My dear Daisy,

A most generous box of peaches all in perfect condition arrived from you yesterday & is very greatly appreciated.

Heben came home last Saturday from a visit to her daughter & grand children in Montreal, & we are having a party tonight to celebrate her home coming. So the peaches have arrived at an opportune moment!

I spent Christmas with nieces in Cranleigh, & my birthday (88) with friends near my old home in Peasberke. In spite of very wet weather we had a very happy time. Since then there has been much snow in various parts of Britain but London has been comparatively free.

You in Africa have had a visit from our Prince Maurice. He has by no means an easy task in upholding British traditions in a continent where ^{there} are so many conflicting views.

Again thinking you will love your affections

Fred.
