

Lee Hollies - April 30

85.

My dear Husband,

I can only send you a line or two. Wil. started with Diana to Paris on Monday. They will travel straight through and Wil. will return immediately. Dr. Hargreaves thought they had better start, as Diana might not be able to get off. Mamma had an attack on Saturday which deprived her of speech, and though Dr. Hargreaves says she is better now, still the speech does not return. He never leaves her day nor night and whilst Wil. is away it is hard work for me. I hope Mamma will be here when she comes home on Saturday night.

It was a noble thing of letting go with Diana, thing being as they are, and she too is much wiser with our constant watching.

But perhaps I shall have better news to tell you next week. Mrs. I cannot even have time to say how thankful I should be to have you for one hour.
All else goes well.

Yours lovingly
Diana started well and in good spirits.
