

10, Penley Grove St.,

York,

To

E Jenkins. Esq.,

Oct. 25th 1771.

5762

Will it be useless or intrusive for me to add my atom of evidence to your weightier witness on this vexed question of American Copyright and Copy wrong? One of the great American houses has within the last six or seven years republished some half dozen novels by my sister or myself - "St. Oliver's" "Rochester's Secret" &c. - We have received no benefit from the transaction beyond the satisfaction of knowing that the circle of our readers has been thereby increased -

To complain apart is as unavailing as it is natural. I could wish if with ever so weak a hand to help in carrying out the simple and practical suggestion you offered in last Monday's "Echo" -

I am

Yours truly

Mary Catharine Fabor.

Fawcett Library
87 Wilfred Street
London S.W.1.

8284.