PREFACE.

N the Report of 1895 issued by the Royal Commission on Secondary Education, the Association of University Women Teachers is quoted as one of the earliest women's organisations of secondary teachers. The Association was founded in January, 1883, on a suggestion made by the late Miss A. J. Clough, then Principal of Newnham College. Membership was, from the outset, limited to teachers who had received a university education, and the growth and progress of the Association in its early days was entirely due to the thoughtful efforts of the founders, their insistence on a high standard, and their realisation of a common aim and interest and the sense of responsibility involved. Miss A. J. Clough was President of the Association from its foundation until her death in 1892.

Even at an early date, the objects of the Association covered a large field, including discussions of educational questions, conferences with similar bodies, social meetings, and so forth, the careful watching of the educational market, and the providing of members with work as lecturers, teachers, examiners and inspectors. The success of the association in its efforts to advise its members and assist them to improve their status and remuneration is well known.

The Association has been incorporated as a " Company not for Profit Limited by Guarantee " under the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, and since the incorporation its aims are set forth in much wider terms, more in accordance with the actual work done, e.g., to promote the cause of education generally; to protect and improve the status and to further the legitimate professional interests of women teachers; to initiate and promote, or oppose, measures, legislative or administrative, in Parliament or elsewhere ; to take part in, or send delegates to, meetings, conferences, etc. ; to promote thrift among teachers, and to purchase or subscribe for the grant of annuities by any Assurance Company authorised to grant life annuities or pensions, etc., etc. While attending to these varied interests, the Association never loses sight of its special aim: to improve the status and standing of that section of the profession which it represents.

The Association consists of a President, ordinary members and honorary members. Ordinary membership of the Association is limited to women teachers who are graduates of a university of Great Britain or Ireland, or who hold the equivalent certificate of Oxford or Cambridge.* Honorary members are elected by the committee under conditions laid down in Articles 9 and Io. The affairs of the Association are administered by an executive committee of I2 ordinary members and a President, elected by the Association. The latter may be either an honorary or an ordinary member, and is elected annually; the retiring President is eligible for re-election, but no person may be President for more than two consecutive years. The other officers are the Secretary and the Hon. Treasurer, who are appointed by the committee, and have no seats on the committee ex-officio. The members of committee are arranged on a rota in three equal divisions, and in each year the division which has been longest in office retires. The committee has power to appoint subcommittees, and to make, repeal and alter bye-laws for the conduct of the general affairs of the Association. The Articles of Association provide for a business meeting to be held once a year; also for ofdinary and extraordinary general meetings of members. Meetings of the executive committee take place every month, or more often when necessary.

There are 24 honorary members. In 1883 the number of ordinary members was 76 ; it is now 2,640 . These include heads of university and training colleges, head and assistant mistresses of public and private schools, inspectors, lecturers, etc., who possess the university qualifications required for membership. The work has developed in many directions, as the perusal of the 40 Annual Reports of the Association will show. The statistics collected and published for the last 22 years of the salaries obtained by teachers through the help of the Association have served many a useful purpose in various educational conferences. The office is frequently referred to by Education Authorities and teachers for information and advice on a great variety of matters, such as agreements, sick leave, payment during absence through illness, pensions, etc.

A few instances of action taken by the Association of University Women Teachers in the interests of education will best explain the work it is doing. In 1888 the Association was instrumental in the formation of a committee to investigate the low salaries paid at the time to assistant mistresses in public schools. The report of this committee was followed by an address given to members in General Meeting by Miss Clara Collet, late of the Board of Trade, on "Salaries of Women Teachers," which was reprinted in the

* For extension of Ordinary Membership, see Article 6 D.

Journal of Education in 1890. In 1890 the Association held a series of discussion meetings on the then contemplated Register for Teachers; in 189I gave evidence before the Select Committee on the "Teachers' Registration and Organisation Bills" before Parliament, and in 1892 was invited by the Association of Head Mistresses to a conference on the "Salaries Question." When the Secondary Education Bill was before Parliament, the Association was represented at a conference on "Secondary Education," convened by the University of Cambridge, and when the County of London opened its secondary schools the Association took part in a conference called by the Assistant Masters' Association on "Salaries of London Secondary Teachers." On various occasions the Association has sent deputations to the Board of Education.

Latterly, the Association has been able to serve the interests of education in general by arranging conferences on such subjects as Psycho-Analysis, the teaching of Scripture and the teaching of Science, with a view to stimulating interest and keeping members in touch with modern methods.

The following ordinary and honorary members have acted as Presidents of the Association since its foundation in 1883 :

Miss A. J. Clough (Principal of Newnham College, Cambridge)
Miss Annie Rogers (Hon. Secretary, Association for the Education of Women, Oxford).
Miss Alice Woods (Principal of the Maria Grey Training College)
Miss L. E. Haigh (Head Mistress of Reading High School)
Mrs. Henry Sidgwick (Principal of Newnham College, Cambridge).
Mrs. Henry Sidgwick (Principal of Newnham College,
Miss Maitland (Principal of Somerville College, Oxford).
Miss B. A. Clough (Vice-Principal of Newnham College, Cambridge).
Miss Janet Case (Cambridge).
Miss M. J. Tuke (Member of the Senate, University of London, and Principal of Bedford College, London).
Miss H. Jex-Blake (Principal of Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford).
Miss Stephen (Principal of Newnham College, Cambridge).
Miss Gray (High Mistress, St. Paul's Girls' School).
Miss Winifred Smith (Tutor to Women Students, University College, University of London).
Miss Lodge (Principal of Westfield College, University of London).

FORTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT.

During the year ending 30 th November, 1924, Ordinary Members have been elected as follows

(7)

The Executive Committee have pleasure in reporting that the number of members has now reached 2,640, as against 2,622 last year. It is satisfactory to note that the number of life members continues to increase steadily.

The Committee record with deep regret the death of Miss Katharine Stephen, late Principal of Newnham College, Honorary Member of the Association and sometime President. They desire to express their high appreciation of the services rendered by Miss Stephen to the cause of women's education, and of the great and rare qualities of heart and mind which enabled her to achieve so much. Perhaps her most marked characteristic was her perfect unselfishness, an unselfishness that seemed to come to her without effort, born, as it were, of a noble simplicity of disposition. The Committee also record with regret the death of Mr. A. L. Smith, Master of Balliol, Honorary Member of the Association, whose services to education are so well known as to need no comment; and the deaths of Miss M. E. Wigg, Oxford, sometime member of the Committee ; Miss M. M. Berryman, Cambridge and London; Miss F. E. Chocqueel, London ; Miss F. Exton, Cambridge and Dublin; and Miss M. T. Meyer, Cambridge. Miss Chocqueel left her master's cap and gown to be given to a member of the Association.

The Committee have been fortunate in securing the services of Miss M. W. Nereton, second mistress at the Carlyle Secondary School, Chelsea, to act as hon. treasurer in place of Dr.K. H. Coward, and of Miss Hedley, headmistress of Chiswick County Secondary School, to serve on the Executive Committee in place of Miss Nicholls, who was obliged to resign on her appointment as headmistress of the Bridgwater Secondary School.

The Executive Committee report with pleasure that the financial position of the Association has improved this year. There is a surplus of $£ 16$ on the year's working. The improvement is chiefly due to an increased number of appointment fees, and the Committee desire to express their gratitude to the employers who send notices of vacancies to the Secretary of the Association.

The Executive Committee appeal most urgently for further subscriptions to the Hospital Branch. The Branch provides an excellent form of insurance against severe illness or operation. Subscribers whose illness is such as to necessitate hospital treatment can be admitted to the private wards in the South London Hospital for Women without delay and without charge, either for maintenance, treatment or operation fee (except operating theatre fee of $£ 1$. 1s.). Members desiring a single room in place of a private cubicle may have one on payment of the sum of $£ 1.1 \mathrm{~s}$. weekly. The number of subscribers has now fallen to 177 , whereas 200 are needed to pay the annual $£ 50$ promised by the Association to the hospital. Members are urged to do what they can to secure new subscribers. The subscription is only 5s. Perhaps those who are not likely to apply for admission would consider subscribing for the benefit of others.

The Executive Committee was asked by the Association of Assistant Masters to urge the Board of Education to make some change in the method of paying the increments in teachers' salaries under the Burnham Scale. After consultation between representatives of the two associations, a letter was sent to the President of the Board pointing out some of the disadvantages of the present system. Teachers of several years' standing find it difficult to gain fresh experience by a change of post on account of the high salaries to which they are entitled, and in the event of a teacher at the maximum salary resigning a post for any reason, it is almost impossible to secure another appointment. The Committee urged the President of the Board to investigate the matter and see if means could not be devised to secure greater facility of transference in the profession.

The Education Committee of the British Science Guild invited the Association to send a representative to serve on a deputation to the President of the Board of Education to request reforms in the administrative work of the Board in the matter of finance and to ask for the reconstitution of the Consultative Committee of the Board. A full account of the points raised was given in the July number of the Journal of Education.

Mrs. How Martyn and Mrs. Brough attended the meetings of the Triennial Conference on Education arranged by the League of the Empire. The most interesting point raised was perhaps the question of the interchange of teachers with the Dominions. Many exchanges had been arranged between teachers in elementary schools. There was more difficulty in effecting exchanges between secondary school teachers. The representatives had the honour of attending a garden party at Buckingham Palace.

Representatives of the Association have attended the following committees and conferences :-Coming of Age Celebrations of the Workers' Educational Association ; Committee of the Conference of Educational Associations; Conference on Empire Settlement and Migration; Decimal Metric Congress; Education Committee of the Professional Classes' Aid Council ; Education Sub-Committee of the English-speaking Union; Educational Sectional Committee and Annual Meeting of the National Council of Women; League of the Empire Triennial Conference on Education; Women's Advisory Committee of the League of Nations Union.

THE ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING.

9th February, 1924.
The 40th Annual Business Meeting of the Association, adjourned from 8th January, was held on the 9th February, 1924, at Dr. Williams' Library, Gordon Square, at $4.30 \mathrm{p} . \mathrm{m}$. In the absence of the President, Miss Winifred Smith, through illness, Miss Sprules, by the appointment of the Executive Committee, took the Chair, and 32 members were present. The Secretary made the following report of the meeting on January 8th: " In the absence of the President, by the appointment of the Executive Committee, Miss Strudwick took the Chair at 11 o'clock, the meeting having been convened for 10.30 . The Chairman stated that as fewer than 40 members were present, the Annual Business Meeting must be adjourned in accordance with Article 40. The time and place for the adjourned meeting must be fixed by the members present. Various dates were discussed. It was proposed from the Chair and carried nem. con. that the Annual Business Meeting be adjourned till Saturday the 9th February, and be held at Dr. Williams' Library, Gordon Square, at 4.30.

The Chairman, Miss Sprules, proposed that a message of sympathy and best wishes for her recovery should be sent to the President.

( 10 )

The Secretary read the names of 49 members, who having been elected since July, 1923, were not entitled to vote. Art. 44.

On the motion of Miss Sandford, seconded by Miss Yates, and carried unanimously, the Minutes of the Annual Business Meeting, held on January 27th, 1923, were taken as read and confirmed. Miss Wills proposed that " the Annual Report and Statement of Accounts be adopted." Miss Nicholls seconded the motion. The Chairman stated that the Report was open for discussion, and asked the Secretary to mention any special points. The Secretary said that in the absence of the Hon. Treasurer, she wished to call attention to the financial statement for the year. The number of subscriptions remained much the same: the investments had been increased, because the increased number of Life Memberships provided funds for investment. The appointment fees had fallen off very much during the year, owing to the small number of posts vacant. The Committee hoped that this condition of affairs would prove temporary. The motion that "the Annual Report and Statement of Accounts be adopted" was put to the meeting and carried unanimously. On the motion of Miss Lieben, seconded by Miss Fortey, it was unanimously agreed that "Mrs. Harold Cox be appointed auditor for the year 1923-1924 and receive the fee of $\AA^{7} 7 \mathrm{~s}$.'

The Secretary then stated that she had great pleasure in announcing to the meeting that Miss Lodge, Principal of Westfield College, who had been unanimously proposed by the Committee, had consented to be President for the year 1923-1924. No other nominations having been sent in, Miss Lodge was declared elected without a ballot. The four members who retired by rotation from the Executive Committee had consented to stand for re-election. There were three vacancies caused by resignations, and three nominations had been received. A ballot had been necessary because the four candidates receiving the greatest number of votes, would serve for three years, one candidate would serve for two years and two candidates would serve for one year. Miss Foley, Miss Jones, Miss Nicholls and Miss Sprules would serve for three years, Miss Webb would serve for two years ; Miss Bartels and Miss Newton would serve for one year.

Miss Lieben moved " that this Association requests the Government to amend and then enforce the Sex Disqualification Removal Act, 1919."

Miss Lieben: " I sent my motion in because I feel that we as a University Women's Society should range ourselves with other women's societies in a demand that an act specially drawn up for our help and put on the Statute Book should be enforced. The motion I put before you may be divided into two parts, the first being necessitated by the course of affairs in the country.

" Let me briefly recapitulate the history of the Act.

" In 1919 the Labour Party introduced and carried through all its stages in the Commons, in spite of Government opposition, a measure called the 'Women's Emancipation Bill,' and this roused the Government. The Bill of the Labour Party was torpedoed in the House of Lords and the Government passed through all its stages, in both Houses, the Sex Disqualification Removal Act. The Government measure was not so complete as that of the Labour Party, but it is an important instalment toward equality of opportunity. The Act is very short, it contains only three clauses of which (for us here) the first is the important one. It reads - A person shall not be disqualified by sex or marriage from the exercise of any public function or from being appointed to or holding any civil or judicial office or post or from entering or assuming or carrying on any civil profession or vocation or for admission to any incorporated Society (whether incorporated by Royal Charter or otherwise) and a person shall not be exempted by sex or marriage from the liability to serve as a juror.'
"Now it would seem that it should be enough merely to ask the Government to enforce this Act, but in practice the demand for amendment becomes necessary owing to actions in the country and in the courts. Though many professions have loyally and honourably thrown open their doors to women, others are still contravening the Act in both directions.
"Let us take first the question of sex.
" Peeresses in their own right are excluded from the House of Lords. Lady Rhondda brought a case and the course it took is illuminating. The Committee for Privileges of the House of Lords decided in Lady Rhondda's favour by 7 to 1, but when the case was referred back, on the motion of Lord Birkenhead, then the Lord Chancellor, a new Committee decided that it ' was a confusion of thought to say that a holder of a peerage was exercising a public function by taking his seat in the House.' This Committee decided by a majority of 20 to 4 that the claim had not been made outa decision by which to the ordinary mind the whole House of Lords was proved not to ' exercise a public function.' But the important point to be noticed here is that it was publicly recognised that no person could be excluded from exercising a public function on account of sex or marriage.
" However, women are still excluded from the Stock Exchange (at least so I gather from the 'Englishwoman's Year Book'); from the ordained Ministry of the Church of England, and, lastly, Cambridge University still denies its full membership to women.
"The Universities of Oxford and Cambridge Act set up a Statutory Commission both for Oxford and Cambridge to make statutes and regulations for each University in general accordance with the recommendations contained in the report of the Royal Commission. In spite of the practical unanimity of both Houses that the admission of women to membership was both inevitable and right, the amendment to provide for this (moved by Mr . J. R. M. Butler) was defeated on the plea put forward by the Government that Parliament should not interfere with the affairs of the University-and this in a Bill set up for that very purpose.
"Now let us turn to the other stipulation on account of marriage.
" Owing to various causes women are being excluded on marriage from several professions. Such was the case of a woman doctor, who was working chiefly in connection with maternity and child welfare, and was excluded by the St. Pancras Borough Council in 1922. Unfortunately, she did not bring a case into the courts

A growing number of public bodies are excluding women teachers on marriage. In March last, after long and stormy meetings, the L.C.C. decided against the retention-not only of the women teachers, but even of the women cleaners! And other public bodies have decided similarly. The dismissed married women teachers brought a case versus the Rhondda Valley Education authorities. The case was tried before Mr. Justice Eve in the Chancery Court on April 24th, 1923. The decision went against the women, but the case was fought as a breach of contract, not as contravention of the Act. A solicitor's opinion was taken and the following curious reasoning was given on the situation :
"The Act was an Act to remove disqualifications; when the Act was passed women teachers suffered no disqualifications; therefore the Act did not apply to women teachers.
"On another occasion a solicitor's opinion had it that the Act was not compulsory - it was merely permissive - in which case we are no further than we were before and women feel that they have been tricked. As we do not believe that the Government intended deliberately to trick women when they put the Act upon the Statute Book, but believe that they really meant to remove the disabilities under which women had so long laboured, not merely to seem so to do, therefore we ask them to re-word the Act, so that its sense cannot be flagrantly contravened, and having so amended it, to enforce it, and so give women the benefits which they expected to obtain when the Act was passed, and for which they were deeply grateful to the Government. It is for this reason that I ask our Association to send a resolution to the Government to say that this Society asks them to amend and then to enforce the Sex Disqualification Removal Act."

Miss Fortey seconded the motion.

In answer to a question from Miss Wills, Miss Lieben said that the motion did not apply to the admission of women to Holy Orders, which was a question for Convocation rather than for the State. Miss Edwards spoke against the motion; she thought it would be very difficult to enforce the Act and the matter should be left to the Government. It was impossible to get equality between men and women, because they were so different. Miss Fortey agreed that men and women were different, but thought the point was, that if a woman were capable of doing any particular thing, she should not be debarred from doing it by reason of her sex. She thought there was no harm in pointing out to the Government that the Act was not being properly carried out. Miss Ralph asked what safeguards existed to protect public bodies in dealing with the difficult question of the employment of married women. She feared if the Act were enforced it might penalise those public bodies that conscientiously tried to use their judgment in employing women in the best way. Miss Tuke thought Miss Lieben had made an absolutely convincing statement as to the actual position. She was not sure whether, if this motion were passed, it would go forward with similar motions from other societies, or whether it was just an attempt to shoot an arrow at the new Ministers. She was not a member of the Labour Party, but had great sympathy with some of their aims and thought they would have a troubled and difficult period of office. She did not feel sure that it was politic to bring this matter before the Government at the moment. She would like to have this point met by someone well versed in political life. Miss Lieben said her motion had been sent in during the lifetime of the last Government. She was a supporter of the Labour Party, and felt it was less important to bring forward the motion now than it was then. Other societies had sent up similar motions, and she thought it would be well to point out that the Association desired that the Act should be enforced. The Chairman thought the meeting was too small to send forward such an important motion; she asked whether, in view of the change in the political situation, Miss Lieben wished that a vote should be taken, and the motion, if passed, sent forward. Miss Lieben said that the members had had two chances of objecting, as the Annual Business Meeting had been adjourned. If they felt very strongly, they would have written to the Secretary. She would like the motion to go forward. Miss Fortey concurred. The motion was put to the meeting, 9 votes were in favour and 9 against. The Chairman gave her casting vote against the motion on the grounds already stated. The motion was therefore lost.

Miss Dent moved " that it will not be in harmony with the highest ideals and traditions of the teaching profession, or with those of motherhood, that teachers should retain their posts as a general rule on marriage." She thought that even on the grounds of policy it was doubtful whether it was an opportune moment to press the claim that married women should be allowed to retain their posts as a right. The Sex Disqualification Act did not truly apply to this question. The employer had a right to decide whether an applicant for a post were suitable for the work required or not. It was no argument to urge that men and women were equal in this respect ; their functions were complementary and not identical. It was not the usual function of a married woman to maintain the household financially, and there were always means of providing for the cases in which the married woman was obliged to earn. Teachers who got married fell into two main classes: (1) those who took up teaching as a means of livelihood until they married; (2) those who regarded motherhood as the highest calling of woman, and gave up their profession to devote their whole time to their new work. There was a third group, she hoped a small one, which consisted of those who had no intention of sacrificing themselves, either in the cause of motherhood or of teaching.

As a small minority often made more noise than a large number of quiet, steady workers who had " hitched their wagon to a star" and made their work their one aim in life, it seemed not undesirable that the Association of University Women Teachers should give expression to their feelings on the side of idealism, whether in teaching or in motherhood.

It was generally admitted that the extraneous work of a teacher was often of more value than the routine of teaching. The games, social clubs, outside educational expeditions, were of the utmost importance in the development of character. Most people knew how great a strain it was to maintain the level of work required, if called upon in addition to manage the affairs of a household or be responsible for the care of a sick person. What could be the result on the school work of a married woman who might have children ill at home and must have household affairs always on her mind. It was well known that in certain elementary schools the married women did not take their share of the regular duties of school work, and took no part in out of school activities. It had been urged that only mothers could really understand child nature, but this was nonsense, for married teachers were away from their children for three-quarters of the working day and probably saw less of them than of their pupils. They were cer tainly not in an ideal condition to play with them after a day's work at school. It had also been said that if a married woman doctor could carry on her profession, so could a teacher; but the cases were different. The woman doctor was not paid out of public funds, and if her work were unsatisfactory she paid the penalty by losing her patients. Teachers were often reminded that their calling was of all others the most responsible. The new generation were influenced not by precept, but by example. Let teachers strive to get back to the idealism of those who fought for the emancipation of woman last century and give unstintedly of their best.

Miss Hulland Wright seconded the motion

Miss Fortey said she would have been in favour of the motion as it appeared on the paper, but after hearing the speech of the proposer she could not support it. She agreed that as a rule it was better for teachers to resign their posts on marriage, and her experience was that they usually did resign; but it was another matter for somebody else to say that a woman must resign, and that she was not prepared to support. She thought a woman had a right to consider the matter for herself and act according to her own conscience. Miss Dent thought that the employer had the first right to decide the question, as he paid the teacher for doing the work. Miss Lieben thought the statement that the married woman teacher ceased work the moment the clock struck was an undeserved aspersion. She knew a great many married teachers, and had never, or very rarely, heard that their work was not conscientiously performed. If the work were not properly done, the employer should dismiss the teacher for inefficiency or neglect of duty. To prevent a woman from teaching because she was married, and to say that she constantly ran away from her duties, seemed to her to be playing into the hands of the Press and of certain educationists who had accused teachers of behaving in that way. The motion was put to the vote; seven were in favour and eight against. The motion was therefore lost.

The meeting ended with a vote of thanks to Miss Sprules for taking the chair.

MÉETING ON THE MONTESSORI SYSTEM

29th November, 1923

By the kindness of Miss Mercier, the meeting was held at the Whitelands Training College. Dr. Jessie White took the Chair, and gave a short sketch of the principles of the system, and the advantages of following it. Miss Wallis gave an excellent account of the working of the system in St. Giles-in-the-Fields Infant School, and demonstrated the method of using the various apparatus. Miss Nereman gave a short account of some of the difficulties in working the system in the preparatory department of a secondary school. An animated discussion followed, turning mainly on Dr. Montessori's objection to fairy stories.

MEETING ON THE ADVANTAGES OF THE METRIC SYSTEM.

6th December, 1923.

By kind permission of Miss Tucker, the meeting was held at the Fulham County Secondary School. Miss Reeve took the Chair, and Miss Fortey explained fully the great saving of time and energy both in school and business which could be made by the adoption of a satisfactory metric system, including a definite relation between units of length, area, volume and weight. She also showed and explained a beautifully simple and solid piece of apparatus for helping children to grasp the relative weights of various substances. A brisk discussion followed on the disadvantages of a decimal system, the size and value of the unit to be adopted, the commercial difficulties of making such a drastic change, and the best means of overcoming them.

MEETING AT THE CONFERENCE OF EDUCATIONAL ASSOCIATIONS.  8th January, 1924, 10.30 a.m.

This meeting was held at University College. Miss Strudwick took the Chair at 11 o'clock. As fewer than 40 members were present, the Chairman announced that in accordance with Art. 40 the Annual Business Meeting must be adjourned, and the time and place for the adjourned meeting must be fixed by the members present. After some discussion, it was proposed from the Chair, and carried nem. con., that the Annual Business Meeting be adjourned till Saturday, 9th February, and be held at Dr. Williams' Library, Gordon Square, at 4.30. Miss Lieben and Miss Dent spoke to the motions which they were to propose at the Annual Business Meeting, but no voting took place. At 11.30 Dr. De Selincourt gave his address on " A Liberal Education." (This address has been printed separately, and a copy is enclosed.)

MEETING ON EDUCATION AND THE WORK OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

4th February, 1924.
This meeting was held at the office of the Association. The President, Miss Lodge, took the Chair, and set forth the great importance of the work of the League, and the honour conferred on the Association by Dr. Maxwell Garnett's coming to speak to the members. Dr. Garnett gave a most interesting account of some of the activities of the League and some of the difficulties encountered. He explained the valuable work done by the League of Nations Union in educating public opinion on international questions and thus promoting the cause of peace. A discussion followed on the position of the Labour Party and on the attitude of Germany towards the League.

MEETING ON THE GENERAL ENDS AT WHICH EDUCATION SHOULD AIM.

9th February, 1924.
This meeting was held at Dr. Williams' Library, before the adjourned Annual Meeting. Miss Sprules took the Chair, and Mr. Salter Davies, Director of Education for Kent, gave a most delightful address, showing how important education was as a means of eliminating class warfare, and how mutual understanding and tolerance and a spirit of co-operation could be developed in all schools. He ended with a plea for further development of adult education, without which it was impossible to get the best results from the education given in the primary schools.

GARDEN PARTY AT WESTFIELD COLLEGE.  28th June, 1924.

Miss Lodge most kindly invited the Association to meet at Westfield College, where she received the guests. The weather was rather showery, but fine enough to allow tea to be served in the garden. After tea, the members explored the beautiful grounds, and finally assembled in the Library, where $D r . W$. B. Selbie, of Mansfield College, Oxford, gave a most interesting address, on "Education and the New Psychology." He said that there was still room for improvement in educational methods; the mental processes of many of the students coming up to the University showed a want of co-ordination, the "ego" was to some extent dissociated, and there was a lack of mental grip. He contrasted the old psychology with the new ; the old was too rigid and static, the new was more elastic and based on biological and physiological facts. The sub-conscious mind was the great discovery of the new psychology, but there was a tendency to study the abnormal rather than the normal, which must be guarded against. Racial and prenatal influences were at work in every child : its actions were at first instinctive, but it soon showed some power to reject and repel. Education must direct the " urge to life," called by Freud, the " libido," which was not always sexual. If the libido were repressed, the repression might cause abnormality, which could sometimes be successfully treated by analysis and suggestion. Analysis should never be attempted, except by a qualified analyst. Suggestion, on the contrary, was most valuable to teachers. The proper relation between authority and the child should be carefully maintained. A child should begin to think for himself from the earliest days, or he would be without initiative. The new system of education should be based on suggestion, but suggestion must be developed into auto-suggestion. The discussion which followed was very interesting. Hearty votes of thanks to Dr. Selbie and Miss Lodge were carried by acclamation.

MEETING ON PSYCHOLOGICAL TESTS

8th October, 1924.

The meeting was held at Dr. Williams' Library : the President, Miss Lodge, took the Chair. Dr. Ballard explained that he would have preferred the title of " Intelligence Tests." These tests had been developed in the Psychological Laboratory. The Binet tests were most useful for measuring mental deficiency, but useless with highly intelligent children. The great result of these tests had been the discovery of a mental age, as distinct from the physical age. Dr. Ballard said that though intelligence was difficult to define, it was not difficult to measure ; it could only be measured in the medium of knowledge : the object was to devise tests which only required knowledge common to all the candidates. Number relations formed a good test: absurdity tests were also excellent. There had been some misunderstanding of the statement that intelligence did not develop after sixteen: the ordinary conception of intelligence included interests, which of course did increase with years. Tests of intelligence applied to adults over 16 showed that their intelligence was in no way superior to that of children with a mental age of 16 , and the same adult, tested repeatedly, did not improve after he had once become accustomed to the form of the test. Dr. Ballard also mentioned the Thorndike Tests, which had now been in use for eight years at the University of Colombia as an alternative to Matriculation.

THE REGISTRY.

The work of the Registry has increased this year. There have been more applications for mistresses and more posts filled. The number of temporary vacancies has been noticeably larger, but there have been fewer applications for mistresses to go abroad. The Education Committee of the English Speaking Union asked the Association to help in arranging an exchange with a teacher in an American Secondary School, but, unfortunately, the expense of the passage prevented any arrangements being made.

Applications for teachers have been received from the following places abroad:-

| South Africa | $\ldots$ | 9 | West Indies |  | $\ldots$ | 4 |  |

| India | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | 4 | U.S.A. | $\ldots$ | $\ldots$ | 1 |

Of these posts three have been filled, two in South Africa and one in Siam. The work of filling posts abroad is carried out in cooperation with the Church Teachers' Fellowship and the Society for the Overseas Settlement of British Women.

Particulars of applications for Teachers during the current year are given in the following table: .
