

VOL. IX No. 51 SATURDAY. MARCH 3, 1923

WEEKLY

THREE SONNETS. From the German of E. Toller.

Ernest Toller was one of the leaders of the Munich Soviets. His highly-praised Masc-heinsturmen will be produced by the Incor-porated Stage Society in London.

PRISON NIGHTS.

The nights are full of silent tears, there seems An infant's timid tapping at thy wall, List in suspense! Would someone press thy hand Ah no; thy hand encounters but the stones

Groans and rebellion seething in the night. And wild desire that for the woman burns, Whilst thou, all trembling from enfeebled mocking phantoms findest thy dreams disturbed.

air of night teemeth with songs unsung ike velvet butterflies that faint and fade In dusky dews kissing mysterious things.

melodies thou'lt never hear again thou wouldst seize them now they disappear,

Where is no road to follow, no return.

A PRISONER GIVES HIS HAND TO DEATH.

t first the cry of the unfortunate hen curses ringing through the noisy halls,

The call of syrens sounding the alarm, And in the cells the death-watch low tic tac.

Why hast thou given thy hand to Death, O friend?

Nas it the moaning of the beaten ones.

the sob of hunger, or the years that eat Dur bodies slowly, as the foul rats gnaw

The stiffening corpses? Was it then the steps That tramp above our heads with ceaseless noise

Or yet the silent mockery of these walls

All sorrow-draped, O nightmares, that oppress?

This only do we know Ve cannot tell. hat men hurt other men, and that no bridge urely unites us, you and I; apart As lonely streams; we lose us in the night Of this drear edifice; and we do freeze, eeze in the numbness of a mortal cold.

FORESTS.

orests appearing on horizons far that with the breath of evening wake to life low my desire doth enter into thee Moments my captive sadness can surmount!

bruise my face upon the iron bars nd wound my hands to cure their fevered state poorer than an outcast dog; I am le anguished death-cry of the hunted beast rests of oak; temples of the oppressed, pines that are my country's harps, ye weave, ealers of sorrow, round your joyous child

The wondrous presence of my far-off land. When shall I folded in your murmurs deep List to the lofty hymning of your soul?

Has the Race Lived in Vain?

The disintegration of society rapidly ad-nces to chaos. The amalgamations of steel vances to chaos. The amalgamations of steel, railways, oil, shipping and finance undermine the world that grew out of the economic Reformation. Commercial magnates glory in a depression which ruins their rivals. The small man is being thrown off the ever-steepening pyramid. A score of men dictate the destinies of the world. Democracy is the god held up to the worker, behind which the Mammon autocracy pulls the strings of the political puppets. vances to chaos. political puppets.

What say the pundits of the Labour world? Answer: The growth of the Trust causes the Answer: The growth of the Trust causes the reorganisation of labour to meet the new situation They suggest "One Big Union." Good; but what is to be its policy or goal—for it is evident that unless there is an end in view the means is a will o' the wisp. Has the race lived in vain? Are there no lessons the back of the set of the There is much writing, much inting of recrimination. "Now in history? talk, much printing of recrimination. "No Roman is to Roman more hated than a foe. Roman is to Roman more nated than a loc. The discussion of internationalism and organisation goes on through the Capitalist League of Nations and Proletarian Interna-tionals of various shades all seemingly hating each other for the love of unity. Brotherly each other for the love of unity. Brotherly love and unity are forgotten. Each has his nostrum discharged with vitriolic vituperation from his rostrum

The Press groans with ceaseless production of literature, and the virgin torests of the world are depleted to provide pulp for its pro-duction. To what end? The putrifaction of an exhausted civilisation torn to rags by competitive antagonism "A house divided against itself can't stand." Can it?

The Modern World Bows Its Head in Shame. Is there no light in History? Let us see. We hear of, and see, pictures of great build-ings, statues, and read of poetry which have come down from the ancient world and are acclaimed as the standards. The modern acclaimed as the standards. The modern world bows its head in shame, unable to approach their correctness, grandure, beauty. The pyramids of Egypt, the Temples of Solo-The pyramids of Egypt, the Temples of Solo. mon, the Parthenon, the Acropolis, the Temples of India, the amphitheatres, the bridges, roads and aqueducts of Rome, the Vatican, the Temple of Diana, the cathe-drals of our own and other lands. Who de-signed, cut and built these? Answer: Workers. The worker was looked upon with loathing, scorn, hatred. And in literature: who made the Homeric poems? Answer: A who made the Homeric poems? Answer: A Union of Artists extending over thousands of years. Who was the root of Plato's and Aris-title's philosophies? (Aristotle foresaw that the shuttle might be worked without slaves, and said there were people too poor to be good.) Answer: A workman—Socrates, a stone mason and member of a Trade Union, a thiasos. He wrote no book. Who is the root of what is known as Christian literature? a thiasos. He wrote no book. Who is the root of what is known as Christian literature? One Jesus of Nazareth, a carpenter, a dyer, a magician, a healer, a teacher, the proclaimer of humane and social philosophy. Can any good come out of Nazareth? The equivalent to-day is: Can any good come out of a Trade Union? Baptism was a Trade Union initia-tion ceremony. Cleanliness was insisted on, and superseded circumcision. Nothing was originated by the magnates except corruption and tyranny

NEXT WEEK: AN ARTICLE ON FASCISMO BY PIETRO GUALDUCCI.

There are two kinds of Christianity: 1) That of the working class, the social (1) Flat of the working class, the social religion of good works, kindness, mutual help, and love. It existed thousands of years be-fore Jesus, the carpenter. It is pre-Christian. Christianity spread rapidly because it was a working-class thing and was engrafted into working-class thing and was engrafted into the pre-historic Trade Unions and at once blazed across the world. The other class of Christianity is (2) theological Christianity, paganised Christianity, the Christianity of the master class, of Mammon, of Capitalism, a bastard thing. Whenever you see a clergy-man got up as a soldier, he belongs to the theological Christianity, the Church militant, and is the boasting hireling of the master class his business boing to printing the class, his business being to maintain the con-fusion of the two. But between the two tusion of the two. But between the two there is an unbridgeable gulf. Love becomes here "Charity," the curse of our life. When you hear such a one saying: "He will not work, neither shall he eat," it is blasphemy. This was a rule of working-class community of goods and referred to a time when the Unions were co-operative and Communist. The brethren were co-operative and communise. The brethren were provided with work by the Union, and they had to contribute fairly to the funds of the Union. The demand for work to-day is a desire to share the burden work to day is a desire to share the burden with the brethren. The sign of the Cross became the standard of the worker because it was the instrument of their execution Jesus died on the cross because he was a workman and preached working-class econo-mics. Paul died by beheading because he was a Roman citizen and could not be a work. man. He joined a Union in order to s the Gospel of working-class brotherhood. spread The red flag was, and is, a working-class brothernood. The from time beyond history. Its use by the master class to-day is a gross prostitution. When a body takes on a military form it is a capitalistic attempt to side-track the worker.

Civilisation Founded on Slavery.

The ancient civilisations were founded on slavery of the worker, and there were many attempts by the slaves to throw off the yoke by strikes, uprisings, wars. They are men-tioned in the works of aristocratic writers as servile wars. The books dealing with them servile wars. The books dealing with them in detail were suppressed or destroyed (Livy and Diodorus, for instance); but we have been able to trace the following: (1) Drima-kos of Chios, who defied the State for thirty years; (2) Viriathus of Spain; (3) Eunus of Sieilly, who defied the Rome power for ten years with an army of 200,000 slaves; (4) Aristonicus, who opposed the will of Attalus III. of Pergamus, making over his kingdom Aristonicus, who opposed the will of Attalus III. of Pergamus, making over his kingdom to the Romans; (5) Nabis in Greece, who exterminated the Ephori of the Lycungian law—a Communist founded on slavery; and lastly (6) Spartacus, a gladiator, who escaped from Capua, assembled an army defeating the Pornece in the full state of the latter of the latter of the latter of the latter of the state of the state of the state of the latter of the state of Romans in many battles, but finally defeated about a hundred vears before Christ—his about a hundred vears before Christ-his army of about 300,000 being overwhelmed by the concentration of the armies of veterans under Casisus from Italy, Lucullus from Spain, and Pompey from Asia Minor, amount-ing to about 400,000 at the battle of Salarus in the South of Italy. The carnage was ter-rible, and after the battle 6,000 slaves were crucified along the roads leading to Rome. Then there was universal despair, but the idea Then there was universal despair, but the idea of a deliverer (Messiah) grew among the lowly. He came not as a military conquerer, but in the shape of a lowly workman, a car-He proclaimed to the world the onter brotherhood (a word much prostituted by the priesthood) of man, and directed that this gospel be preached throughout the world. He said "resist not evil," "the meek shall a herit the earth, "the labourer is worthy his meat." It was an appalling doc rine to the dominant who thought they could govern, and he had his reward on the Cross. It explains why he was crucified while Barabbus as set free. Barabbus was a physical force rebel who could be had at any time, but it was difficult to trap a man like Christ, who by dialectic and parable understood only by the brethren, could refuse to pay tribute to the brethren, could refuse to pay throute to Caesar, and nonpluss the tax-collecting bureaucracy. He disappeared, and there is reason to believe that by the connivance of Pontius Pilate he was removed from the cross before death, and took refuge among the words. Unique concerned, underground (in conte Trade Unions spread underground (in catacombs) across the Roman world, carrying on his working-class economic mission till about the age of 50. Rome, given up to all sorts of loathsome indulgences, crushed the Trade Unions of the workers, destroying its own pedestal, and so fell. The position is that employer and capi talist cannot provide work to absorb the unemployed workers and capital. They have ceased to function, and, like the appendix, have become increasingly rudimentary Having ceased to function, it has lost power Congestion has set up inflammation, of which a most virulent attack broke out in 1914, and still rages. Operations have oeen performed on every part of the body politic except on the rudiment. What is to be done? There are two ways: (1) Either the rudiment must insent to effacement and gradual absorption; or (2) there must be a surgical operation. The first would be the course of nature in an ordered development of society where freedom broadens slowly down from precedent to precedent, and the adjustments would be easy. The second would be an act of violence occasioning a social shock which would cause difficulty in the social adjustments and entail much suffering to the rudiment. Which is it to be? What do the '' doctors '' say Con-ferences, committees of equiry and scientific investigations on social things get no progress. The patient is suffering from capitalistic com-plications and can't live longer. The patient The patient is the system. dies. workers will carry on absorbing capital and spreading brotherhood.

THE WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT.

JOHN CROLL.

THE TENTH YEAR.

With a certain amount of truth the philo-sopher has remarked: What is there in an anniversary to distinguish it from another day? All days are equal, it is true, with an almost even measure of sorrow and struggle, at least, for those who swim against the current.

Yet an anniversary may signify an increas-ing of efforts, moved by power of the re membrance of past battles.

For that reason—to do propaganda with a renewed enthusiasm—the idea of celebrating Workers' Dreadnought '' entering in its tenth year is catching on. The organisation of a Social in London is proceeding apace, and particulars will be out

We want to impress upon comrades that We want to impress upon contracts that is necessary to get to work at once, and also that to meet sundry pressing claims donations are urgently needed. Actually we are besieged by these claims. We ask you are lulled to sleep with the same dope J. O'H. long with finances to raise the siege.

STRIKING FACTS AND FIGURES. Some of the slaves are losing faith in the pure and simple Trade Unions. One of the latest examples of this is the call made for

TRADE UNION FINANCE.

commission to inquire into the balance sheet of the Liverpool Carters' and Motor-men's Union, where there is a question regarding an item, " sundry property, £109, a the assets side

Several items in the balance sheet are highly interesting, and show to what a great degree the power of the Union " resides in finance," as the Labour leaders tell us, and is vested in the hands of the chief officials. Moreover, it should be observed that the Trade Union funds are frequently held by the employers of the Union members. That is indeed a curious circumstance. Here are some items from the 1920 balance sheet, showing in whose keeping the Trade Union funds are invested: Mersey Harbour and Dock Board,

£3 646 5s Liverpool Corporation, £2,000, £2,500,

£3.000 Birkenhead Corporation, £2,000.

Wallasey Corporation, £2,000. Bradford Corporation, £2,000. Treasury Bonds, 1935, 5³/₄ per cent., £500;

-15, £2,000.

5-15, £2,000. National War Bonds, 1922, 3 per cent., £3,000; 1924, £2,500; 1927, 5 per cent. £3.000.

National War Stock, 1929-47, 5 per cent., £3,347 6s. 6d

Exchequer Bonds, 1925, 53 per cent. £5.000.

C.W.S. Development Bonds, £5,000. Cash in bank and in hand, £11,112 1s. 5d. Premises, £1,000.

Cash advanced to Approved Society, £511 17s. 5d.

Telephone deposit, £1.

Sundry property, £109.

Total £56,227 14s. 10d.

Little change is made in 1921 assets.

The 1922 report is of great interest, espe-cially to the out-of-work members. Here are a few of the details of expenditure upon the Union premises at 400 Scotland Road, Liverpool

Sixteen chairs at £4 16s. each, £76 16s. 214 yards of linoleum at 8/6 per yard, £90 19s.

Carpet, £40 16s. 6d.

Seamless carpet for secretary's office, 10 ft. 6 in. by 10 ft. 6 in., £18 18s.

Photographs of Executive Committee and Staff, £15 12s. 4d.

Total expenditure on new premises, £3,366 9s

It is fortunate that it is not by cash that the workers' struggles are really fought. If it were so, it would be a pity to have so much capital locked up in the stock of the Mersey Dock and Harbour Board, which is an ally of one of the biggest employers of carters in Liverpool. If cash were needed by the workers in their struggle, to invest the Union funds with the Mersey Dock and Harbour Board would be like lending the British Fleet to France or Germany. Evidently the Union fficials have not quite realised yet that Capital and Labour are brothers who sometimes fall out. We do not forget, however, that members of the Liverpool Carters' and Motormen's Union were allowed to bring raw material and finished stuff from the rope-works when the workers organised in the N.U.D.A.W. were on strike for eighteen months at a stretch.

On to One Union of All Industrial Workers. Meanwhile we are waiting to hear from the with delegates on the job, not in £3,600 offices, with their feet on £18 8s. seamless carpets and a salaries account of £5,000 per year for officials of a Union with only 12,000

A RANK AND FILE PROTEST. A meeting of the National General a ransport Workers' Union was held at Transport Jubilee Hall, Liverpool, to organise scalers of Liverpool into the ranks of Transport and General Workers' Union. Banks, the chairman, stated that he won welcome all opposition in the hall fused to answer several questions from rank and file. When asked: "Did not the officials of the Transport and Gener Workers' Union supply blacklegs during tug-boatmen's strike in Liverpool? plied that he could not answer. Wh asked: "Was not Mr. Milligan responsil for the seats found by Mr. Pitman, secret of the Loyal Unemployed Distress Comr tee? " he ruled the question out of or He also refused to answer the question: the Trade Unions intend to co-operate National Unemployed Workers' Com the tee Movement to try to relieve the dist prevailing among the unemployed at present

Eventually Mr. Milligan, the chairma slunk off the platform amid chaotic prote leaving Mr. Dunford to address what mained of the meeting-one comrade who ained in the gallery complaining of salaries paid to pot-bellied officials. JACK CULLEN

FABIANISM.

The following description of the Fabians the Labour Party is given by Lieut.-Josiah Wedgwood and Mrs. Ethel Wedgw in their book: "Roads to Freedom." in their book: "Roads to Freedom." remarkable thing is that Col. Wedgwood since become a Labour M.P.

'In England the Fabians, the official Lab Party and the Progressives throw th energies and talents into such proposals a limitation of the hours of active sla to eight; a provision of creches with bottles and educational of mothers obliged (u

system) to go out to w tering who is engaged in wage work and is not (with a view to compelling the who is not in service to enter it at or insurance schemes for putting part of part of a workman's wages which he rec nto the bank for him, so that he m to authorised sanatoria when he is ill, a attended by licensed doctors; bills for r nen and women decent by flogging nd for locking up other people's childr humanitarian principles.

'So do we see a conscientious house-m of the good old type take charge of her y maids' minds and morals, regulate he affairs so as to train them for good shepherd them to and from the church in black frocks and bonnets; them with patent drugs when ill; them with suitable evening recreation that they may not be tempted to flirt a back door; and treat every breakage of or decorum as a breach of the decalor

"Such a programme is, of course, att political schoolmasters who climbed into intellectual pre-eminence shoulders of those who 'swink with hands.' It is only by inventing thi that sort that they can justify to then for the their privileged position. fortunately for the professional she they only ask to be more humanely and more comfortably folded by she of their own selection. They do believe in a world where sheep are n shorn nor penned.'

If we are ever to get the Govern into a tight place in Parliament-and to be hoped we shall-both the ex-Pre will have to be in the Lobby with Arthur Ponsonby, Labour (late Lib M.P., in the "New Leader."

That gives a fairly clear indication of the Labour Party may be expected to do. March 3, 1923.

SEVEN THAT WERE HANGED. By Leonid Andreyey. (A Famous Russian Author.)

(Continued.)

TT

SENTENCED TO BE HANGED.

The predictions of the police were realised. terrorists, three men and one woman, rrying bombs, revolvers, and infernal achines, were taken in front of the steps of residence; a fifth accomplice was arrest her dwelling, where the implements had en manufactured and the conspiracy A large quantity of dynamite and re very young; the eldest of the men was enty-eight, the younger of the women nine-en. They were tried in the fortress where had been imprisoned after their arrest; were tried quickly and secretly, as was ustom at that merciless epoch.

Before the court all five were calm, but ous and thoughtful; their contempt for the iges so great that they did not care to em ise their fearlessness by a useless smile a pretence of gaiety. They were just tran-l enough to protect their souls and the deep om of their agony from the malevolent gaze strangers. Some questions they refused to swer, some they answered simply, briefly, cisely, as if they were speaking, not to lges but to statisticians desirous of coming tables of figures. Three of them, one nan and two men, gave their real names; refused to disclose their identity, which ained unknown to the court. Tr g that happened they manifested that disand attenuated curiosity peculiar to seriously ill or possessed by a single owerful idea. They cast swift glances, ed upon an interesting word in its flight, went back to their thoughts, resuming the exact point where they had pped them.

The accused placed nearest the judges had en his name as Sergey Golovin, a former cer, son of a retired colonel. He was very mg, with broad shoulders, and so robust t neither the prison or the expectation of in death had been able to dim the colour is cheeks or the expression of happy innoe in his blue eyes. Throughout the trial wisted his thick blond beard, to which he not yet become accustomed, and gazed dily at the window, knitting his brows.

was the latter part of winter, that period which, among snowstorms and gray, cold the approaching spring projects someas a forerunner, a warm and luminous or even a single hour, so passionately g and sparkling that the sparrows in the become mad with joy and men seem leated. Now, through the upper win-still covered with the dust of the presummer, a very cold and beautiful sky to be seen; at the first glance it seemed k and milky gray; then, upon a second ination, it appeared to be covered wita stains, of an ever-deepening blue, a blue and infinite. And because it did not itself suddenly, but modestly draped in the transparent veil of clouds, it me charming, like one's fiancee. Sergey vin looked at the sky, pulled at his mous Sergey winked now one and now the other eyes behind the long, heavy eye-lashes, reflected profoundly on nobody knows Once, even, his fingers moved rapidly. knows an expression of naive joy appeared upon ace; but he looked around him, and his extinguished like a live coal upon which Almost instantaneously, almost steps it transition, the redness of his cheeks place to a corpse-like pallor; a fine hair his bloodless finger-ends. f life and of the spring was still stronger. w minutes later the young face resumed ive expression and sought again the sky

It's nothing.'

he was only twenty-three. Once or twice Werner touched him gently on the knee, and each time he answered briefly : have been, having neither gold nor silver-such at that time was their condition; and the community which has neither poverty nor riches will always have the noblest principles; in it there is no insult or injustice; nor again there contentions or envyings. And there to the to be the second It's nothing, Vasya. It will soon be over!' Consumed by anxiety, Tanya Kovalchuk, more ignorant of the arts generally, although inferior to the men of our day in these respects, be simpler and more manly, and of Sergey Golovin; and yet she seemed to be the mother of all the accused, so full of tender also more temperate and altogether more just? They could hardly have wanted lawyers, for they had no laws at this early anxiety and infinite love were her looks, her

His hardest moment was when he suddenly felt an irresistible desire to utter inarticulate cries, like a hunted beast. Then he gave Werner a slight push; without raising his eyes, the latter answered in a low voice: pulled out was pressed as in a vice the fifth terrorist, sheltered her comrades with But the a maternal look. She was still very young; I stronger. her cheeks seemed as highly coloured as those Toward the sky also looked an unknown smile, her fear. The progress of the trial did period; they lived by habit and the customs ag girl, surnamed Musya. She was not interest her. She listened to her com-anguish was too intense; she contented herwith cracking her plump fingers. Musya and Werner she gazed with proud and respectful admiration, her face then wearing a grave and serious expression. As for Sergey Golovin, she continually tried to attract his attention by her smile The dear comrade, he is looking at the sky. Look, look! " thought she, as she ob-served the direction of his eyes. " And Vasya? My God! My God! . . sky. If I speak to him, perhaps it will make matters worse; suppose he should begin to weep? ' younger than Golovin, but seemed his elder rades simply to see if their voices trembled, pecause of the severity, the gravity, of her proud and loyal eyes. The delicate neck and But she could not look at Vasya; his slender arms alone revealed the intangible something which is youth itself, and which sounded so distinctly in the pure harmonious voice that resembled a costly instrument in perfect tune. Musya was very pale, of that passionate pallor peculiar to those who burn with an inner, radiant, and powerful fire. She scarcely stirred; from time to time only, with a gesture that was hardly visible, she felt for a deep trace in the third finger of her right hand—the trace of a ring recently removed. She looked at the sky with calm-What can be done to comfort him? ness and indifference; she looked at it simply because everything in this commonplace and dirty hall was hostile to her and seemed to scrutinise her face. This bit of blue sky was dering cloud, her amiable and clear countenthe only pure and true thing upon which she ance showed all the feelings and all the thoughts, however fleeting, of her four comcould look with confidence The judges pitied Sergey Golovin and rades. She forgot that she was on trial, too hated Musya. and would be hanged; her indifference to this was absolute. It was in her dwelling that the bombs and dynamite had been found; strange them in the head.

Musya's neighbour, motionless also, with hands folded between his knees and somewhat of affectation in his pose, was an unknown surnamed Werner. If one can bolt a face as with pistol shots, and had wounded one of one bolts a heavy door, the unknown had bolted his as if it were a door of iron. The trial ended toward eight o'clock, just He gazed steadily at the floor, and it was im-possible to tell whether he was calm or deeply as the day was drawing to its close. Little by little, in the eyes of Sergey and Musya, the blue sky disappeared; without reddening, loved, whether he was thinking of something or listening to the testimony of the policemen. He was rather short of stature; his features were fine and noble. He gave the impression without smiling, it grew dim gently as on a summer evening, becoming grayish, and sud-denly cold and wintry. Golovin heaved a sigh, stretched himself, and raised his eyes f an immense and calm force, or a cold and toward the window, where the chilly darkness of the night was already making itself mani-fest; still pulling his beard, he began to exaudacious valour. The very politeness with which he uttered his clear and curt replies seemed dangerous on his lips. On the backs of the other prisoners the customary cloak amine the judges, the soldiers, and their seemed a ridiculous costume; on him it was not even noticeable, so foreign was the garweapons, exchanging a smile with Tanya Kovalchuk. As for Musya, when the sun had ment to the man. Although Werner had been armed only with a poor revolver, while set completely, she did not lower her gaze to the ground, but directed it toward a corner e others carried bombs and infernal achines, the judges looked upon him as the where a spider's web was swaying gently in the invisible current of warm air from the the . eader, and treated him with a certain respect stove; and thus she remained until the senvith the same brevity which he employed tence had been pronounced. After the verdict, the condemned said their toward them In his neighbour, Vasily Kashirin, a frightfarewells to their lawyers, avoiding their disful moral struggle was going on between the intolerable terror of death and the desperate concerted, pitying, and confused looks; then oor, and exchanged short phrases. the judges. Ever since the prisoners had 'It's nothing, Vasya! All will soon be over! said Werner. But there is nothing the matter with me, brother," answered Kashirin, in a strong, quiet, and almost joyous voice. In fact, his been stifling under the hurried beating of his on his brow; his hands were moist and cold face had taken on a slight colour, no longer resembling that of a corpse. "The devil take them! They have hanged us all just the same! " swore Golovin naively " It was to have been expected," answered Werner, without agitation. To-morrow the final judgment will be rendered, and they will put us all in the same said Tanya, to console her comrades. We shall remain together until the execu-Silently, and with a resolute air, Musva started off (To be continued PLATO ON COMMUNISM. "Hence in those days mankind were not very poor, nor was poverty the cause of difference among them; and rich they could not desire to subdue this fear and conceal i been taken to court in the morning, he heart. Drops of sweat appeared continually his damp and icy shirt, sticking to his body, hindered his movements. By a superi effort of the will he kept his fingers from trembling, and maintained the firmness and moderation of his voice and the tranquility of his gaze. He saw nothing around him; the sound of the voice that he heard seemed to reach him through a fog, and it was in a fog also that he stiffened himself in a desperate effort to answer firmly and aloud. But, as soon as he had spoken, he forgot the questions, as well as his own phrases; the silent and terrible struggle began again. And upon his person death was so in evidence that the judges turned their eyes away from him. It was as difficult to determine his age as that of a rotting corpse. According to his papers

March 3, 1923.

they grouped themselves for a moment near

THE WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT.

Markers' Dreadnought Founded 1914.

Editor: SYLVIA PANKHURST. + + + All Matter for Publication— To THE EDITOR: Business Communications — To THE MANAGER:

WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT, 152. FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.4.

SUBSCRIPTIONS.

	. Post	,,	1/7 1 3/3 6/6
Vol. IX. No. 51. Saturday,	March	3rd,	1923.

Our Diew.

THE LEGAL RULE which deems that a wife who commits an offence The Law of in the presence of her husband does so under his coercion to be abolished. The Lord of Wives. Chancellor has introduced Bill altering the .aw in this respect, and the Bill will almost certainly reach the Statute Book. It is argued that since the legal disabilities which made the wife the chattel of her husband have been repealed, and since the Parliamentary franchise and the right to sit in Parliament have been extended to women, the law which permits a woman escape responsibility for her acts on the ground of the husband's coercion is an unground ustifiable anomaly. Nevertheless, the economic dependence of the married woman upo her husband still remains in the vast majority of cases, and where there is economic depen dence, the subtlest and strongest form coercion is always a possibility to be reckoned with. The economic dependence of the mother upon her children's father will never come to an end until the private property system is abolished. The Suffragettes have not emancipated women: only Communism can do that.

ON SUNDAY, February 25th, the British Section of the Fascisti held The Fascisti. ball at the Hotel Cecil in London: it is not in the poor places, which young proletarian organisa-tions are only able to afford, that this budding terrorist organisation holds its functions. The affair was advertised as a Black Shirts'

In Italy the Fascisti are finding the glas. of castor oil too mild a torture to satisfy their orutal instincts. They now extract the teeth f those who do not obey the command they nake in their house to house visitations to 'Long live Italy!'' shout:

The International Women's Suffrage Alliance has disgraced itself by asking the brigand Mussolini to receive a deputation of its mem-bers when it holds its annual Congress in Rome on May 12th to 19th. Mussolini has agreed

The Roman Catholic Church has disgraced itself in the same manner. Cardinal Vannutelli, at the Finzil wedding, which Mussolini attended, pronounced what was practically ulogy of the Vatican and hailed the black-shirt brigand as "marked out to serve his nation." All intelligent persons serve his nation.' ust recognise the sinister part the Roman burch is playing. On Sunday last Franz Birnecker, a Vienna workman, murdered by Viennese nationalist reactionaries, was buried. In token of sorrow for the dead, the workers of Vienna stopped for two minutes in their work on America. tramcars, telephone services, electric power and so on THE NEW TRIAL of Sacco and Vanzetti for a murder of which they are obviously guiltless, but for Sacco and which they lie under sentence Vanzetti.

of death, is again delayed. Meanwhile, Sacco has courageously entered on a hunger strike for release. Innumerable ve been held, and petitions organised, and there has been talk of striking for them. The Capitalist newspapers publish for the release of class-war prisoners. Those They who mean to strike should do it now. should regard Sacco's challenge as addressed to them, as well as to the authorities. A strike would undoubtedly cause Sacco's release: will it come?

THAT 550 MOTHERS have offered their children to a wealthy Cana-Mothers Who Give Their dian woman who wishes to adopt a blue-eyed boy of four is but another evidence of the Children.

appalling poverty which reigns under this unhappy system. Had a child of another age, or with eyes of another colour, been demanded, as many more children would Each offer is the have been forthcoming. signal of a woman's despair. THE FAMILIES evicted from 40 South

Grove, Peckham, last month, are still homeless. Mr. Nunn's The House children are still in hospital. that was They have been allowed to stay longer than was con-sidered needful, because there was no home to receive them. The fathers are sleeping at or in common lodging-houses. mothers and children are sleeping on the floor of first one house, then another, with those who are willing to take them in. Nunn and Nay are still tramping about with placards advertising their homeless state.

. A COMMITTEE of Conservative Members of Parliament has been formed

Sedition in to work against the teaching of Communism to children. The Committee asks the Gov ernment either to introduce a Bill to make such teaching to children under 16 illegal, or to give facilities for the passage of a pri-vate Members' Bin to that effect. Comrades should be up and doing on this question.

FRANCE RETALIATES by an act of fla-grant highway robbery: steals France turns thirteen million marks of Thief. German money, and even the plates for printing more money. Apparently France intends to print German money for the use of her army of occupation, instead of buying it with her down the value of the mark by printing vast quantities of paper money to flood Germany with it against France in the days of the French kevolution, flooding France with false French currency. America, and probably the other Allies also, did the same by Soviet Russia in the days of the Allied military intervention to destroy Communism. Mean-while there is daily news of French excesses tility to the Allies amongst the German people

THE MISERABLE NEGOTIATIONS between French and British The British military commanders respecting the use which the French Zone. may make of the British zone of occupation is protracted and pettifogging. Many moves in the contest for wealth and power between the rivals are veiled from public knowledge. Of one thing we may be they are motived by the basest selfinterest.

PRESIDENT HARDING has announced Enter that the United States will now become a member of the Permanent Court of International Justice at the Hague without assuming membership of the League Nations, is an evidence that United States Capitalism is preparing to intervene in its it considers the occasion fitting. The capitalists of the various coun-tries, including our own, are jealously watchtheir commercial interests, caring only quietly, without distress or nausea, the words of a French official to the Press: In six weeks we shall invite you to farewell dinner. The bound limbs of Ger many are beginning to rot."

March 8, 1928.

CHRISTOPHER WREN was paid only £16 13s. 4d. a month for his The Reward work as architect of St.

Paul's. That is a hard fac for those to encounter wh of Genius. pretend that men and women are rewarded according to their abilities under Capitalism. It is true that Wren's four pounds a week would purchase more in Wren's day than at the present time. Nevertheless, there is saying the fact that Wren's income wa paltry as compared to that of any insignifican

THE FRENCH INVASION OF THE RUHR is unifying Germany. T captains of Germany's hea

capitalists, have largely fought their own dividual battle to increase their vast fortu since the war, and have left the Gern State to take care of itself. They refused disgorge their wealth, and left the State stagger under the crushing burden of repa with the smallest possible financial from them, evading even that aid when possible. They were prepared to come terms with the French for the exploitat of the Ruhr; but the French would not operate with them. The French r classes are determined to dominate, both Saar and the Ruhr. They are not prepa to share that wealthy mineral res even with Germany. When the German magnates found

French unwilling to negotiate a business with them as fellow-capitalists; when found the French determined to treat t as pariahs because of their German ality; then the German capitalist to turn for protection to the they had flouted.

Now at length they have agreed to ass the State out of their vast wealth-on th own terms, of course; the German capital vill not lose so l ng as German Capita survives. Now they place their vast s of foreign money at the disposal of the man Government, which is their creat Thereby the remarkable feat of driving he mark whilst the franc falls is Manifold are the absurdities and contract ons of the Capitalist system! Germany helpless under an armed invasion; the man people starve, yet German money a ciates in value by the manipulation of exchanges! City merchant of his day Moreover should be observed that the private prop owners of Wren's day prevented the carry out of his plan for rebuilding London after Great Fire. The owners of slum pro prevented the creation of the great 90 feet wide, which were to lead up Paul's; the fine quays by the riverside the squares and public buildings he de

AS THE SPIRIT OF COMMUNISM g we shall see Communis Unemployed ternities springing up in Fraternities. midst. Already such atte are beginning here and many other countries. The unemployed, their equal doles and equal poverty, ma as they are in many districts, might alle their conditions were groups of them to at least a part of their dole and bu They would benefit still m common. they were to pool their labour and work each other on a basis of mutual service group might, for instance, bake its own Unemployed builders would oven, the material and utensils would bought in common, unemployed would bake, and a member or me of the group would take round the break a hand-cart constructed by one of the o Comrades would bring their materials tailors and dressmakers in the group, or the materials would be bought at wholesale prices for the group. There would be no buying and selling or payment for services rendered ers of the group; nor would the group make things to sell at all. Gradually he group would come to do all its buying common, and would not buy anything for it members which one or more of them could make for the rest.

March 3, 1923.

It may be argued that if the unemployed were to do so they would become so contented with the present system that they would make no efforts to change it. We do not anticipate that the dole, which would still be their means of paying the landlord and obtaining materials, is likely to become adequate enough to produce a state of contentment. If that were so, the unemployed with leisure work for each other would be infinitely etter off than men and women who give their ime and energy to an employer, and find that their wages have sunk to the barest sub

No one's Communist fervour will be reduced attempting to practise Communism even nid the difficulties of the present system. Most so-called accempts at Communism and o-operation have been merely the going into business as a capitalist, and the production of commodities for sale.

ON THE RAND. DEATH SENTENCES EXPECTED

By A. B. Dumbar. The strike is over, the revolt passed. We ad thought the hangings were over too. Now, however, it is announced that two more cases have been set down for murder, and that a ew Special Court has been formed. Sir John essels is the president, and Dr. Waal, son -law of the late General Botha, is again on e Bench. The Court sits early in February, and about twenty cases are down for hearing.

The Communists, including myself, who are re not worried unply an act of war

The Chamber of Mines proclaimed a blockde by issuing notice that 2,000 men on the nines were redundant, and their appearance on the properties would be regarded by the Chamber in the same manner as a Governnent would regard a foreign army.

Time was, and not very long ago, when odies of workmen took their notice to quit ork, and starve their wives and families, as matter of course. Times have changed, and has the outlook of the worker.

The steady propaganda of Communism has een planted, and to-day the worker not only tes the right of the master class to say he shall do, or not do, but he disputes ght of the master class to have any say all in his material welfare.

was in this frame of mind that the Rand orkers resolved to join issue with the Chamr in January last year. A conference was alled, and much valuable time wasted on the vorkers' side while the representatives of Capital and Labour were busy trying to solve blem:

Whether it was moral to starve 2,000 niners and their wives and families in order o increase the already big dividends of the asters. The Government was busy preparing for the mergency when it would be called in as final

In a debate in the House of Assembly on Women's Franchise," Mr. Merriman 'he opposed the Bill, as all constitusaid ' nal government depended on force for its xistence, and men supplied the force." He oke the truth. The master class depend on orce for their existence, and the Government ipplies the force

The Government in the late struggle is said have remained neutral! Nevertheless, the ice more than once swept the crowds off e streets with fixed bayonets. In Boxburg fired, and three strikers were killed. till the Government declared itself neutral. as all good Governments do.

The courage shown by Stassen, Long, Lewis, and Hull was remarkable. Indeed, the three latter were accorded a funeral that surpasses anything ever known in this coun y. Their names are sacred, and will live r ever. What effect has all this had on the Movement? Of course, as I predicted in the "Dreadnought " about a year ago, the trade unions suffered. Few people who understand the function of the Unions will mourn this. The Unions were bulwarks of the system, and had to go. It is possible that in the rebuild ing, something better will rise.

AN AMERICAN FRAME-UP.

After a preliminary hearing lasting two days, John E. Merrick, charged with being an accessory before the fact and having planted an infernal machine containing 70 sticks of dynamite near the shoe factory of Knipe Brothers, Haverhill, Mass., was held for the grand jury as accessory, and the com-plaint charging that he had planted the inernal machine was dismissed

Paterson, New Jersey, writes: "We feel that the attention of all those Friends of Merrick state that his arrest is lue to a frame-up and the desire of the police to get a reward of 2,000 dollars offered by interested in ouilding up a sound and strong labour movement should be drawn to the clear-sighted and courageous stand taken a Knipe Brothers. The infernal machine was found on January 4th, and on January 22n1 few days ago by three of the political pri-soners in the U.S. Penitentiary at Leaven-Merrick was arrested two days after the offer the reward. worth, Kansas. Peter R. Green, Harry Lloyd, and Bert Lorton were offered individual pardon, on condition that they consent At the time of the discovery of the infernal deportation. They refused, preferring to serve their full sentences rather than come Under cross-examination, Mr. Knipe, owner out in this way. They maintain that they committed no crime, and should therefore be released unconditionally. Furthermore, they or the factory, admitted that his son-in-law released unconditionally. Furthermore, they insist that all the I.W.W. prisoners should be released together, since they were all con-victed on the selfsame charges, and are information that he "knew all about the equally innocent. By refusing individual dynamite," and had used it while a miner and worker on a railroad construction gang given the world a striking demonstration of and worker on a railroad construction gang given the wor Lee arrived at work the day the infernal the true mean ing of solidarity machine, which, together with the dynamite, was contained in a black suit-case, a strike was on at the Knipe Brothers' Shoe Factory. was connected with a big Boston construction firm that used dynamite. Lee, the engineer of the factory, who removed the dynamite from the internal machine, volunteered the machine was found before any of the other workers. He relieved the night watchman at 5.20 a.m. that morning.

of Judges.

the Schools.

Seized.

falling francs. Perhaps, also, she contemplates bringing English Government worked thus in the Ruhr, and daily news of a growing hos-

THE WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT.

However, the Government was called upon by "the people "-that is, the people who run the newspapers-to come to the assistance of law and order, and a war took place over a front of sixty miles.

One thing surprised everyone, and that was the Government never attacked the Chamber who started the war. It simply got into the strikers with guns, 'planes, bombs, tanks, rifles, and all the death-dealing implements which is part of the stock in trade of all peace. ful Christain Governments. One good thing the Government did was to show what its "impartiality" meant, and the lesson was not lost. After the battle the brutalities committed beggar description.

A Commission was appointed, which included Mr. Brace, from England, who had served the miners so well that the Govern-ment had to find him a job to keep him from becoming one of the unemployed. This Commission decided, as all Commissions do, against the workers. The workers in South Africa have lost raith in comm sions, and we must thank Mr. Brace for this, as I believe it is the first useful piece of work he has done since he became a renegade. The Martial Law Commission also did good work. It fixed the blame on the workers and exonerated the Government, which was just what one would expect from a Commission

Perhaps the greatest farce in the whole business was the Special Treason Court. The justice shown there was so great that the counsel refused to appear for the defence. The Judge-President was obliged to make an appeal from the Bench for a senior counsel. He got one; and with something like two hundred cases awaiting trial, the Court ad journed at Christmas, and has not met since The men, who had been about ten months in gaol awaiting trial, had fines imposed from £10 to £20 in the Magistrates' Court, and so ended the drama.

Under the Stars & Stripes.

The Iowa Supreme Court has decided that ough membership of the I.W.W. has been eld to be illegal, in itself, by many Courts ere is no warrant for this ass According to the Criminal Syndicalism Act sabotage is a punishable offence. In the case of an I.W.W. member, named Ton, Judge Milo Smith, at Marion Hau, instructed the jury that:

abotage means the practice which teaches withdrawal of efficiency—that is, either to slacken up and interfere with quality or production or give poor service. or the destruction, directly or indirectly, or injury to the property rights of an employer by an employee, or one acting for him in the furtherance of industrial or political nds or his own pecuniary interests

The Supreme Court of Iowa held, however, that sabotage must include malice and injury to property stice Weaver spoke of the syndicalism law as: the product of conditions created by the war—an extraordinary piece of legislation which finds moral justification, if any it has, in the exercise of the State's war power tor protection against the machinations of its enemies from within and without.

But it contains much which is ill adapted to normal conditions in a demo cracy, and its vague and boundless generali ties afford material for endless trouble. convictions under it should be entered ex cept upon the clearest evidence. Has the I.W.W. general strike threat influenced the Iowa Supreme Court?

Four of the six Iowa Supreme Court Judges upheld the introduction of evidence obtained by unlawful means. The other two, Judges eaver and Preston, dissented. Weaver said eaver said: "There is no apparent reason why we should overrule our former holdings as to the admissibility of evidence obtained by unreasonable or unlawful search or seizure in violation of constitutional prohibition of such acts. That guarantee of protection is expressly stated in the fourth amend ment to the U.S. Constitution.

In the face of our constitutional guaran tee it is disconcerting to find the Iowa Supreme Court giving adherence to the pro positions that evidence is admissible, ' how ever unfairly and unlawfully obtained, even when it is procured under circum stances ' which met with the unqualified disapprobation of the Court ' so long as the accused has not been compelled to do some positive, affirmative act inculpating him-

The United States once had a more or less, democratic constitution; but successive Gov-ernments and the Supreme Courts have largely abolished it.

The Workers' Prison Relief Committee of

'ELIZABETH STUYVESANT. LRICH FRUER "FREDERICK A. BLOSSOM."

March 3, 1928.

From the Publishers.

Railroad Melons, Rates and Wages. A handbook of railroad information, by Charles Edward Russell. (Kerrs, Chicago, two dollars.)

What are railroad melons? This book explains that they are profitable little, or it may be great, opportunities for the "insiders," in other words, those who already hold ck in the company. Here is an instance f a water-melon given to the stockholders in he Great Northern Railway Company of J.S.A. in 1893: 5,000,000 dollars of addional stock was issued to the stockholders at par, that is 100, when the market price, the rice that new-comers were expected to pay, as 140. This was a melon of 2,000,000 to the stockholders, and added .000,000 dollars to the capitalisation of the ilway. The book is a striking romance of apitalism. It remarkably demonstrates the tificiality and dishonesty of the Capitalist ystem, as exploited to excess by American harpers, and shows the appalling burden at aces upon the community. We should like serialise the whole book. Since that is early history of the New York Central nd Hudson River Railway. Our readers ust understand that the exploitation pracised by the manipulators grew from year to ear till their iniquities entirely outshone ose upon which we are about to touch. In subsequent issue we shall give some further Our readers should bear in mind that apitalism is international, and that these

At periods prior to seventy years ago the tate of New York had lent to eight groups gentlemen the sum of 50,048,496 dollars, ould eight railway lines, on the underof course, that the money be reanding. That money, however, never has been, never will be, re-paid.

essed the Syra-

Another group of gentlemen obtained, by had lent its money, and who actually posessed eight railway lines, were uniting their entures at this time.

' premium bonds.'

taxpayers of New . ork.

The new company now issued a further 000,000 dollars of "premium bonds," which ere distributed free of charge to those who eady had shares-more water! The capipremium debt certificate

The point of all this is that the fares which large are based on the rate of interest on capital which the legislators consider should thing of his own choosing, something which pe paid. Interest is paid on the fictitious bonds, and thus the interest paid on the was to be his own creation and the expression of his own ideas. These last are the merits money actually invested is considerably larger than appeared to be the case. It must the school; its demerits are that its audents rarely take part in or come in connot be forgotten that the Mohawk Valley Company had 2,463,250 dollars' worth of tact with constructive work that is to be put to use. The acquisition of technical efficiency shares given to it in return for non-existent s undoubtedly retarded thereby, and much of capital it was supposed to possess, when it came into the combine. the zest necessary to the highest accomplish ment is also lost The watering of stock continued apace. In commercial industry the profit to the employer and the wage to the worker are placed, both by employer and by worker, before mastery of the craft and the produc-tion of useful and beautiful objects. The 1868 the capital was supposed to amount to 28,795,000 dollars. On its largely fictitious stock the New York Central paid 6 per cent. in 1854, 1855, 1856, 1857; 7 per cent. 1858 and 1859; 8 per cent. a year between 1859 and 1865; 9 per cent. in 1866 and 1867. In 1867 it petitioned the legislature for perlatter are apt to be regarded as only necessary in so far as they minister to the former. Mechanical efficiency is acquired in the prac-tice of industry with a rapidity uncommon in mission to increase its passenger rates, on the ground that at the existing rates it could not the schools. Girls and boys who have worked earn a just and reasonable profit. Mean while the Hudson River Railway had a capi a few months in the potteries learn to paint Meanmore accurately on slippery cups and saucers than students who have studied an equal time tal stock of 6,962,971 dollars liberally watered. In 1868 it doubled its stock and sold the new in the schools of art do on the paper nicely strained on their drawing-boards, using the finest sable brushes and water colours. issue to the insiders at 50 cents on the dollar, the market rate being more than par. This But the boys and girls in all but a few was a very juicy water-melon branches of industry soon reach the end of their progress. Their creative faculties are On December 19th, 1868, the directors of the New York Central voted 7 2-3rd per cent. stulified, or altogether unawakened, because they are kept to the production of a few dividend, and gave to each stockholder free additional stock to the extent of 80 per cent. stereotyped objects. of his holdings at the time. Commodore Vanderbilt, a leading railway

Only in rare instances does commercial industry supply scope to the creative faculties. light, decded that the stock was too valuable to be widely distributed. By manipulations he was able to bring about through his vast Therefore, in commercial industry there is Ilmost no living creative art. The Wedgwood pottery is but a dead copying of a beautiful art that was once alive. The proalth, he caused the price of New York Cen wealth, he caused the price of New York Cen-tral stock to fall from 135 to 84. The small people took fright and sold. Meanwhile, Vanderbilt bought stock. The directors then met and voted a cash dividend of 7 2-10th ductions of the famous Copenhagen porcelain factory, though tainted by commercialism, have yet something of living and developing art in them, because the workers there are per cent., and a stock dividend of 20 per cent. encouraged to make designs on their own The next move was to amalgamate the York Central and Hudson River. For their account without being compelled to turn out 13,900,000 dollars' worth of stock in the old company, the Hudson River stockholders re-ceived 29,651,800 dollars' worth in the new, whilst the 28,795,000 dollars' worth of stock designs continually in order to assure their living. Those workers display an interest and pleasure in their work which, in heightened measure, will obtain throughout industry in the New York Central became 59,605,650 dollars' worth of stock in the new company. under Communism. The craft guilds of the past were somewhat More than 50,000,000 dollars' worth of stock vitiated by production for profit, but they gave to their members the opportunities for enjoyable work and craft development which were merely gifts by Cornelius Vanderbilt to himself and his family. gave to th odern industry absolutely denies to the vast najority

COMMUNISM AND ITS TACTICS.

Moreover, every student was enco

Those who have been students at a school of art and craft, which has been fortunate enough to be entrusted with some piece of work destined for actual use, will realise something of what industry will be under Communism. They will remember with in the actual workshop without losing the pportunities for study and experiment Communism. They will remember with pleasure the zealous fervour with which the its own school departments. idents threw themselves into the effort, the To-day the opponents of Communism turn to Russia for evidence against Communism and to prove the failure of the Soviets. It friendly emulation in efficiency, the general etermination to achieve as fine a repossible in the collective work. Everyone was enthused by the thought that this was cannot be stated too emphatically that the Russian Revolution has not succeeded in no mere exercise, but an object needed and desired. The finest and most difficult parts of establishing Communism, and that the Soviet Constitution has only been very parthe work were done by the teachers and more tially applied. Moreover, the Russian Soviets are not regularly constituted, since accomplished students, the easier and more mechanical tasks were willingly performed by those who were least advanced, who, neverthey include representatives political arties, representatives of political gro theless, felt that their turn to execute thing ambitious would come with the acquisi-tion of further skill. In the tasks set merely rade Unions, Trades Councils, and Co-operative Societies, as well as representatives of for their training, the students had already learnt that their own stage of progress deterworkshops. Pravda " of April 18th, 1918, published mined the sort of exercises their teachers set following regulations for the Moscow them, and now when engaged in this joint enterprise, for which all had set the highest possible standard of efficiency, they realised that for the sake of the whole work no one viet elections " Regulations for Representation. "Establishments employing 200 to 500 workers, one representative; those employshould be allotted a part that was beyond his skill. Every student, however, even the ing over 500, send one representative for every 500 men. Establishments employing dullest, firmly believed in his own capacity less than 200 workers, combine for purpose for progress-otherwise he would have up this sort of study and turned to something representation with other small estab aged to design, to invent, to learn, to do things that were at present beyond the range of his capacities. Every one of them spent a considerable part of his time in doing some-Ward Soviets send two deputies, elected at a plenary session. "Trade Unions with a membership not exceeding 2,000, send one deputy; not ex-ceeding 5,000, two deputies: above 5,000,

THE WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT

Esperanto.

LESSON 9. Future Tense.

The Future Tense (or time) ends in -OS. Mi venos, I shall come; ŝi venos, she will come;

li parolos, he will spe Note the three Simple Tenses:

The Present Tense (time) ends in -AS; mi tenas, I hold; vi tenas, you hold. Past Tense (time) ends in -IS; mi The tenis. I held The Future Tense (time) ends in -OS; mi tenos, I shall hold. nese Simple Tenses, there are Compound Tenses. A Compound Tense consists of est-as, -is, er with a Participle; i.e., Tenata, being held (Present)

Tenita, (having been) held (Past). Tenota, about to be held (Future).

A Participle (tenata, etc.) helps to form the Compound Tense of a Verb; or we may say that a participle participates in forming the mpound tense, for example: Present: Li estas tenata, he is being held.

Past: Li estas tenita, he has been held [literally, " he is (in a state of) having been

Future: Li estas tenota, he is about to be held

You will notice that the "time" is indicated in Esperanto by the A, I, O in -ata, -ita, -ota. In English the "time" is shown in the words being (Present), has been (Past), about to be (Future), the word held being the same in all three cases.

A Participle is usually in the form of an adjective-that is, it ends in -a. But it may, on occasion, be used with the ending e (adverb) or -0 (noun).

The above participles are said to be Pas-sive (i.e., the opposite of Active).

Estas is called an auxiliary verb, b as in the instances given above, it helps to form a compound tense of a verb.

De. When the preposition de follows the participles -ata, -ita, -ota, it means Compare with " a language understanded of "-in Esperanto, " lingvo komprenata de la popolo.")

Vocabulary.

perdita, (having been) lost portata, being carried or worn vundita, (having been) wounded (having been) built construi finita, (having been) finished (having been) begun pagita, (having been) paid skribita, (having been) written parolata, being spoken uzata, being u farota, about to be done. de. of, from or by Johano, John sekve, consequently jam, already ankoraŭ, still lingvo, language baldaŭ * (pronounce bahl-dow), soon.

'iranslate: La libro estas perdita de Johano (by John). Li estas vundita kaj sekve estas portata La domo estas konstruita; ĝi estas am finita. Domo, kiu estas konstruata, an oraŭ ne estas finita. Mi estas pagita de (by) tiu persono. Lingvo, kiu estas parolata, estas lingvo uzata. Laboro ne komencita estas laboro farota (to be done). Laboro jam komencita estos (will be) baldaŭ finita.

* Aŭ is pronounced somewhat like ow in cow, endow. It really consists of the sounds ah-oo blended into one syllable

Now as the State is not to govern, it may be asked what the State is to do. The State is to be a voluntary association that will organise labour, and be the manufacturer and ur, and be the manufacturer and distributor of necessary commodities. The State is to make what is useful, the individual

LESSONS FOR PROLETARIAN SCHOOLS.

LIGHT ON THE OLD TESTAMENT. All peoples have passed through primitive ommunism; and the Hebrews, some of whose agitators and historians wrote the Old ent, went through the stage of primiive Communism, like all the rest. After communism had disappeared it was looked ack upon with regret. Hence the tradition t the Golden Age common to all peoples. At first they were nomads—that is to sa a wandering people, who roamed about the Arabian and East Egyptian deserts. They were organised in tribes and clans, holding their property in common. In the twelfth century B.C. they invaded the fruitful land of Canaan and conquered its people, who were more civilised, in the sense that they were further advanced in many sorts of knowledge, and who had become less accustomed to fighting than tney.

The Hebrews at that time knew no such thing as private property in land. Their eattle and all their possessions they held in common. They divided the land of Canaan by amongst their tribes, and each tribe divided its portion amongst its families or clans; but the land was still a common posion; the families worked it for the benefit of the tribe.

In time, however, partly, perhaps, from contact with Canaanite civilisation; partly through uninterrupted possession and the in-dividual cultivation of the soil, land came to be regarded as absolute property. Under pressure of any misfortune, some sold or mortgaged their land; and, being left desti-tute, became the servants of others. The old equalitarian society of social brothers and sisters, who shared their all in good times and bad, passed away. In the days when the Hebrews roamed the desert as Communists, their highest god was JHWH (Jahweh or Jehovah). He was a war hero, and also a god of tribal cohesion. him some sacrificed meal, and some a ab. He commanded them to do right; to be just to each other, frugal and austere, for the desert is not a land of abundance, and to be valiant in battle—in short, to do what they believed to be right; for he was, of course, their own creation and the embodi-ment of their ideals of righteous conduct.

The Caananite god was Baal. He was the symbol of nature's fruitfulness in a land of milk and honey, corn and wine; he was the god also of fruitfulness in mankind; for that fertile country could support many people and agriculture found labour for many hands The altars of Baal were the scene of luxurious inquets, and his sacred groves were the haunts of lovers.

The Communist society of the Nomad Hebrews was gradually transformed into the society based on private property of the Canaanites; and as their social customs changed, so their religious ideals changed. Some Hebrews became worshippers of Baal; others invested the worship of Jahweh with the characteristics of Baal worship.

The prophets of the Old Testament were those who opposed the private property sysinto which the Hebrews were drifting with the class distinctions, the poverty and injustice which were its inevitable results, nd who objected to the forms of Baal wor-The Hebrew prophets, as they called, the social agitators of their day, clothed themselves in the garments of desert nomads, and went forth to preach lustily against the new order. Elisha championed against the new order. old religion. Amos, Isaiah and Jeremiah led the class struggle of the dispossessed demanding social justice. Let those who have never read the Old Testament in this light turn again and re-read it, and they will find it glowing with meaning. They will realise that these are the fervent outpourings o impassioned agitators

Canaan was constantly menaced upon its State is to make what is useful, the individual borders by the other tribes moving on from ties and ame is to make what is beautiful.—Oscar Wilde. the barren deesrt. The constant warfare needs of all.

with invaders created the desire for a king who would organise the defence of the coun-try. The power of Israel grew. The Israelites had gained possession of the caravan roads and a portion of the sea coast They traded with the Phoenicians. Their trade grew, and they engaged in trade wars. They conquered Elath, the Red Sea port, in order that they might import gold from Ophin and the products of India. Opulence and luxury grew greater among the wealthy, whilst increased and the unfortunate became the bond-slaves of their creditors. Usury de eloped extensively. The agitators denounced the new Capitalism.

The merchant has the balances o deceit in his hand; he loveth to oppress And Ephraim said, I am become rich, und me wealth. Isaiah thundered:

"Woe unto them that join house to house, that lay field to field, till there be no room and ye be made to dwell alone in the midst of the land."

Jeremiah told the story of the fall from Communist righeousness, recalling to the tribes of Israel their old desert life, and de claring that his were the words of Jahweh

"I remember thee, the kindness of the youth, the love of thine espousals, how thou wentest after me in the wilderness in land that was not sown. Israel was ho ness unto the Lord. And I brought yo into a plentiful land, to eat the frui But when ye entered, ye defiled thereof. my land, and made mine heritage an abomination.

MUTUAL AID

We heard a lot about self-help last century and I think the masses have yet to learn When they are wise they to help themselves. ill help themselves to all the means of pro-I believe in self-help, with one pro duction. viso: that you do not help yourself to any thing of which others cannot have the counterpart on equal terms. Walt Whitman wrote that phrase, and in our spare moments we turn sometimes to other things that Walt Whitman wrote Why do we live dull, meaningless lives

Why this everlasting effort to make ends meet, to go on existing for no purpose in par ticular? Why are we like a lot of sheep knowing not where to go, and following an old lead that is given?

Let us remember in what kind of a system we live. We call it the Capitalist system because it exists primarily for the benefit of Capitalists; but you and I, fellow-worker, ar not Capitalists, nor do we desire to be.

The Capitalists, hor do we desire to be. The Capitalist system is based on the idea that some people have the right to use other people for the purpose of making profits. One great idea is not to engage in productive work yourself, but to cultivate what is known usiness or professional acumen, and so tain a privileged position, carrying with it t legal right to extort from others the mea of a very comfortable livelihood. Sometin elievers in this system say very frank thir as when Mr. J. M. Keynes admits that it doubtful whether the system can emp everybody except at the very top of a boo

Those who believe in the Capitalist system have one regret about it; that while it co tinues to turn out profits and good times f the few, it has also a nasty habit of turnin out a few prophets for the many.

Some of these prophets go about preachin Communism. You, fellow-workers and work less, have heard a lot about Communi through the Capitalist Press and the age and stalwarts of Capitalism, but it is usual about what Communism is not. The Communist community is a state society in which every one does his or share of work according to his or her capac and receives from the necessities and comf produced by such common labour the nece ties and amenities of life that are the comm ngs do not only happen in America.

Company, running udicious lobbying, permission to build an-ther railway to run between the same cities. They called themselves the Syracuse and Jtica Direct Company, and said they had a sapital of 600,000 dollars; but not a cent of hat money was ever paid in. The gentlemen to whom New York State

Syracuse and Utica Direct now threaand to upset the plans of the others by hilding their own line to compete with them, they were given a share in the existing their 600,000 dollars, which had never sen, they were given 600,000 dollars' orth of shares in the new amalgamated com-any—the New York Central; half these were

Thus eight genuine companies were conidated, and one fake one. There was also nother fake company, the Mohawk Valley, hich had a nominal capital of 1,575,000 ollars, but in reality nothing at all save a ermission to build, given by the generous gislators of New York State. Even the ght genuine companies had much watered and their original capital belonged to stock of the company was now 22,923,000 llars, more than half of which represented actual investment, but was purely ficti-The books of the company were sysnatically cooked, and for 25 years these premium bonds " were described as an et in the company's books under the title

vay company in New York State may

March 3, 1923.

THE WORKERS' DREADNOUGHT.

The Soviets under Communism will bring industry to all the best features of the school and unite them to practical work. When profit making is eliminated, the young stu-dents will be able to gain technical experience the school provides: the industry will have

Russian oreigners living in Russia, representatives of

March 3, 1928.

one for every 5,000 workers, but not more than ten deputies for any one union. "The Moscow Trades Council sends five

deputie

Political parties send 30 deputies to the Soviet; the seats are allotted to the parties in proportion to their membership, provid-ing the parties include four representatives industrial establishments and organsed

Representatives of the following Na-al non-Russian Socialist parties, one representative per party, are allotted seats (a) "Bund" (Jewish)... (b) Polish and Socialist Party (Left)

(c) Polish and Lithuanian Social-Democratic Farties.

(d) Lettish Social-Democratic Party.
(e) Jewish Social-Democratic Party.

(e) Jewish Social-Democratic Farly. The intention in giving representation to these various interests was, of course, to dis-arm their antagonism to use Soviet Power. and to secure their co-operation instead; but the essential administrative character of the the essential administrative character of the Soviets was thereby sacrificed. Constituted thus they must inevitably discuss political an-tagonisms rather than the production and dis-tribution of social utilities and amenities. The Russian Soviets sprang into life in the crisis of the revolution of March 1917. They had not been created beforehand in prepara-discussion in the production tion for it. They had arisen in the revolution of 1905, but had died away at its fall.

The March 1917 revolution only created Soviets in a few centres. Their number grew, and was added to by the November Bolshevik Revolution; but five years later the Soviet Government admitted that the network of Soviets necessary to cover Russia was not complete. Kameneff, reporting on the quescomplete. Soviets in 1920, stated that even where Soviets existed, their general assemblies were often rare, and when held, frequently only listened to a few speeches and dispersed without transacting any real business. Without transacting any real business. The Soviets were never able to cope with the productive needs. The so-called " New Economic Policy

augurated by the Soviet Government in 1921; a policy that is really a reversion to Capi-talism, of course, inevitably stuck at the root of the Soviet idea. It has robbed the Soviets of their essential function-the administration of industry-and has transformed them into political, and to a large extent powerless,

The introduction of the New Economi: The introduction of the New Economic Policy came as the climax of a retrogressive cycle. At the height of the revolutionary wave had come the call, partually responded to, for the management of industry by the Workshop Councils: then, with the ebbing of the tide and with the growth of reactionary tendencies in the bodies possessing coercive authority, the Workshop Councils were superseded. Management boards were estab-lished, consisting of representatives of the Factory Committees, the Trade Unions, and the Council of National Economy, a body created jointly by the Trade Unions and the created jointly by the Trade Unions and the Soviets. Then followed management by a single person, the Workshop Councils being deprived of all right to interfere in the man-agement of the factories, save indirectly, through their minor share in the election of officials and boards of management. Thus by reducing the functions of the Workshop Councils, the return to private ownership and management of industrial enterprises was facilitated.

The Russian Soviets do not administer production, dstribution and transport. They merely elect a proportion of those who have a share in administering certain industries.

The Workshop Council, the basis upon which the Soviet structure is theoretically supposed to be built; the local Soviet, often in Russia a diversely mixed body, has but little autonomy. It is dominated by the Councils of delegates from wide areas, or the representatives who are endowed with an in creasing measure of coercive authority the the further they are removed from the workshop

Unity and the United Front.

The 'busmen should be congratulated, fellow worker, on having conducted their fight against wage reductions with good fighting spirit; but though they have won this little bout with the employers, they have by no means reached the millennium.

A comrade declares, fellow-worker, that it is contradictory to support the All-Workers' Union of Revolutionary Workshop Councils, and to be opposed to the United Front. This comrade fails, fellow-worker, to understand the purpose of unity and to see where it is useful and where it is not.

Some people want unity of employers and employed; some people want a United Front of all political parties—Tory, Liberal, Labour, Socialist, Communist, Anarchist. Our comrade does not want that: he knows we cannot abolish the system of profit that way. He knows that the only possible union of directly opposed interests or directly opposed classes is an agreement to maintain things as they are.

opposed classes is an agreement to maintain things as they are. He does not realise, however, that the same applies to the union of opposing opinions. So long as people agree to differ and yet to work together, they can make no change in regard to the points on which they differ. Witness the unemployed organisation, which, in order to conciliate various opinions, has dropped from its card its original objective— the abolition of Capitalism. Witness the Communist Party of Great Britain, which, in the hope of being affiliated to the Labour Paty by conciliating the Trade Unions, has dropped all efforts to establish the Soviets in the workshops.

Our comrade considers that in order to secure the unity of the working class we should support no rival to the Trade Unions. He forgets that the Trade Unions maintain the working class in a state of disunity by setting up craft barriers between the workers. An All-Workers' Union of Revolutionary Workshop Committees would open to the workers the means to be united, when they have the will to unite, for the purpose of over-throwing the Capitalist system.

When the workers are united in purpose, their unity will at last become a genuine one Moreover, when the workers are united in purpose, their unity will at last become a genuine one. Moreover, when the workers are united in the Workers' Councils, they will have con-trol of their own organisations and the possibility to control production, distribution and transport. Then they will have the power to change the system.

THE SEARCHLIGHT.

COMMUNIST WORKERS' MOVEMENT MEETINGS

MINERYA CAFE, 144 HIGH HOLBORN. (Entrance in Bury Street.) March 2nd.—Minerva Café, 8 p.m.: Janet Grove, "Kropotkin's Ideas on Communism." Refreshments at moderate prices. Sale and to 8.

Sunday, March 4th.—Discussion on Com-munism, Primitive and Modern, opened by Sylvia Pankhurst, 7 p.m.

COLCHESTER,

Saturday, February 24th, 8 p.m., Culver reet, Colchester: Sylvia Pankhurst, Kenneth Harvey.

Central London Group (Hon. Secretary, S. Cahill) meets Thursday evenings, at 152 Fleet Street, 8 p.m. Volunteers for meetings, clerical work, etc., should write to the Secretary at 152 Fleet Street.

BUILDERS' LABOURERS' HALL,

BUILDERS' LABOURERS' HALL, 84 Blackfriars Road. BEAUTY AND THE BEAST, A Musical Play, By Children of the Unemployed. (Arranged by Mrs. Clara Cole.) Old English Songs and Dances. Character Sketch by Dr. K. S. Bhat. One Big Union Marching Song. Admission by Programme fid

Admission by Programme, 6d

THE "ONE BIG UNION BULLETIN " (Canada's Foremost Labour Paper) will interest you. The One Big Union seeks to organise the workers on class lines. Read about it. Eugene Sue's marvellous story: "The Mysteries of the People," or "History of u Mysteries of the People, or "History of a Proletarian Family Across the Ages," now running in serial form. 10/- per year; 5/- six months. Plebs Buildings, 54 Adelaide Street, Winnipeg, Canada.

	EY'S INTRODUCTION TO ESPERANTO.
LA	LINGVO INTERNACIA. Price 3d. 32 pp.
тн	E CASTLE IN THE AIR By Clara Gilbert Cole.

One penny. A charming fairy-tale of Communism for children of all ages.

- SMALL ADVERTISEMENTS. MUSICAL COMRADES able to set Communist songs to music, or to sing or play at meetings, socials, etc., are requested write to A. H., "Workers' Dreadnought Office
- Office. TO SINGERS, Writers, and Actors.—Use your art as a means of spreading Com-munist ideas. Write for advice to A. H., "Workers' Dreadnought" Office. SIGN AND GLASS WRITING, Art Decorat-
- ing and Gilding, Posters, Tickets and Show cards, Illuminated Signs; first-class work at lowest prices.—H. V. Prince, 97 Church Lane, Charlton, S E. 7
- Darke, Charlton, S.E. (OR SALE—Pocket Kodak, 21 by 31, in leather case, excellent condition. What offers?—Apply, "Dreadnought" Office, 152 Fleet street, E.C. 4. Proceeds to FOR Dreadnought " Fund.
- RADIO for Everybody, by A. C. Lescar-boura, 7/6. Will sell for 6/-. Proceeds to "Dreadnought" Fund.

DREADNOUGHT £500 FUND.

DREADNOUGHT ±300 FUND. Brought forward, £449 4s. 4d. W. B. Findlay, 5/-; Per Mr. Cohen, 6d.; G. Morris, 2/-; J. Hall, 6d.; Collections: Workers' Friend Club, 26/-; Soho Meeting, 27/-; Fieldgate Street Meeting, 18/-; Mr. Rackovitch, 5/-; L. Goldstein, £1; J. Olden-burg, 8d. Total 107 week, £5 4s. 8d. Total, burg, 8d. £454 9s.

Our Bookshop.

We can supply you with any book, magazine, or newspaper, new or second-hand, from British, Colonial, or foreign publishers. Give us all particulars and send cash with order.

M. Bateson:
Mediaeval England	7/6
C. Beard:
Industrial Revolution	1/6
Brestead :
Ancient Society and the Early World	10/6
Bishop Brown:
Communism and Christianism	1/-
Edward Bellamy:
Equality	2/6
Barton:
World History for the Workers	2/6
F. A. Bruton, M.A.:
The Story of Peterloo	1/·
Published by E. Sylvia Pankhurst at 152 Fleet	Street.

at 10 Wine Office Court, Fleet Street, London