● With Britain in it, the European Community of 250 million people is big enough, rich enough and strong enough to count in this world of super-powers.

Inside the Community we can, and we will, safeguard our way of life, our Parliament, our Monarchy, and our democracy.

No one can override our vital interests. In the Community no one would try to do so. But if we come out, the rest of the Community will still exist. It will take decisions that suit those who stay in.

Many of those decisions are bound to affect Britain. But, isolated, we will have no say in reaching them.

How can that help us? It certainly won't help us in Europe. In the world outside we will count for less.

Europe wants Britain in because it helps to make the Community stronger. Being in helps Britain to become stronger. We all gain.

That is why the Commonwealth and all our friends want Britain to stay in the European Community. So —

KEEP BRITAIN IN EUROPE
