Madam,
38 P. M.

[1907]

I am writing formally to ask you, if it is not possible for the Central Society and the National Society to be amalgamated with the Women's Social and Political Union.

I went to their meeting last night at 2066

Especially all & I can see they are really great women - great in intellect, great in force of character, great in enthusiasm, great in their calm indifference to malice & obloquy.

I fear however, blood will be shed on the 20th and perhaps life lost.

I hope it may not be young Christabel

Parliament. If so, this Government will go down to posterity covered with everlasting infamy.

It is said "the Head of the Nations is the Head of the Church" and the young pills I saw last night bore all the spirit of a Saint Agnes & a Saint Cecilia - doubtless very becoming to the Senate & People of old Rome - the Crown & Whitehead and Brethren of their day.

I think the time has come for the Brethren at any rate to affiliate, if not to amal-gamate; to show a united front to the common enemy "the other & cowardly M.P.s who call in their chairs, and are too frightened to face the Crown," as Mr. Gray M.P. wrote me lately.

Please place my letter before the proper authorities.

Yours truly

Mr. Dale.
