Second Annual Report.

It is with great satisfaction, and with much gratitude to their increasing number of friends, that the Council of the Residential College for Working Women present their second Annual Report. The continuance of such experimental educational work throughout a second year is in itself a matter for thankfulness, especially when the general conditions of the year 1921, with regard to finance and trade, are borne in mind. Moreover, the fact that the College was explicitly founded, at the beginning of 1920, "for an experimental period of two years," has made this second year an important time of testing and of decision. After careful consideration at the July Meeting of the Council, and in view of the distinctly hopeful prospects of the College with regard both to finance and to students, it was resolved to continue the work permanently, and to make every effort to establish the College upon an enduring basis.

This resolution and the reasons which led to its adoption were communicated to the friends and supporters of the College in October by means of a circular letter, in which those who had helped the work to begin were asked to make their support permanent and their donations annual as far as possible. The prompt and generous response to this letter fully justified the decision of the Council.

The truth is that the College is daily becoming more widely known, and more clearly recognised as supplying a definite need. The growing sense of the importance of Adult Education is one of the most encouraging signs of the educational situation in this country—as indeed of that in all civilised democracies to-day—and in this general movement the provision of non-vocational higher education for working women is increasingly felt to be of very great importance. The Committee on Adult Education, recently appointed by the Board of Education, has thought it worth while to form a special sub-committee to consider Adult Education for Women; and this official interest in the subject is well-matched by that of the women workers themselves, who at a series of Conferences arranged by Ruskin College, are expressing their thoughts and needs with regard to "Higher Education for Working Women" with no uncertain voice. At present the demand for full-time residential education, in spite of the grave hindrance of lack of money, exceeds the supply of opportunities, and the Beckenham College, now full, will probably have a considerable waiting list by next September. On all accounts, therefore, the time seems ripe for the decision to make the work permanent.

The business of the College has been transacted during the year by three Meetings of the Council (to which two new members have been added), and by numerous Meetings of the Executive Committee. At the December Meeting of the Council. Council it was resolved that the Secretary—whose services had hitherto been generously provided for by a group of anonymous friends—should be added to the regular Staff of the College, for the purposes of general business, finance, and propaganda. The College is now affiliated to the Educational Settlements Association, and sends two representatives to the Council of that Body.

It is with much regret that we have to record the resignation of Miss Hinder, who made such a valuable contribution to the founding of the College, both by her work before its opening and by her guidance in the first experimental terms. She gave up her post as Resident Tutor at the end of the Summer Term. The vacancy was filled by the appointment of Miss Olive Dalzell (Social Science Diploma, University of Liverpool), whose combined experience of teaching, Government service, and social work places a variety of resources at our disposal.

We have been fortunate also in retaining the generous help of many visiting lecturers, and in adding to our list. Courses have been given during the year by the following friends:—

- | | |
|--------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| BIOLOGY | Miss Carruthers, B.Sc., Raines Foundation School, Stepney. |
| ECONOMICS | Mrs. Draper, Classical Tripos, Cambridge, Lecturer at London School of Economics.
Miss Eckhard, Economics Tripos, Cambridge, Lecturer at London School of Economics. |
| ENGLISH | Miss W. M. Hughes, Med. and Mod. Languages Tripos, Cambridge, Lecturer for L.C.C.
Miss M. J. Powell, M.A., Lond., Med. and Mod. Languages Tripos, Cambridge, formerly Staff Lecturer Royal Holloway College, and Examiner for University of London |
| EURHYTHMICS | Miss B. Simpson. |
| HANDICRAFTS | Mrs. Chambers, St. Hilda's Hall, Oxford, formerly on Staff of Cheltenham Ladies' College.
Miss R. G. Hughes, formerly on Staff of Hockerill Training College. |
| MUSIC | Miss Jesson, A.R.C.M., Lecturer for L.C.C.
Miss Phoebe Walters, A.R.C.M., formerly Staff Lecturer Royal Holloway College. |

PHYSIOLOGY ... Miss Bond, B.Sc., London School of Medicine for Women.

PSYCHOLOGY ... Miss Bodkin, B.A., formerly on Staff of Homerton College, Cambridge.

In addition to these regular courses, Miss Shacklock has advised us in our gardening, and Miss Powell and Mr. White have given coaching in French to such students as were able to profit by it.

We have also enjoyed the following single lectures, and the opportunity of discussion with the givers:—

INHERITANCE ...	Dame Helen Gwynne-Vaughan, D.B.E.
TRADE UNIONISM FOR WOMEN	Mrs. Calthrop, National Federation of Working Women.
JAPANESE INDUSTRIAL CONDITIONS	Mr. Catchpool, Sub-Warden of Toynbee Hall.
VOCATION ...	Mrs. Parker Crane, London Missionary Society.
CLASSICAL SCULPTURE	Miss Delp, Lecturer at Royal Holloway College.
THE WORK OF THE W.E.A.	Miss Eardley-Wilmot, Hon. Treasurer, London District W.E.A.
THE CHILD AND HIS BOOK	Mrs. Field.
THE GERMAN YOUTH MOVEMENTS	Miss G. Harrison, and Rev. B. A. Yeaxlee, National Adult School Union.
BANKING AND BUSINESS	Miss Z. Johnson, Hon Auditor.
GUILD SOCIALISM ...	Mr. C. M. Lloyd, London School of Economics.
UNEMPLOYMENT ...	Mr. H. A. Mess.
PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION	Miss Morton, Sec. P.R. Society.
TRADE BOARDS AND INDUSTRIAL LEGISLATION	Miss M. E. Phillips, Y.W.C.A. Bureau of Industrial Law.
INDIAN PEOPLES ...	Miss Sykes.
WOMEN WORKERS IN CHINA	Miss We Tsung Zung.
THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS	Mr. E. F. Wise, C.B.

Some of these lectures and some of our regular courses have been further illuminated by visits to museums and picture galleries on our expeditions to London. Among such visits have been:—

The Record Office, under the guidance of Mr. Hilary Jenkinson. Classical Sculpture in the British Museum, under the guidance of Miss Delp.

Assyrian Antiquities, under the guidance of Mr. Cecil Hallett. Kew Gardens, under the guidance of Miss Carruthers.

And the Geography, Natural History, and London Museums with the Resident Staff.

In opportunities of hearing music we have been specially fortunate; we cannot usually attend concerts in London, and few are given locally, but we have had delightful recitals, both vocal and instrumental, in our own Common Room. Not only have Miss Walters and Miss Jesson given us regular courses, but we have also heard and enjoyed Miss Judith Alcock; Miss M. M. Harrison; Miss Vivien Hughes, accompanied by Mrs. Miller; Miss Anson, Miss Cropper and Miss May Walker; Mr. H. S. Walters; Miss Weber; and last March we attended the singing of the Bach Passion Music in St. Paul's Cathedral.

At the conclusion of our two experimental years, the main lines of our usual curriculum may be considered fairly established. It has from the first been founded on the expressed wishes of intending students as set forth in their Curriculum. application forms, and also discussed from time to time with groups of students at the end of their College year. On the whole, there is a remarkable unanimity as to the main subjects of study preferred, though a good deal of divergence as to the proportions in which these should be combined. The fact that no subject is compulsory and that students are expected to take the responsibility of planning and working out their own scheme, with such advice as they may need, makes it possible for each to arrange a course to suit her own needs and capacities, though the ages range almost over a twenty years' interval. The plan of work for the year from September, 1921, given on page 9, may be taken as a summary of our general conclusions, and it seems probable that unless some considerable change takes place in the type of students applying for entrance, this will remain the outline of our scheme. We shall not, however, cease to be experimental, and we hold ourselves ready to serve the needs of the students who come to us, whatever these may be.

In addition to work and play in the College, and visits to London, students have taken part in the work of the local Adult School, including attendance at a course of lectures

College Life. on "Finance and Progress," by Mr. Paul Singer, B.Sc.; they have also helped regularly in the Play Centre, and have visited several of the Beckenham schools under the guidance of Mrs. Brazil. They have organised games, netball and tennis matches, social evenings and debates, and have carried on their own Magazine. They have continued to share in the work of the house, and have done vigorously in the garden—almost ruined by the drought, but re-planted largely by the kind gifts of our friends and by our own labours.

Our usual At Home on Monday afternoons has been well attended by friends and visitors from all parts of the world. We also had the pleasure of entertaining the Council and friends of the College at a Garden Party on July 1st, at which the play "Paddy Pools," by Miles Malleon, was performed by the students.

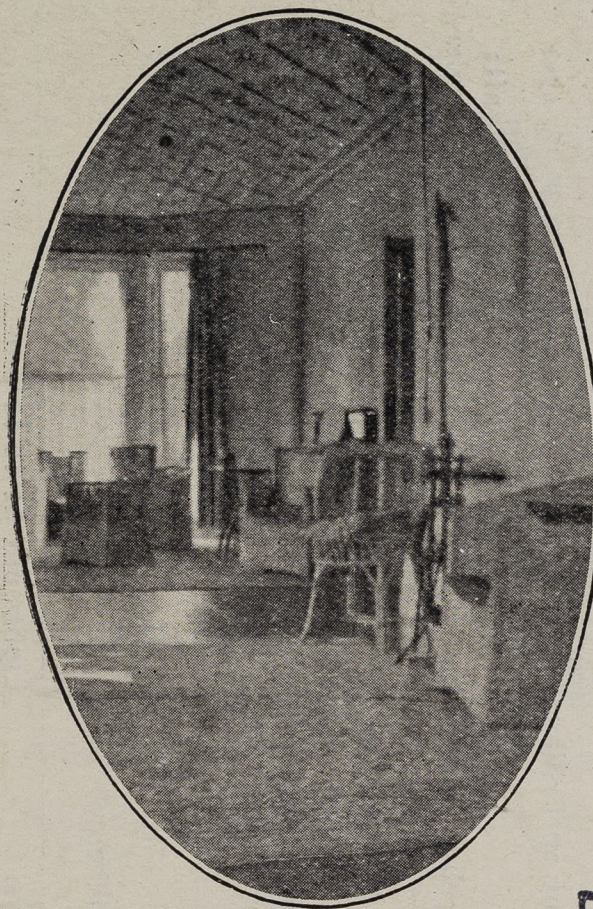

The numbers in residence have gone up steadily during the year, until now the College is full, and applications for the eight places which will be vacant in September are already

Students. coming in. Six students left us in the Summer and eight at Christmas. The table on page 11 shows whence they came and to what service they went out. It will be noticed that we had a second Danish student, and two from America. We have now two from Scotland, and others from the North of England, though the majority continue to be drawn from the neighbourhood of London. Those who come great distances owe much to the kindness of friends who have given hospitality for week-ends and holidays—Mrs. Charles Gray, Mrs. Yeaxlee, Miss Courtauld, Miss de Ternant, Miss Ghey, Miss Scott-Moncrieff, Somerville College, Westfield College, Roedean School, and Members of the Tonbridge W.E.A.

It will be seen from the financial statement on page , that a satisfactory balance remained in hand at the end of the year, and also that a Deposit Account, consisting of Finance. Students' fees and bursaries paid in advance, has been opened. Other encouraging features of the situation are the continued generosity of the Hon. Treasurer, and the steadily increasing number of yearly subscribers. There is no doubt, too, that a slight decrease in the cost of living—particularly with regard to actual food—has taken place during the year, though it would not be advisable to expect, on this account, a greatly reduced budget for the College. It is most unlikely that the expenditure can fall below £2,300 a year, and this estimate can be arrived at only by the most careful economy. To raise this sum annually—in other words to provide for the residential education of eighteen students whose fees, even when paid in full, amount to very little more than half of their actual cost—is therefore the task of the authorities of the College. Further than this, some provision should be made as speedily as possible, for at least the nucleus of a permanent endowment fund, not only to enable the College to continue its existence, but also to provide for the changes which will be necessary when, in five years' time, the lease of the present house will expire and large developments will probably be urgently needed.

All friends and supporters of the enterprise are therefore most earnestly asked to give their help and interest as generously as hitherto. If we may continue to count on the present sources of income—i.e., the Colleges, Schools, and other communities of educated women who have provided Bursaries, the employers, social workers and other individual friends who have paid the fees of students known to them, the official bodies such as Educational Trusts, Local Education Authorities, and others who have made grants in aid, and the many contributors all over the country who have provided the general fund—there need be no undue anxiety as to the future. It seems likely that as soon as the first signs of a trade revival appear, many progressive employers will turn their attention to the need for general education, not merely for livelihood but for life, as an essential element in true industrial welfare. Local Education Authorities, though they are well-known to be in anything but a prosperous condition at present, are beginning to recognise the College as an authorised institution for Higher Education, and already several grants have been made to local students. Again, among the vast number of calls for help constantly made upon women's colleges, girls' schools, and other such groups, few can have a more direct appeal than this opportunity of sharing their own liberal educational advantages with others who are naturally quite as fit and quite as eager for them—an opportunity, too, of carrying to a further stage that advance towards the Higher Education of Women to which the more fortunate themselves owe their work, their position, and their equipment for service.

Very substantial help can be given by a combination of comparatively small amounts; for instance, an interesting proposal has been made by a well-known Head Mistress that a "Sixth Form Bursary" should be established to which groups of senior girls of High Schools throughout the country should contribute yearly sums of £1 or more; and this scheme, when it is completed, will provide a close personal connection between the College and a large number of the Girls' Public Schools. (The fund for this Bursary is still open, and particulars about it can be sent to any school which would welcome an opportunity of joining in the scheme. It is hoped that the Bursary will be allocated to a student entering the College during the coming year.)

The Women's University Colleges are full to overflowing, and far more are needed to accommodate the large numbers of women desirous of an academic training. But even

Conclusion. if they were more numerous, they would not meet all the needs of the working woman. At present very few of these can either spare the time or acquire the necessary preparation to equip themselves for this highly specialised life, adapted as it is to the needs of those entering professions. Meanwhile, to meet the varied and ever-increasing demand of the workers themselves it is essential that many diverse experiments should be carried on side by side, and so far as possible in consultation with each other. It is significant that during the past two years the three efforts to provide residential education for women workers (Ruskin College, the Winter Schools of the Adult School Union, and our own College) have enabled no less than 124 women to secure a continuous period of college life. The Beckenham College hopes to continue its contribution to this experimental movement, and its representatives have therefore welcomed the opportunity of conferring with those of Ruskin College, the Adult Schools, and others interested in the matter. Until the provision for Adult Education is immensely widened, we are confident that there will be plenty of scope for Colleges which aim at education rather than training, and seek to prepare their students for wider life and fuller citizenship.
