Sixth Annual Report.

THE Council of the Residential College for Working Women present this their sixth Annual Report not only to the Members of the incorporated College, to whom a Report and Balance Sheet must be officially presented each year, but also to the ever-widening circle of the friends and supporters of the College. Among the many encouraging signs that the work is becoming more firmly established, this large and growing family, of subscribers, donors, former students, well-wishers and helpers in all directions, stands as witness; and even in a geographical sense the area of influence and interest is being spread abroad. This Report will travel to former students in India, China, the United States, Denmark, France, and in all parts of the British Isles; and to subscribers in Japan, Manchuria, Java, South Africa, Kenya Colony, and many European countries. There are so many ways of helping the College, in addition to the obvious and always-needed way of financial support, that we may confidently ask for help, of one sort or another, from all our readers. To visit the College on its "at home" Mondays, to observe, encourage, and criticise its work, to secure for it publicity in the press, to make it known to all possible supporters and future students, and to make connections between scattered agencies and individuals with whom the College might be linked—all these are real services which we need more and more, and without which the work could not have been carried to its present stage; and there are other needs and opportunities which the Report itself will suggest.

The Annual General Meeting was held in London on February 6th, 1925, and was followed immediately by the first meeting of the newly-formed Council, a body which is elected by the General Meeting to serve for a period of three years. No attempt was made to hold a more public meeting in London, for it is felt that the garden-party at Beckenham in the summer can provide a far better opportunity for showing the actual home and work of the College. This year, on Saturday July 11th, we rejoiced in a beautifully fine afternoon and in entertaining a record number of guests from all parts of the country and from other countries. It is always encouraging when people take the trouble to come from distant places to visit the College; and here we would record our appreciation, as a Council, of the fact that all our Meetings this year have been presided over by our President, who does not allow even his professorial duties in Manchester to interfere with his work for Beckenham College.

And now, at the entry of our seventh year, we look forward to a period of change and development and, in a sense, of crisis. The College must leave its infancy behind, and go on to the next stage of growth, in a new and more spacious home and, we hope, with an increasing number of students. After more than two years of hunting in all the possible districts near London, we hope that the right house has now been found at Surbiton, conveniently close to the station and yet in a quiet position with over five acres of ground. It is hoped that the purchase of this freehold property will shortly be completed; and the College should be able to move in September, after the necessary adaptations have been made. As soon as possible after that we shall hope to welcome all our friends to a house-warming party, which will perhaps take the place of our usual summer meeting at Beckenham.

We have, happily, no changes in the Resident Staff to report. Among our Visiting Tutors, we have to congratulate Miss D. Carruthers, M.Sc. on her appointment to the Headship of the Green Secondary School, Isleworth, and to regret that this occupies her too fully to allow of her continuing her course in Biology, which has been enjoyed by successive generations of students since the foundation of the College. Miss Shacklock, B.Sc., who formerly gave us a short course in Physiology, is kindly taking her place. All the other visiting lecturers whose kind help is recorded below are still able to assist us, except Miss McKinnon, whose own work now leaves her no time to continue her valued course on Writing and Illumination.

During the past year, we have had regular courses of lectures from the following Visiting Tutors:—

BIOLOGY	..	Miss Carruthers, M.Sc., Raines Foundation School, Stepney.
ELOCUTION	..	Miss I. V. Holloway, Diploma of Central School of Speech-Training and Dramatic Art.

ENGLISH	..	Mrs. Chaffey, M.A., Lond., formerly Lecturer in English at Darlington Training College.
		Miss M. J. Powell, M.A., Lond. Med. and Mod. Languages Tripos, Cambridge (Newnham); formerly Staff Lecturer at Royal Holloway College and Examiner for the University of London.
HANDICRAFTS		Miss Dudley Short, Reading College Diploma, formerly Staff of Perse School, Cambridge.
		Mrs. John Elliott, former Student of the College.
		Miss A. V. McKinnon.
MUSIC	..	Miss Phoebe Walters, A.R.C.M., formerly Staff Lecturer in Music, Royal Holloway College.

Coaching in Net-ball has been kindly given to the students by Miss Gwyther Jones and Miss Sinclair. The following single lectures, followed by discussion and questions, have been greatly enjoyed:—

SOCRATES AND PLATO	Miss M. H. Wood.
PALESTINE AND THE BRITISH MANDATE	Mr. Maurice Myers.

WELFARE WORK UNDER LOCAL GOVERNMENT	Councillor Muggeridge.
COUNTY LIBRARIES	Miss M. J. Powell.

Our musical friends continue to be very good to us; tickets for much-enjoyed concerts have been sent us by Miss Bowyer, Miss Cropper and Miss Hanson. Our store of gramophone records has also been increased by Miss Cam, Miss Evans, and the local Adult School Union.

Our expeditions to London have included visits to the London Museum, the British Museum to see Greek Sculpture, Mediæval manuscripts and Old Testament Antiquities, the Natural History Museum, the Victoria and Albert Museum, Wembley, the Law Courts, and an L.C.C. meeting at the County Hall. For these opportunities we are indebted to Miss Glover, Miss McKinnon, Mr. Hallett, Miss Carruthers, Miss Dudley Short and Mrs. Lowe.

All the students had during the year at least one opportunity of attending a debate in the House of Commons through the kindness of the following M.P.'s:—the Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Viscount Evelyn, Sir H. Craik, Colonel James, Capt. Sidney Herbert, and Messrs. E. Alexander, John Beckett, A. Buchanan, D. M. Cowan, Robert Dennison, William Graham, Esmond Harmsworth, Francis Lowe, Will Thorne. Our practice and study of public speaking have been much enlivened by these examples and also by such local opportunities as attendance at meetings of the Beckenham Urban District Council and Education Committee. The chance of attending a debate, organised by the Women's Consultative Committee, on the alteration of the voting age was also much appreciated, through the kindness of Mrs. McIver.

We still have a great deal of most welcome help in the form of hospitality, especially during vacations and half-term weekends, for students whose homes are at a great distance, as well as for old students working far away who want to be near enough to join in our Whitsuntide Reunion. We desire to thank for this kindness Miss Birtles, Miss Bulley, Mrs. Chaffey, Mrs. Clark, Miss Cox, Miss Fidler, Mrs. Gatton, Mrs. A. H. Gray, Miss Hall, Miss Hopkins, Mrs. Knott, Dr. Lloyd Williams, Mrs. Ovenden, Miss Ramsay, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Thelwell, Bedford College and Westfield College. The Secretary of the College, also, desires to thank those who have given her hospitality upon her various journeys.

The Curriculum still follows much the same plan and the suggestions made by students going down have not led to much alteration in the past two years. The chief Curriculum. recent addition is a short course on the great Religions of the World, given in the Summer Term at the request of the classes who had already had discussion circles on the Old Testament and the Life of Christ. This appears to meet a widely felt interest and need and is likely to remain a permanent item in our list of courses. The full curriculum is set out in the Prospectus of the College, which can be supplied on application.

We hope that, as our number of students increases with the removal to larger and better equipped buildings, it will be possible to divide our classes and take separately the students who enter in September and in January, at any rate in subjects where a definite sequence is desirable through the year. At present, the short Autumn course comes at the beginning of their year for one set and at the end of their year for the other, which is not always the best plan.

Freedom to advertise our work in the neighbourhood where we live and room to accommodate more students will also enable us to throw open some of our courses to women who live near enough to become occasional students, although we do not propose to accept day students for the whole course. When once we are in our permanent quarters and no longer feel birds of passage, it will be possible for us to lay the foundations of enduring relationships with the local community of which we shall be a part and to share with it some of our resources and opportunities.

The list on page 13 shows the previous work and future plans of the eighteen students who have passed through the College during 1925. In the present state of Students. industry it is remarkable, and a matter for thanksgiving, that they should almost all be employed. It is still more worthy of remark that of the previous seventy-eight Old Students of the College only one is at present unemployed.

Now that our total number of Old Students approaches a hundred, it may be interesting to take a general survey of their doings. Of the ninety-six who have left us, forty have returned to the same or similar work, and of these a dozen have been promoted either to a position of greater responsibility or to more interesting and exacting work. Thirty-five have taken some form of further training, not in every case yet completed; nearly half of these are qualifying themselves as nurses, partly because this is almost the only training through which they can work their way without fees, and partly because it opens to them many other careers of social usefulness. Other forms of training for social work are harder to come by, but four students have succeeded in embarking on university courses for a Social Science Diploma, either by securing a rare scholarship or by combining study with other work; four also have had short periods of residence at settlements, in two cases including some university courses. Three have had training under religious organisations, for missionary, rescue, and social work respectively. Two have been trained and are working as elementary school teachers, while another is aiming at this; and two have become students at the Macmillan Nursery School. Three have taken domestic Science training with a view to institutional work amongst children, and more might usefully do this if scholarships were available. One secured six months' commercial training through the Ministry of Labour, though to have given up a job to come to a non-vocational college is frequently regarded as a disqualification for anything of this kind. Nineteen students only have secured a satisfactory change of work without further training, in many cases turning to some form of domestic work which has become interesting and dignified in the light of wider mental interests and greater power of organising life.

Apart from the question of work, many other interesting points emerge from our survey. Six students have married since leaving, two of them immediately on their departure; we gather that they have found the year of College life no less valuable than the others, and we are glad to know that at least half-a-dozen more have the same prospect before them. The one student who was married when she came to College expressed the hope that her future daughter-in-law might have the same opportunity, which we thought a valuable testimonial.

It is difficult to give exact details about the continuance of study on the part of Old Students; a great many continue to attend classes, and practically all keep up the habit of steady reading and discussion. A large number undertake voluntary work in Clubs or Guide Companies, Sunday Schools or Adult Schools, Trade Unions or Political Organisations, Care Committees or Settlements. Some of our most valuable recruiting is done by Old Students, and we often hear of amusing though exasperating instances of their difficulty in making clear, to people of all classes, the idea of education which brought them to the College and which, in fact, created the College for them. This "education about education" is indeed one of the most needed things in England to-day.

Our international contacts are steadily increasing; we have had three Americans and two Danes, and this year a German student is at the College. One of our Old Students is a Missionary in China; another is married to a teacher in India; a third is nurse in a French family. Three have spent weeks or months at the International People's College, Elsinore; and a good many have spent holidays abroad.

This survey of the past suggests lines of development for the future. It is clear that the College year can serve the needs of women who want a wider background for their previous work and a greater sphere of usefulness either within it or alongside of it. If trade were better we could count on a steady stream of such students, and they would have less to fear in risking a year away from their job. As things are, many a girl who meant to return to her former work finds at the end of the year that it is non-existent. On the other hand, the College Course provides a preparation essential before a woman who has had only an elementary school education can profitably take a professional training. Students in their twenties who desire such qualifications probably risk less by coming to College than by clinging to a job that they cannot satisfactorily make a life work.

As in the future we gradually increase the number of our students, we shall need the help of all our friends in recruiting. Advertisement and the circulation of printed papers is much less effective than the spoken word or personal contact, and by far the best way of making known the College is to invite the Secretary or the Principal to come and talk about it. Intending candidates should be given the Prospectus, and told that every word in it has been carefully weighed and means what it says. The statement that fees can be found when necessary for a suitable student, for instance, can be absolutely relied upon; but obviously the candidate must first make her application before any steps can be taken to this end.

We hope in the near future to develop our relationships with the various sources whence students may be drawn, such as the Educational Settlements, Clubs, W.E.A. Branches, Churches and Missionary Societies, Welfare Departments, Works Councils, and Trade Unions. With the Educational Settlements Association and the National Organisation of Girls' Clubs we have the definite link afforded by the provision of bursaries tenable at the College; certain Local Education Authorities, also, offer grants for students, and a good many students have been sent to the College by employers and by Works Councils, their expenses being paid. In addition to all these sources, there is the great mass of unorganised women, with reserves of capacity and devotion and the desire to find out how to live and learn. In this generation the wage-earning woman, like her more leisured sister fifty years ago, must discover how to make a career out of a woman's life, whether married or unmarried. Beckenham can help her to do this, as the Old Students continually tell us, just as the great University Colleges have done for those more privileged. It is the recognition of this common function that has led so many women, inspired and equipped by the earlier movement for higher education, to promote this later and humbler effort.

It is unnecessary to comment in very great detail upon our financial position, for the facts about both the College Funds—the Working Women's College Fund and the Working Women's Finance. College Extension Fund—are set forth in the Auditor's Statements on pages 14, 15. The latter Fund, which was created in October, 1923, and has been steadily accumulating ever since, is of course reserved entirely for the proposed extension of the work. The main part of it will be spent on the purchase of freehold property and on the equipment of the new College ; and if there should be any balance in hand, this will be invested to form the nucleus of an endowment of the future work. We have, in addition to the sum actually in hand, certain promises from friends who have wished to postpone their gifts, and we should be grateful if these promises could be fulfilled some time during the year 1926. The Fund is still open, and is aiming at a total sum of £15,000 ; and we would draw attention to the fact (which is a special satisfaction to us), that the donations range from over £10,000 to half-a-crown, so that there need be no modest hanging back on the part of those whose contributions must approximate more nearly to the latter sum than to the former. In short, we hope that all the family will take a hand, sooner or later and to whatever extent is possible, in the building of the new College.

The other Fund, to be quite frank and truthful, is a matter of far greater anxiety. For increase in the size and efficiency of the College means an increase of the budget ; and at present we are only just managing to raise, by donations, annual subscriptions, grants from certain local Education Authorities, and the fees of students (the last being naturally a very uncertain factor), our comparatively modest annual budget of £2,300. Not that any complaint is to be made about this, so far. On the contrary, it is almost miraculous that throughout these six difficult years the College has been enabled to pay its way, and has never been, even temporarily, in debt. Those who have financed the work, often at the cost of real sacrifice to themselves, know, we hope, what our feelings are towards them, and may be assured, also, that the money has purchased goods of a truly fruitful and enduring kind. But we ask them now, quite definitely and seriously, to help us to double our subscription-list during this year. If this can be done, and especially if we can increase the number of annual subscribers of one guinea and upwards, we need have no pressing anxieties about the maintenance of the high quality of the work. This request is not really an extravagant one, either, for already there are some of our friends who have always meant to subscribe but have not actually done so ; and there are others who have mislaid the gentle reminder that has been sent to them ; and there are yet others who are so far only potential friends, having never heard of the College at all. This Report will find its way into the hands of many people who belong to one or other of these three classes ; and if we may count on the missionary effort of all our present subscribers the difficulty will be speedily overcome.

Donations and subscriptions should be sent to the Secretary, Miss Walters, 14, Doughty Street, W.C.1, and cheques and postal orders should be made payable to the Working Women's College Fund or to the Working Women's College Extension Fund according to the wish of the giver. In passing it may be observed that much time and trouble can be saved if those who send gifts to both Funds at once will kindly make out two separate cheques. Some subscribers prefer to send permanent orders to their Bankers, and this, of course, is equally convenient to the College, though Bankers' orders are not being supplied at present, while the list of subscribers is still comparatively small.

Gifts to the College.

- BOOKS .. Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Valpy, Misses Ebbutt, Nolan, Powell, Street, and a legacy from the late Miss Christie.
- PICTURES AND POST CARDS. .. Miss Nora Hill, Miss Christie, Miss Z. Johnson, Miss M. C. Anderson, Miss Carruthers, Miss Fennell.
- HOUSEHOLD .. Miss Christie, Miss Neville, Miss Stevenson, Mr. Powell.
- PERIODICALS .. Miss Eardley-Wilmot, Mr. Maude, Miss Powell, Miss Scott-Moncrieff, Mrs. Stocks, Mrs. Street, Miss Walters, Mrs. Girdler, The Fellowship of Reconciliation, The Educational Settlements Association, The League of the Church Militant, The Federation of Girls' Clubs, The Canning Town Settlement, The Resident Staff.
- GARDEN .. Mr. Strike, Mr. Clarke, Miss Powell, Mrs. Bartlett.

In addition to the above we have received from Miss M. M. Anderson two most welcome gifts which will greatly increase the efficiency of the College. One of these is a small motor car to facilitate business-travelling, with a sum of money sufficient for its upkeep for the present year ; and the other is, or will be (for it is not actually bought yet), a grand piano for the common room of the new College.

The new house will need many things and have room for much that we cannot accept here. Large couches, chairs and pictures, more equipment for tennis and possibly also for badminton, will all be acceptable. We shall have rooms enough to make a wireless set a possibility, and we shall be able still further to enlarge our library. The latter is now well proportioned, but increased numbers will mean a greater demand on it. We have, therefore, drawn up a list of books likely to be available in many private collections, and this can be sent on application.

FEES. £80 per annum, payable in three instalments, each term in advance, inclusive of board, residence, tuition, books, educational visits, laundry and medical attendance. (The total cost to the College is considerably more than this, but the balance is paid by the General Fund.)

BURSARIES. Any sum of not less than £40 a year constitutes a Bursary, to which a name may be attached by the donors. The Secretary is prepared to advise as to sources whence the balance of the fees may be secured.

ADMISSION OF STUDENTS. Forms of Application and all particulars may be obtained from the Principal of the College. It is desirable that candidates should themselves enquire, and in good time; if Bursaries are needed application should be completed by the end of March or the end of September, for admission in September and January respectively.

DATES OF TERMS, 1926. Jan. 8th to April 1st; April 30th to July 23rd; Sept. 24th to Dec. 17th.
