

2

TELEPHONE,
CROMER 48.
TELEGRAMS & PARCELS,
OVERSTRAND.

AL/957

THE PLEASANCE,

OVERSTRAND,

NORFOLK.

June 22. /11.

My dear Mrs Fawcett.

I have escaped fr. London till Saturday when I return. The tyranny of the Coronation really became awful. Lady Battersee is to light a bonfire tonight, wh.
will be excitement end of me.
Mrs Creighton is here. Critical that we dont make greater stir against the woman's part of the Insurance Bill, wh. she thinks very bad

I want to ask you about two things. First as to Edinburgh. I dont want to go up unless neces say. I have a family marriage on the 6th & if I attend that, I sh. need to go by night. Still, it is only a bore, & if we might turn up in strength, I will go - I am still very feeble in the matter of long hours & sitting round tables.

Then, & about the dinner to Mrs
C. C. I don't quite think I sh. do public dinners yet? Every thing useful, & in the line of duty
I think sh. be done, but banquets I am not so sure about? I am speaking at Sutton, Eastgrinstead & Salisbury, between this

< the 10th

I think the announcement of the renistance of the Peers may mean another upheaval.

Did Asquith think he would be out of office when he wrote to Dalton! His affairs

Francis Balfour