Dear Miss Palliser

Did you not get two invitations I sent to you in my last name, one for "Miss Palliser & friend", the other blank for anyone you liked to send it to. Please bring as many people as you like.

But it is not that the Imperial Club, but at the Renaissance Hall,

Princes Hotel, Jersey St., as the Club Committee suddenly found out (alleged I told the Club Secretary ^{plainly} _{& objct.}) it was for Warren's suffrage. But the Renaissance Room is a much finer & better place for it.

Please take charge of my address. I enclose the corrected envelope. Evidently the Club has not altered my address in the book.

I quite understand about the P Tribune & will pay what is necessary to take it yearly.

I enclose a letter for you to see.

Please send it back tomorrow. I am not going to the meeting, for I have associated myself with the old ideal, & therefore cannot go. If it had been after my at home I could have gone. But People know money are, as to whether are "affairs of business" Henry & Billington's "welfare" & say "he is out;" & one cannot "run with the hare & hunt with the hounds." But they seem nice apparently.

I have put "private" on this letter, as you did not seem to get the invitation sent to you. So I presume the envelope was opened by someone else.

Believe me
Yours very truly
J. Dale.
