March 6th 1923. 41 Grosvenor Pl.

My old friend Anna Green staying here for a weeks respite from a Southern life & in Dublin; with an armed guard close to her house, the armed guard being almost as dangerous as the IRA! She is now an old woman of 76 who has been living an heroic existence doing her little best — and then! it is better she can do — to save Ireland — her "unmistakable" love country. She is an ardent Jesuit. "All the wisdom is dead; the faith have become things of the past; then they no longer can do Ireland — all they can do is living. To indulge fanatic passions or a ^{man's} ^{lawless} ^{crime} ^{to themselves} the results of fanatic passion is a ^{lawless} ^{crime} ^{to other people}. Every man's hand is against his neighbor either in offence or defence.
 The ~~Irish~~ Religion is dead; Irish law is dead; corporation is dead; decent methods of teaching of agriculture are dead. There are a few heroes as many martyrs, but the bulk of the people have no notion of being citizens." She is Gaelic, from Donegal, who is age 2 Londoners; but she has kept her wit as the Scotchman has in Donegal. As she is of the over which he presides. To be helpful in Parliament he has got to be successful as a debater. In debate he excels on the L.C.C. — he has still to make his maiden speech at Westminster.

The Party meeting yesterday was reported by him as possibly of historic importance. The Officers of the Party seem to have wanted rather than weekly meetings of the whole of the members and to distribute these ~~meetings~~ out subject by subject.
~~But~~ After a long struggle a fortnightly meeting was agreed to and the proposal of Salpeter was held over. The meeting turned to discuss the Draft agreement — to the address; they objected to the P.C. being invited to the Executive as P.C.s they were nervous suspicious of any assumption of authority by the Officers. On the other hand useful for effect. She thought she ^{had the friends} sees in the Wells an analogy between capital living an what ~~is~~ ^{was} existence of successful citizenship. ~~But~~ a survey is enjoying himself in Parliament.

 He takes time on a point of honor Bond. His first check in the dinner-hour on some in on a dinner; But his more prepared speech than he was appointed by the Party to view of the Science on Manchester - Worcester was half a half ^{part} ^{with} ^{fact} ^{fact}. He was nervous as to join of the Party ^{being} ^{leader}, in private of the defects of Wells or a Mitchell, then his off his subject - he repeated himself of failure to make all his points; a set down about making his test and ^{inexplicable} ^{to} ^{head} ^{to} the reform for Howard. But of was a sincere utterance and based on thought and knowledge and he was simple and honest in his recognition of factual failure. I think he will pass through almost as a Point Bond and the rest of the of - the Party are pouring a apprehended appreciation of him. J. K. M. of course, I may not like him but he has behaved very well and we personally soon he has been a desire of the Party. Survey is ~~very~~ well Health check is an immense comfort to me.

 I suffer from a chronic level tremor as I do the eye distichiasis - distichiasis distichiasis. Also my hands work days for: I am too tired most days to work at it & I wonder whether it will ever get done & whether it is worth doing.
 I am too old & not strong enough for the life I have meant to live! But that may be a true Nietzsche Delusion. The old power the returns from work is lost. As I have it as a rule to control - of feeling that I am useful to society as perhaps was useful to the past.

Looking in to the consciousness I think I see the signs of my malaise & the steady worsening condition of Europe. There is ~~some~~ ^{today} the same feeling to the French school & Germany exactly the same need man feeling as there was during the war. The world is again at war & it war is a frenzied hostile war. The triumphing or Germany of France is a disgusting vision - rather the lack of our scientific dream & some to war & ~~the~~ ^{intellectual} ~~the~~ combination of scientific & murder. As the ~~intellectual~~ ^{consciousness} is becoming again a war consciousness: large sections of Europe are beginning to hate France with a < Each section have not-cess to have Germany. As in the economic plane, with each country, class lines is being intensified.

 There before have I been so aware of belonging to an army of persons who will either be oppressed or will oppress - this fellow countryman. As I look down on the H. J. C. last night I seem to see ~~the~~ ^a ~~group~~ ^{segregation} of Germany a process of dissolution - a ^{disintegration} ~~of~~ ^{of} which I on ^{last} look is a tiny echo. Has the British for the ^{good} ~~condemned~~ ^{is} intended to fall through this dissolution to a new & better order for themselves & the world? That is it all absolutely faint. The fundamental good nature of the English is the pre-empt; their lack of intellect - or rather faith & intellectual courage - is their chief defect.

Came down here the other day I can do many things to find ways of her visitation. Ten days ago she had been ^{ten minutes} ~~ten minutes~~ ^{with} ~~in~~ ⁱⁿ ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~room~~ ^{room} but then she had spent a day with me on an urgent telephone message she had also been then days & weeks he lay in ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~hospital~~ ^{hospital}.

 In their declining years, he & she became equally frail in intelligence & feet & body; they had been constant companions in the long years of ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~past~~ ^{past} & ^{during} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~short~~ ^{short} ~~walks~~ ^{walks} in the woods ^{on} ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~ground~~ ^{ground}. In some ways they had never been so bound to each other; on her suffering is enough & she had ceased with age & bloom of her beauty. She had taken his death with gentle but haunting sorrow: ^{she} ~~one~~ ^{one} it is his ~~to~~ ^{to} ~~lose~~ ^{lose} ~~him~~ ^{him} ~~by~~ ^{by} ~~his~~ ^{his} ~~body~~ ^{body} ~~with~~ ^{with} ten or more & she'd wish me all state then~~ but her acute intelligence has been gone. She never had any intellect - apart from practical affairs - but practical affairs entered into a warm heart & uncompromising softness makes up into a fine personality. Bill is a cultured lover of a son & his wife a hard but unattractive woman & if they were not a saint - and a saint - what a tragedy she would feel their commonality. As it is the impression of their happiness & his death & the sorrow is deep & true is her substance - it is I think her ~~to~~ sorrow but she refuses to express her pain possibly even to herself. Dick & the faithful Frank & even the old Jewish Doctor (the chief having) are profoundly indignant with Dick; & as he loathed me, I keep out of it any other he himself is to take her out some account.

 What would have happened if then he had been ^{no} Dick & Peter - then I do not know.
 I think she would have been stowed away in a cottage with me now. I'm happy she brought up little but over & over Oswald Mosley reminds me of her in this respect - he seems to combine just several charms into the same fusion of character; aristocratic without the domineering manner.

Sidney is completely absorbed in his Parliamentary work & it is clear there will be no time for the writing of books. During the session the work is continuous. For four days he is at Westminster from 2.30 to 11 or 12 o'clock at night coming home for 1 1/2 or 2 hours ~~work~~ for dinner ^{hours}. On Friday he is there from 11 o'clock till 4 o'clock onwards. The best of a cup of coffee & a piece of bread & butter ~~is~~ at 8 o'clock Saturday & the ~~rest of the morning~~ ^{with constant} ~~is~~ spent in correspondence ^{necessary} drafting reports & minutes for the Party & in the evening & once & a while a so some Party Committee. Now he is on the Standing Committee to the President. Rested. And all must be moving. Saturday & Sunday I try to put away if any for one night, but my attempts have not been very successful as he prefers to remain in London & order to clear up his correspondence & to see Messrs. & students on Sunday afternoon. Parliament is far from a half time job as he had said. It is a full time job. Besides the long hours & continuous work of Sessions make a complete holiday afterwards imperative. & here comes the necessity expressed to let him take down to the lake to look to find it is the August holiday.

I watch his career & Parkhurst with a sort of morbid interest. He is singularly simple about it, just does what the Party tells him to do to the best of his ability, and enjoying the life & influence that he is all the questions that come up but does not take a view of Party opposition. He does not seem in the least to resent J. R. D.'s leadership, always treats him as his leader, with no reserves, & without dissent to "Manifesto".

Partly I think he feels that he is bound to do for leadership except the individual leadership of disinterested counsel that appears to - rather does he seem to look to be. In one word the desire to serve ~~has~~ - to do any job that no one else wants to do & that the Party wants to get done - seems to be his only guiding motive. He has lost his will to power - even to hidden & unrecognd power. Here again the disinterestedness of all else comes in.

"I am no longer part of the plan, but I am not" he says "in any case it will be forgotten when the will is set to motion." What addn. I think, comradely & his light heartedness is the attitude of the Party to him — they are not suspicious & respectful as to the differences was piqued at Lord ROBERT CECIL'S announcement that, despite his belief in the League of Nations, he was not going to support a motion which would be in effect a Vote of Censure on the Government. After a few gibes at the noble lord, who, he not obscurely hinted, was in search of office, Mr. LLOYD GEORGE devoted himself to a tremendous attack upon the French Government, and particularly on its head.

As he detailed his own repeated attempts to secure an agreement over Reparations, the words, "M. POINCARÉ refused," recurred like a harsh refrain. Delivered with all his old charm of voice and with an exuberance of gesture that caused his neighbours to edge away, the speech resolved itself into an appeal that we should rescue France from her evil advisers. It might have been delivered from the extreme Left in the Chamber of Deputies—only then it

Dear Webb,

Thank you for yours.

As you will have seen the change in the financial dept: of the bank office, & the retirement of Harris, are announced. But as they are not to be effected until March they can be stopped - what has been done is in my view both wrong and fin-ancially mischievous. You may be able to hold it up for further consideration, Warren Fisher notwithstanding.

I have been looking into the lowest legal machinery. You must have a good and Advocate & a good Solicitor General. They must be members of the Scot-Bar, but they need not be in the House or even politicians. On that footing you may get first rate men - I have been thinking them over. The present Lord Advocate would contribute a punch, but I think you could do better.

I have known Prof. Trobe for years. He is a useless person who have been knowing heaven & earth for appointments through him; I feel sure for your purpose

I have been and been in communication with Ramsay Macdonald, who comes here for a night on Thursday on his way South. I was had better be private.

I think I can be of more use to your cause outside any fort, than within it. I believe I could help with the Defence Committee, which used to have Esher & does not need a minister. It is an extraordinary debate and difficult Committee, & requires technical knowledge of an otherwise kind.

If I were younger I should be more willing to join your ranks but am now too set in legal & then endeavours.

However I am pretty clear that there would be dissension of labour opinions over my presence. You must avoid this.
