

Fashion Designers are generally men. [x This is a point seldom realized by the newspaper reader, ~~standing~~ as he glances complacently over the paragraphs condemning the folly & vanity of woman in relation to clothes.

It would certainly be far better on all counts if women's clothes were usually designed by women - [x As it is] the woman's part in this great commercial industry is the usual one & she does the laborious x.

ill-paid business of drawing in detail per reproduction the various fashions, reworkings &
otherwise sketched out & devised by some man.

There is a great deal of money in this business and a man usually pockets it; a great deal of unskilled labour, women usually carry it two 1