3rd June 1907.

Dear Madam,

2 me
Mr. O'Brien has referred back my letter about the list of books and I have procured the shortened list which has been accepted for the requisitioned list of the County Council. I think you will find in it all that is necessary. I referred you to the Irish Literary Society because I thought a copy of the original list was kept there. It was much more complete and also classified, but the enclosed gives a good foundation to begin with.

Yours faithfully,

Miss Sloane.
