Dearest Mother

We have had a very comfortable journey, reached the Hotel in Paris about 10.30

There were scarcely any porters or waiters left & we had to carry our luggage up & they wd not give us supper 3 flights of stairs, but this was all the trace of trouble here. Everyone most kind.

it seemed a pity that we should.

worst, there no help was desperately needed there - especially for the wretched human wounded for whom a little help was forth coming.

The corps is in the best of spirits everyone as fresh as possible after a good nights rest. We have sent them all out this morning 2.

We thought we saw aeroplanes in the sky as we approached Paris & the huge search lights swept over the sky but I shd. not like to draw to them.

We are probably to stay in the hotel tonight & to begin work at Claridge's on Thursday Friday. We were met at Duple by a Representative of the Red Cross: the ^{English} Consul: & the Harbour Master - all said in charge of the orderlies who are taking the nurses & men out to learn their way about. The women orderlies are going to be a great success I think.

3 very attractive capable girls - who speak French well & know how to look after themselves -

Dr. Murray & I are waiting at home until Madame Perouse the president of the F. R. Crof arrives. She is due at 11 Am & may turn up anytime now.

Much love & care

Yrs always
