AN APPEAL FROM WOMEN

To the Members of the House of Commons.

GENTLEMEN,

Many of the women who sign this appeal differ in opinion on other political questions, but all are of one mind that the continued denial of the franchise to women while it is at the same time being gradually extended amongst men is at once unjust and inexpedient.

In our homes it fosters the impression that women's opinion on questions of public interest is of no value to the nation, while the fact of women having no votes lessens the representative character of the House of Commons.

In the factory and workshop it places power to restrict women's work in the hands of men who are working along side of women whom they too often treat as rivals rather than as fellow-workers.

In Parliament it prevents men from realizing how one-sided are many of the laws affecting women.

We therefore earnestly beg you to support any well-considered measure for the extension of the Parliamentary franchise to women.

N.B.—ALL WOMEN OVER 18 MAY SIGN.

EACH MUST SIGN FOR HERSELF.

NO ONE MAY SIGN TWICE.

I have read the Appeal from Women and desire that my name be added.
