except our Committee Meetings and Annual General Meeting, no Meetings were held. We considered it wiser to attempt no work of a public nature, as for several reasons the feeling here has grown more or less hostile to the whole question of Women's Suffrage. The recent militant outrages have alienated several of our sympathisers, and caused a considerable number of our members to withdraw their names from the list of Subscribers.

We approached our Members of Parliament to ask their support for several important Bills, e.g., the Conciliation Bill, the Mental Deficiency Bill, and the Criminal Law Amendment (White Slave Traffic) Bill. We regret to say that our Member, Mr. Michael Joyce, abstained from voting on the second reading of the Conciliation Bill. He stated, however, that but for our letter he would have voted against it.

Three of our members are doing good work on the Limerick Board of Guardians. We are glad to report that one of them, Miss Helen Morony, has been elected on the National Health Insurance Committee.

REPORT FROM MALLOU BRANCH.

I regret to have to say that owing to removal from the district, and other causes, we have lost a good many of our last year's members. However, our list is but slightly reduced in consequence, as several new names have been added to it, and our Association is well represented in MalloU.

I have felt much encouraged in my work by the very cordial support I have received through the town from the many sympathisers with the cause (both men and women) and trust that this support will wax stronger and stronger until we have secured the enfranchisement of women, which has been so long delayed.
